J. Harris Reed and Angus S. Wade, 20 S. Broad street, are at work on a set of plans for a Queen Anne cottage at Swarthmore, Pa. The house will be of an irregular shape, the roof jutting down to the front and covering the balcony, which makes a very unique design. Three porches and a porte cochere will be among the principal features. Those building houses with slate roofs have usually used the ordinary red slate; these gentlemen have left the beaten track and substituted a Vermont pink slate. The building will be two and a half stories in height, of stone. The inside finish will be of hard woods and all the modern conveniences. No contracts have been let.

Albert W. Dilks, 1001 Chestnut street, has on the boards a stable for Charles Dissel, which will be built in connection with his residence at Wynnewood, previously described. The stable will be of local stone and brick, with a frontage of 86 feet and a depth of 40 feet. The interior construction will consist of a carriage-room, paved with artificial stone, a harness-room, 17x14, washing floors, water closet, closets for whips, saddles and other stable paraphernalia.

The stable proper will have accommodations for eight horses, fitted up with great care for the convenience and comfort of the animals. Attached to this portion of the building is a semi-circular addition containing two box stalls. A hay chute of novel and useful construction runs from the loft on the second floor immediately in the rear of the horses, where the hay is discharged by the opening of two doors. The utility of this device is evident, as all owners of fine stables are constantly annoyed by the dust settling on carriages, harness and horses.

The second floor is fitted with three chambers, a living-room and bath-rooms, containing wash stand and water closet, a hay loft 34x21, and a carriage and sleigh loft, connected with the ground floor by an elevator 7x15. All of the doors to the building except those to the stable proper, which are of Dutch design, are sliding doors.

Ventilation is obtained by a shaft leading from the ceiling of the stable to the ventilator on the roof, which is of copper. Water will be supplied by a gas engine and will be forced into a tank with a capacity of 1,500 gallons. The whole building, both outside and interior, will be lighted by gas. The entire stable will be surmounted by a black slate roof.

A lodge or gate house will also be built at the corner of Lancaster and Remington avenues. It will be local stone to the second story and frame the additional story, and will contain nine rooms, open fire-places and a round tower for the stairway. The roof will be a pitched slate one. This house is one of the most compact and comfortable buildings that has left the office of any of our architects for a long time.

Camden and Vicinity.

The Methodist church at Atco will probably enlarge their building.

At Millville the Garrison mansion is being altered into a home for the feeble-minded.

On last Thursday about twenty-five hundred dollars worth of lots was sold at Mt. Ephraim. John R. Harris, T. B. Harned, John R. Stockton, Walter P. Blackwood, Amos Wells and Edwin Morgan, all of Camden, were among the purchasers.

Articles of incorporation were filed with the County Clerk, on Thursday, by Theophilus N. Reilly, William M. Reilly, of Haddonfield, and Edward M. Reilly, of Burlington, for the Maxwellton Park and Land Improvement Company, with an authorized capital of $100,000, divided into ten thousand shares at $10 a share par value.

Three two-and-a-half-story houses will be built at North Cramer Hill. Franklin P. Sharp has the contract.

Two frame houses have just been started at Dunbarton.

Robert S. Johnson has been awarded the contract for the mason work on the addition Insane Asylum, of Trenton. $65,000 is the amount. The carpenter work was awarded to James W. Lanning. This contract is for $28,000.

John Delaney, a South Camden grocer, is building a store building at Broadway and Pine streets, Camden, N. J.

John H. Goldbeck, of Philadelphia, has commenced to build a brick and stone factory on the site of the old Morrison mill, for the American Barrel and Stave Company. The building will be 65x100 feet.

Dr. McGeorge, of Woodbury, is building on Morris and Emerson streets. He will also build at the corner of Emerson street and Salem avenue.

Robert Lange, of Cramer Hill, will build on four recently purchased lots at that place. Mrs. E. Coffin, of Philadelphia, has commenced to build on Cooper street.

Edwin Morgan has just started a house at Delair. A number of other houses are now in course of construction and others are to be built in the near future.

Paxinosa Heights.

Easton, Pennsylvania, capitalists have taken in hand a tract of land situated on the hillside adjoining College Hill and lying opposite to Easton, and embracing points known as Anthony's Nose and Chestnut Hill. The tract is located on the south side of the top of the hill, and commands a magnificent view of the surrounding country at all points. A winding road has been cut along the hillside leading to the site where a new and magnificent hotel will be erected.
 It is claimed that a number of new and handsome residences will be built on the hilltops near the hotel site, and that the hotel will certainly be built next year. From the hotel site, Water Gap, Wind Gap and Lehigh Gap, on the north, are in plain view, with all the country between. This view reaches from way into New Jersey to the Blue Mountains, twenty miles west of Lehigh Gap. On the south side the view comprises the Lehigh valley to Chain Dam and over into New Jersey for miles, the direct view south being limited by 'Mammy' Morgan's Hill.

Brick Laying by Electric Light.

The novel experiment of laying bricks at night by electric lights has been tried on a building in Rochester, New York, and the experiment proved a decided success; in fact the workmen greatly preferred working at night, as they escaped the heat from the sun.

This seems to be a healthy innovation, and should be tried on a large scale.

Building says that in London 20,000 men earn their living at carpenter work, 4,000 in Paris, and 4,000 in Berlin. Hours in London are 5 1/2 per week; wages, 18 cents per hour. In other cities in England carpenters work 58 1/2 hours and at 12 cents an hour. Employment is precarious. In Paris the eight-hour day prevails and wages are $1.70.

—The deaf mute population of Philadelphia, numbering about 800, is greatly in need of a church. Some six thousand dollars have been subscribed and is in the hands of Rev. Syle, treasurer of All Souls Guild. About thirty thousand is needed.

Coke as Building Material.

A good suggestion has been made in the Architect by Mr. S. Smirke, R. A., as to the use of coke as a building material. He points out that volcanic scoria or pumice was used in the construction of the vaulting of the corridors of the amphitheatre at Catania. The springing and various main ribs were executed in very sound brick-work, whilst the interstices, spandrels, and other parts of the vaulting, were wholly executed with this light, yet hard, material, in its rough state, but run in solidly with Pozzolana cement. This mode of construction has proved to be substantial by the permanence of the work in these ancient corridors. The dome of the Pantheon at Rome was executed in the same manner, and has stood the sieges, earthquakes, and all other causes of damage and decay, for nearly two thousand years. He adds: "Perhaps I may be permitted to say that I think it worthy of inquiry whether a safe, permanent, perhaps even economical vaulting might not be similarly executed with coke, a material which has many of the properties of this volcanic scoria or pumice." We can assure Mr. Smirke that many gas managers with a big coke heap would only be too delighted to dispose of it to the heroic builder who would practically demonstrate the efficiency of coke as a building material.—English Exchange.

THERE are few things that cannot now be made of paper. Its adaptability is astonishing, and the wildest speculations as to its future are excusable when we reflect upon the present uses of this material. As the delicate substance can be made to serve for steel or iron, it is not difficult to understand how paper is for many purposes now taking the place of wood. A new mill has been started in Sweden for the manufacture of paper from moss. Paper of different thicknesses and pasteboard made of the white moss have already been shown, the latter even in sheets three-quarters of an inch thick. It is as hard as wood, and can be easily painted and polished. It has all the good qualities, but none of the defects of wood. The pasteboard can consequently be used for door and window frames, architectural ornaments, and all kinds of furniture.—Drug, Oil, and Paint Reporter.

The Camden Telegram again inserts its prod, and, if there is anything in sharp words, it means to try their efficacy to the full extent:

What a strange contrast is presented between Camden and the Sandwich Islands. Honolulu, the principal town of the "Cannibal Islands," where Captain Cook was killed, and whose inhabitants lived and grew fat on roasted missionaries, is now a large town. Honolulu, although inhabited by people who a few years ago were actually Cannibals, and thought that missionaries were intended for a Thanksgiving turkey dinner gift, has, by commerce with the outside world, built up a beautiful city, whose buildings are upon a scale of grandeur that would astonish the citizens of Camden. The town is lighted with electric lights, and the Royal buildings and palace of King Kalakaua exceed in beauty and size either our City Hall or Cooper's Hospital, while the magnificent stores of the merchants would make Market and Federal streets look sick by comparison, while the residences of these late Cannibals would exceed anything on Cooper street, and the churches and public schools, in which are taught the native language, are equal to ours. Strange to say, these Cannibals are so far ahead of Camden that they actually have a magnificent opera house and theatre! Here in Camden, which, we are sorry to say, is even behind the Sandwich Islands, our good people have been contributing their mites towards sending missionaries to convert the Cannibalistic heathens, until the Sandwich Islanders have built up a town far more enterprising than Camden. Cannot our citizens be induced to try a little roast missionary themselves?

The Board of Mississippi Levee Commissioners will receive bids at its office in Greenville, Miss., till Sept. 12, for building levees, amounting in all to about 2,000,000 cubic yards. Contractors will be asked to furnish proposals in duplicate, one for payment to be made in currency, and the other for payment in authorized bonds.

A building, to cost about fifty thousand dollars, is to be built at Anniston, Ala., by Mr. R. H. Cobb. The plans are now ready, and the building is to be used for hotel purposes.

The Engineering and Mining Journal for August says: "A new industry has been started in Middlesborough, England. The works where it is being carried on belong to a limited company, the managing director of which is Mr. J. A. Jones. One of the objects of the company is to make paving sets or blocks. These are produced by pouring blast-furnace slag into metallic molds, and then allowing the castings to cool slowly in an annealing furnace. Without annealing, slag cast in whatever form is certain to fly to pieces by the unequal contraction which takes place as it cools. With annealing it can be cast into almost any form, and when finished is as hard and tough as a basaltic rock. Inasmuch as these sets are serviceable as those which are hewn from whinstone, and much more shapely, the manufacture and sale of them is of itself a good thing for Cleveland and all purchasing districts. But there are other manufactures. It has been found that if slag which has been annealed be pulverized and mixed with cement in certain proportions, and pressed into molds, and put aside for, say, three months, it sets into a peculiarly firm, hard and solid mass. The value of these qualities was soon perceived, especially as applied to the manufacture of concrete flagstones. Consequently the company is now making these and laying them down for footpaths, railway station platforms, etc. The standard size of flagstone is about three feet by two feet by three inches. They are flat and smooth and unusually hard on the surface.

As an evidence of the rapid growth of the manufacturing interests of the South it is only necessary to quote from the columns of one of our Southern exchanges, which says that in 1880 there were but 164 cotton mills in operation, and that in 1886 the number had increased to 257. In 1880 there were but 561,360 spindles at work, while the number in 1886 amounted to 1,174,674. In 1880 there were 12,329 looms, which had increased in 1886 to 25,953. About two-thirds of the entire mill power of the South is embraced by the States of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia.

C. E. Sawyer, of Aiken, S. C., and others, will manufacture porcelain. They have a capital of $50,000, and will proceed at once to get ready for manufacturing.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, AUGUST 29, 1887.

A RESOLUTION has been passed by the Board of Health of this city requesting architects to present separate plans of the drainage system of the buildings they may hereafter design. The resolution is a wise one. It is better and easier to correct any imperfection in the sanitary appliances of a house when it has gone no further than paper, rather than to wait until a case of typhoid fever points to imperfect sewage and drainage.

THE Evening Telegram of Camden, began Vol III. No. 1 on the 24th inst. It is a bright newsy paper, saying what it means and meaning what it says.

WE enter upon the fall trade under many favorable conditions. No great commercial disaster threatens the country, although at present there are possibilities of a great stringency in the money market. The nation is making more than it spends. Bank statements, outside of great financial centres, show a steady increase in earnings. Business men owe less than ever before. Mortgages aggregate less. Speculation has but few opportunities. Production is not threatened with fears of accumulations of products. Everything made finds ready purchasers. Business is brisk, prices are good. Payments are prompt, failures few, and prospects for continuous activity most gratifying. This, in a nutshell, is the condition of things today. Builders have apparently as much work on hand as can be accomplished in three months. Permits, while not as numerous, are still sufficient in number and requirements to assure builders of constant employment to the end of the season. Leading local architects express the opinion that if the coming winter is an open one a large amount of work will be done. Prominent local builders express the belief that the operations of the last half of the year will considerably exceed those of the last half of last year.

The liberal distribution of lumber continues in this city and contiguous territory. Prices have varied but slightly, and only in large but rare transactions are there any concessions worth noting. The brick supply is fully up to demands. Fancy makes have been scarce, but all requirements are filled without serious delay. Lath are abundant and have declined to the lowest average prices of the year. The planing mills have a full fall's work on hand. The small shops and supply houses are all busy. Elevator builders report an exceptionally active season, and have booked orders for future delivery. The possibilities of a stringency in the money market are recognized in financial circles, but the business demands will probably be met without a strain.

LABOR troubles are far from being over, but the set backs and draw backs of the past few months have developed weaknesses and a spirit of unwillingness among many to go the lengths which have been mapped out by the leaders.

Employers have gained a strong moral ground by exhibiting all along a willingness to pay all they can afford to pay and to accept and adopt as many of the arbitrary rules of the unions as possible. Injustice can never win, and scores of our labor unions are trying to perpetuate the injustice of compelling employers to pay inefficient labor the same wages that is paid to first-class labor. The right to employ or not to employ is another right which organized labor will in the end fail to successfully oppose.

The labor problem contains some elements or factors which will help to better itself. The organizations are not so threatening as they were six months ago. Employers have gained more points than the workmen. Differences have arisen among the unions which even if they do not destroy them will weaken them for offensive operations. The Knights have lost one-half their membership within a year. The old trades unions are jealous of their power, and hold more and more aloof from the former organization. The great body of unorganized workmen hold aloof from both and ask cui bono when solicited to lend their presence and pocket to the furtherance of the purposes of organized labor.

The fall election brings us face to face with the question as to who should be selected to fill important municipal and county offices. The time to consider the question is now, before wire-pulling is sufficiently advanced and the management of the primaries is assured to that man or that faction. The people must take hold with sober earnestness. Apathy means the abandonment of all hope for a continuance of the present era of economical city government, whereas a vigorous expression of the people's determination to vote for pure men only means improvement in everything pertaining to the management of our city affairs. Extensive improvements are not only available in the near future, but are positively assured, if our citizens can remain content with the present slow but sure pace with which we are daily advancing towards better pavements on our streets, a better water supply, and a more thoroughly protective sanitary condition, not forgetting, of course, better street cleaning, better sewers, and in fact improvement in everything. Our curse has not only been the want of money, but also the extravagant and reckless expenditure of what we have had to spend.

Tide-waiters are too numerous to justify the risk of leaving the question entirely with the politicians to settle. An unmistakable expression of the people's choice can be and should be made at the primaries. If the mistake of nominating improper and impure men is made the people will have themselves to thank for it, and must stand the consequences, no matter how costly.

If every owner of a vacant building lot—whether the same is for sale or held intact and inviolate as an heir-loom in a family who never sell a building lot for fear some progressive chap might improve it and realize an honest dollar or two—would see to it that all weeds were cut down, it would not only improve the looks of the lot, but largely prevent an increased growth of weeds next summer. The average lot-owner is entirely too careless as to its appearance. A good fence and plenty of grass seed have proven to be good investments heretofore, and the cost is small compared with the improved appearance.

ARCHITECTS who have worked their own way to the front and who never knew what it was to be coached along, do not appreciate the necessity for the school help which really exists. Time has changed since the older architects of to-day were learners; more is to be known. Architects to-day are called to pass upon hundreds of questions and matters which thirty years ago never entered into the duties of the old-time architect. New materials are springing into use, tastes are more arbitrary and exacting, the increase of wealth is creating demands which require the highest efforts of the architect decorator to meet. Immense proportions and enormous dimensions are the rules of to-day. Brains are in demand. The world has broken away from its old moorings, and is being ransacked for ideas, models and suggestions, hence it is that greater preparation is needed. The young architect must know what progress has been made. He must become permeated, so to speak, with the spirit of modern requirements. Schools can do much but not enough to familiarize the student with the practical duties of his profession. The true function of a school of architecture would be to develop originality, to cultivate taste, and to sharpen discrimination. A broader foundation must certainly be laid. Travel and foreign study are essentials also, but they cannot, except in a limited number of cases, be filled. The newly created requirements for a higher order of architectural talent will be ultimately met with or without schools, but systematic instruction would do much to simplify a problem which has pressed itself upon us more and more every year.

ACCORDING to New York Fire and Water $246,994 of the fire loss of 1886 was chargeable to cigar stumps and tobacco pipes, and $688,511 to matches. The late big fire at Pittsburg started in a waste-paper basket and cost $500,000. The responsibility is divided between a cigar stump and a parlor match.

It is well known that Pittsburg manufacturers have become so infatuated with gas as a heating power, through its many advantages over coal, that many of the most prominent have declared that they never will go back to coal again, but would, in case of the failure of the natural gas supply, manufacture gas from coal, if it could be had in no other way. That the popularity of gas as a fuel is extending even to the East is evident on all sides, and this preference for it may even necessitate some radical changes in the construction of the better class of houses. The fact is, the age is progressive, and although the cost of gas as a fuel might be considerably greater than that of coal, yet there are many thousands, even in this conservative city, who would gladly pay the extra cost if they could but realize the luxury and comfort to be derived from its use as a heating power. To be sure, many families even in moderate circumstances already utilize gas for their summer cooking, but to bring it into general use as a house-heating power, from kitchen to garret, will take time and education as to its many advantages over coal. The Moslem Light and Heat, a periodical published in Boston, in treating upon this question, says:

"The public are getting tired of the dirty, wasteful coal stove, and if they can get the heat-giving qualities of coal without its attendant disagreeables, they will gladly welcome such an innovation. After all, the gas in the coal is the principal source of heat, and if the coal can only be utilized en masse at a central point, such as a gas works, great economy must ensue over the conversion of a similar quantity in hundreds or thousands of individual households where one-half the heat goes up the chimney. This is leaving out of the question the waste in cinders and rubbish, and the heat wasted in lighting and relighting. Again, the residual products, such as tar or ammoniacal liquor, which are a valuable source of income to a gas company, are absolutely wasted in domestic stoves.

MR. C. MERCHANT, of Merchant & Co., Philadelphia, has just returned from England, where he accomplished two important things in connection with the business of roofing plates. As is generally known, this firm was the first to bring out guaranteed roofing plates, which had before been unknown in this country—their guaranty covering all the different points which enter into the value of roofing plate, thickness, coating, weight, squareness, etc. In order to prevent the use of inferior materials where requisition had been made for their brands, they were obliged to adopt the plan of stamping the sheets with the brand and thickness. Others followed by stamping the brand, but not the thickness; thus making it possible to use thinner and cheaper plates instead of the ones specified. This action on the part of unreliable firms has led Merchant & Co. to take another important step—that of stamping each box with its weight. There are two sizes and two thicknesses of every brand of roofing plate; and the importance of using every precaution to insure the use of just what is specified is therefore evident. Another important step in this connection is an arrangement which Merchant & Co. have made with the makers of the two brands which they represent, that the "seconds" or imperfect sheets (which come out with the majority of brands) shall not be sent to the United States nor sold to any one in England. There will be, therefore, only one kind of goods sold; and the quality of goods bearing these brands is then positively insured.—Master Mechanic.

A Pest Hole that Ought to be Abated

THE slip at Fairmount wharf is the receptacle for the mass of filth flowing into it through the Brown street sewer. The wharves on each side of the slip are owned by the Powers estate, and are rented for business purposes. The slip is useless for shipping, as the stench from the filth that accumulates and remains in it for months together during the summer would make living on ship-board in its vicinity such a risk as no sane man would take. Complaints have been frequently made to the Board of Health, and that Board has as frequently declared the slip a nuisance. The city has made no effort to abate the nuisance further than to dig out its bottom several times, the cost of which was divided between the city and the Powers estate. Mr. Ulmer, the Superintendent of the Lawrence Cement Company, whose storage sheds occupy the southerly wharf, suggests that the only proper remedy is to continue the sewer out to the end of the wharves and fill the slip with dirt. This would, by reclaiming a valuable water front, pay for the cost many fold and stop the nuisance forever.

Useful Hints in Building.

Stains on wood can be removed by strong vinegar or salts of lemon.

A brick or stone wall should be carefully cemented on the outside below the ground.

The cause of sewer gas in a house may often be traced to an uncleaned catch-basin.

Whitewood, if properly finished in oil, makes a very neat casing for doors and windows.

Finish pockets in slide doors air-tight, and thus avoid a common mistake made by builders.

In using California redwood care should be taken with butting joints, as it shrinks endwise.

In the arrangement of living rooms, remember that sunlight and fresh air saves doctors' bills.

Do not use a sandstone close to the ground; it absorbs moisture and soon disintegrates.

Asbestos and Magnesia Steam Pipe Covering is now used extensively for floor-deafening; they are the best improvements of the age.

Make two rooms in a house as nearly as possible of the same size and form, for the convenience of turning carpets, and also so as not to require a waste of lumber.

High doors are fast being relegated to the past; wide openings appropriately draped are much in vogue.

Rubber stops for windows, instead of wood, do away with that nuisance termed weather strips.

Space windows far enough apart to allow blinds to open, and also see that the spaces between will admit of furniture.

Do not use folding doors in a small room, as the space they require to swing in will be of more service for placing furniture.

In designing your house, thoroughly study your plan before contracting, thus saving much annoyance and extras.

A course of slate or roofing composition covering a wall at the ground line will prevent capillary attraction and keep the walls dry.

A contemporary says buy a furnace larger than necessary. For a coal-dealer, yes; for a poor man, decidedly no.

Have your rainwater conductors made with a reversible elbow, so that the first wash of the roof may be turned on the ground.

When plaster ornaments have detached themselves by their own weight, papier mache may be employed very successfully in repairing the damage.

He who expects to build a three thousand dollar house for two, either believes a builder a supernatural being or pays his attorney by the year.

Carpets may be brightened by dusting with a damp flannel mop; also, after the dust has been beaten out, by scattering upon them corn-meal mixed with salt in equal proportions.

Cement for fastening wood to stone: Melt together four pints of pitch and one of wax, and add four parts of pounded brick-dust or chalk. It must be warmed before using and applied thinly to the surfaces to be joined.

To oxidize gold, silver, or brass: Paint over the parts to be oxidized with a solution of chloride of platinum; then let it dry. To make the solution of chloride of platinum dissolve one dram in two ounces of hot water.

How to prevent stone from decaying: The decay of stone, either in buildings or monuments, may be arrested by heating and treating with paraffine mixed with a little creosote. A common "paint burner" may be used to heat the stone.

Panel pictures for doors may be painted on zinc, cut to the proper measurement to fit in the panel. Paint in oil, as if on canvas, and, if possible, with bristle brushes, as broad and simple effects alone are appropriate to this unpretentious mode of decoration.

Loose screws: It is a common thing when a screw or a staple breaks loose, to draw it out, plug up the hole or holes with wood, and then re-insert it. But screws and staples so secured soon come out again. It has been found that a much better way is to fill up the holes tightly with cork. Screws and irons so secured will remain perfectly tight just as long as when put into new wood.—Hill's National Builder.

2202 CHESTNUT STREET.

The above is the new address of Frank Williamson, the stone merchant, formerly of 614 Chestnut Street. Mr. Williamson's removal was necessitated through the great increase of his business. As will be seen by his advertisement, he is the Philadelphia agent for the celebrated Connecticut Brown Stone Quarries, besides which he is also the agent for Indiana Oolitic Limestone, Carlisle English Real Stone, and the Oxford Wyoming Blue Stone.

Mr. Williamson's success is due to his pluck, energy and business integrity; and, although quite a young man, he possesses a veteran's experience and judgment. With hard work, and plenty of it, he has forced his way to the front rank of Philadelphia's busy men.

If application to business and a desire to protect in every possible way the interests of those ordering stone through him merits the consideration of buyers, then Mr. Williamson's business must continue to grow, for these are his strongest characteristics.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1887.

PRICE 15 CENTS

Pasteur's Treatment of Hydrophobia Vindicated by a Committee of English Doctors.

DURING the month of April, 1886, the Local Government Board of the City of London appointed a Committee of eminent English surgeons and physicians to investigate the value of Pasteur's treatment of Hydrophobia.

Several members of the Committee, in order that they might more thoroughly embrace the whole subject, visited Paris and placed themselves in communication with M. Pasteur; observed his method of treatment, and witnessed a number of careful experiments made by Mr. Victor Horsley, the Secretary of the Committee. A full report of the Committee has been published, including an appendix of detailed facts, which were gathered in the course of the investigation, a few extracts from which we give.

The report says that the experiments by Mr. Horsley entirely confirm M. Pasteur's discovery of a method by which animals may be protected from the infection of rabies, and that it would be difficult to over-estimate the importance of the discovery, whether for its practical utility or for its application in general pathology.

As to the length of time the patient would be assured of immunity from rabies through inoculation the report says that there have been no indications during the two years that have elapsed since immunity was first proved, of its being at all limited, and that the protection from rabies secured by inoculation is proved by the fact that if some animals thus protected, and others not thus protected, be bitten by the same rabid dog, none of the first set will die of rabies, and with rare exceptions all of the second set will so die.

Speaking of ninety cases cured by Pasteur, which the Committee were enabled to visit, the report says that among these patients there were twenty-four who were bitten on naked parts by undoubtedly rabid dogs, and the wounds were not cauterized or treated in any way likely to have prevented the action of the virus. There were thirty-one in which there was no clear evidence that the dog was rabid; others in which the bite, though inflicted undoubtedly by rabid animals, having been through clothes, may thus have been rendered harmless. Among these, therefore—the report says—it is probable that even if they had not been inoculated, few would have died. Still, the results obtained in the ninety cases may justly be compared with those observed in large numbers of cases similar to these as regards the uncertainties of infection, but not inoculated. The estimates published as to the mortalities in such unsorted cases are, as we have said, widely various. We believe that among the ninety persons, including the twenty-four bitten on naked parts, not less than eight would have died if they had not been inoculated. At the time of the inquiry in April and May, 1886, which was at least eighteen weeks after the treatment of the bites, not one had shown any signs of hydrophobia, nor has any one of them since died of that disease. Thus—the report adds—the personal investigation of M. Pasteur's cases by members of the Committee was, so far as it went, entirely satisfactory, and convinced them of the perfect accuracy of his records.

The Committee also says that the number of deaths assigned by those who have sought to prove the inutility of M. Pasteur's treatment is, as nearly as we can ascertain, 40 out of 2,682, and in this number are included the seven deaths from bites by wolves, and probably not less than four in which it is doubtful whether the deaths were due to hydrophobia or some other disease. Making fair allowance for uncertainties and for questions which cannot now be settled, we believe it sure that, excluding the deaths after bites by rabid wolves, the proportion of deaths in the 2,634 persons bitten by other animals was between 1 and $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent., a proportion far lower than the lowest estimate among those not submitted to M. Pasteur's treatment, and showing even on this lowest estimate the saving of not less than 100 lives.

Of 233 persons bitten by animals in which rabies was proved, either by inoculation from their spinal cords, or by the occurrence of rabies in other animals or in persons bitten by them, only 4 died. Without inoculation it would have been expected that at least 40 would have died.

Among 186 bitten on the head or face by animals in which rabies was proved by experimental inoculations, or was observed by veterinary surgeons, only 7 died, instead of at least 40.

And of 48 bitten by rabid wolves, only 9 died, while, without the preventive treatment, the mortality, according to the most probable estimates yet made, would have been nearly 30.

Between the end of December, 1886, and the end of March, 1887, M. Pasteur inoculated 500 persons bitten by animals proved to have been rabid, either by inoculation with the spinal cords or by the deaths of some of those bitten by them, or as certified by veterinary surgeons. Only two have died, and one of these was bitten by a wolf a month before inoculation, and died after three days treatment. If—the Committee adds—we omit half of the cases as being too recent, the other 250 have had a mortality of less than 1 per cent instead of 30 or 40 per cent.

From the evidence of all these facts the Committee says, We think it certain that the inoculation practised by M. Pasteur on persons bitten by rabid animals, has prevented the occurrence of hydrophobia in a large proportion of those who, if they had not been so inoculated, would have died of that disease; and we believe that the value of his discovery will be found much greater than can be estimated by its present utility, for it shows that it may become possible to avert by inocula

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, SEPT. 5, 1887.

COLONEL SNOWDEN would display greater judgment if he curtailed the size of the floats intended for the coming parade in order that Chestnut and Market Streets may be utilized as part of the line of march.

Parades that have heretofore been confined to Broad Street have given very little satisfaction to our citizens, owing to the want of suitable positions to view them from. The Broad Street proposition may prove an excellent thing for the horse railroad companies and stand speculators, but outside of these interests there is very little in it.

We beg to remind Colonel Snowden of the fact that Chestnut Street has always been roomy enough for Barnum's and Forepaugh's large wagons, with a drove of horses dragging them; and it is hardly possible to imagine a float of any description equaling them in either length or height. As to the brick pile in front of the Keystone Bank, or the cost of its removal, it need not be an obstacle, for if the means cannot be obtained to defray the expense of removal in any other way, there is sufficient enterprise among the Philadelphia newspapers to tackle the job on their own account; and the REAL ESTATE RECORD can be relied on for its share of the expense.

A COMPARISON of the daily transfers of real estate as they are presented in the columns of this journal with those published in other journals of this city, will at once establish the correctness and reliability of the REAL ESTATE RECORD on this, as well as on all other matters pertaining to the building and real estate interest of this vicinity.

The real estate man who is satisfied with the data presented in the columns of many of our contemporaries, has little liking for his business, and has very little ambition to become master of it. A case in point was presented to our notice but a short time ago, wherein an active real estate man sought to obtain reliable information as to the value of a down town property, and who, after obtaining the opinion of his friends and after hunting through the columns of many newspapers in vain, as a last resort sought the columns of this journal, and to his great satisfaction, found records of the sale of no less than four properties of the same character on the same street, two of which were on the same block; it is needless to say that that gentleman immediately became a subscriber for this journal.

As it is with our weekly record of the transfers of property, so also is it with the rest of our weekly reports; we aim to be at all times as correct as it is possible for our careful and painstaking efforts to make us.

ACCORDING to Professor William Blasius, the Philadelphia Elevated Railroad fever arises from a want of pure air; the Professor also asserts that the disease increases in geometrical proportions as the city grows in size. Men, he says, are as dependent upon the air as fish are dependent upon the water. Poisonous substances in the air we breathe are as dangerous to our health as those mixed with the food we eat. Rapid transit is a necessity, if for no other reason than as a sanitary measure.

Touching upon the question of selecting a healthy site for a house, the Professor says that the prevailing notion that high ground is more healthy than low ground, is bare of any sound reason, and that if the statement was reversed many sound reasons could be advanced to prove that low ground was more healthy than high ground.

Professor Blasius also claims that the prevailing air current during the hot season, and the relative position a house has toward a misma breeding locality, has more to do with deciding the sanitary condition than the nature of the ground; that in the temperate zone the prevailing direction of the air during the hot season is from a southerly direction, and that if a house stands on the side from where the prevailing air current is coming, its locality is consequently healthy, no matter how close it may be to a swamp. The Professor ends his pamphlet with the following rules for the selection of a healthy site for a house: Select soil which permits the water to permeate, and avoid clay ground. Select undulating ground, which makes good drainage possible. Place your house to the west or southwest of swamps, marshes and thickly-populated cities.

THE Wachita Kansas Opera House trouble is certainly not a creditable affair to the architect in charge—if there was one. It may be another case of the "practical man" getting his work in in the interest of the owners, in order that an architect's commission might be saved. At all events, the amusements goers of Wachita have made a very narrow escape, for had the collapse occurred when the house was full of people the consequences would have thrilled the whole country with horror.

We have a few examples of this kind of building right here at home, and there is even now within pistol shot of the office of the REAL ESTATE RECORD a building that is nearly completed, and which was erected under the supervision of a "practical man," no architect having been employed. The building referred to has no other support than a few cast iron posts, which are altogether inadequate, and which have not even been filled with concrete. Of course it is intended to fill the floors above with heavy goods. If a fire should take place within this building at any time, that practical fireman who would go within a hundred feet of it would be a fool.

It is a peice of short sightedness, notwithstanding the estimates as to the standing capacity of the side walks of Broad street, to confine the parade to that thoroughfare.

tion, even after infection, other diseases besides hydrophobia. Some have indeed thought it possible to avert small-pox by vaccinating those very recently exposed to its infection; but the evidence of this is, at the best, inconclusive, and M. Pasteur's may justly be deemed the first proved method of overtaking and suppressing by inoculation a process of specific infection. His researches have also added very largely to the pathology of hydrophobia, and have supplied what is of the highest practical value, namely, a sure means of determining whether the animal which has died under suspicion of rabies was really affected with that disease or not.

A $2,500,000 Fire Loss in London.

The recent burning of Whiteley's Great London Bazaar caused a loss of $2,500,000. There was very little insurance upon it, as the English companies refused to take the risk. The place had already been set on fire before, as was supposed, by jealous and neighboring tradesmen, and it was held by the English underwriters that it was only a question of time before it would be destroyed. The whole of the London fire department were engaged at the fire.

New Track of the Atlantic City Turf Association.

The A. C. T. A. has secured a plot of ground in the northeastern section of Atlantic City, located on Mediterranean Avenue on the south, Clam Creek on the north, Maryland Avenue on the west, and one hundred and fifty feet beyond Massachusetts Avenue on the east, containing about 79 acres of ground, on which they intend to lay out a mile track and necessary buildings. The buildings will consist of an ornamental entrance, two grand stands, one 212 x 75, and the other 350 x 50; a superintendent's residence, which will cost about $7000, paddock, and necessary stabling.

The main entrance will be placed diagonally across the corner of Mediterranean and Maryland Avenues. Immediately inside the entrance, and between it and the grand stands, will be erected a fountain surrounded by decorated grounds.

The principal stand, 212 feet by 75 feet, will consist of basement, first floor, and spectators' gallery. The basement will contain restaurants, billiard room, bar room, and necessary adjuncts.

The first floor will be 23 feet high, and will contain a hall, ladies' and gentlemen's parlors, and office.

The hall, which will be the largest in the State of New Jersey, will be 75 x 150, with a 12 foot gallery, and capable of seating 4300 people. Above this is the spectators' gallery, with seats arranged in tiers, and seating 4000 people. The whole building is surrounded by a veranda 12 feet wide, 2 stories high, and capable of holding 2000 people.

This building will hold 10,000 people when the hall, stand, and verandas are filled. The other stand is capable of holding 6000 people, so that the two stands will hold 16000 persons.

The superintendent's house is of ample size, frame construction, and has a circular tower on one corner. The house will be heated by steam from a small boiler house erected in the rear for that purpose. Inside the track will be the judges' and timekeeper's stands as usual.

The buildings will be completed in time for next season's sports.

Cost of buildings, exclusive of fences, $60,000.

Mr. Brandner, the architect, S. E. corner Sixth and Walnut streets, has just finished a bird's eye view of the track and its surroundings.

Danger in the Stove-Pipe Hat.

That the high silk hat worn by men has been the direct cause of chronic catarrh in its most aggravated form has been a settled question for years; in fact it seems impossible to effect a cure of this loathsome disease, even under heroic treatment, so long as the patient persists in wearing his high silk hat.

Of course the evil is not in the shape of a hat itself, for, as a matter of fact, the shape of a hat, whether high or low crown, has nothing whatever to do with it, but the evil rests with the glazed leather lining which is almost invariably associated with the high hat. This leather encircles the head, and when the hat is worn rests closely upon the forehead. Being impervious to water, it carries upon its surface, even in the dead of winter, a large amount of moisture, which, in the case of the wearer being an active man, amounts in reality to beads of perspiration; as a consequence the forehead is seldom dry when the hat is worn; and the wearer, unconscious of the cause, takes cold after cold, which soon develops into a first-class case of chronic catarrh, which generally proves incurable until the hat is discarded.

Another and greater evil is now charged against the glazed hat band. The wearer of a new silk hat is frequently baffled in his efforts to find the source of the constant and excruciating headache which at times almost drives him distracted, and which is sure to last until the hat band becomes covered with a coating of grease and sweat, and it was only by an accident that the true cause of these headaches has been discovered to be the glazed leather hat bands. An exposure of a glazed hat band to hydrogen sulphide will cause discoloration, an evidence in itself of metallic poison. A careful analysis of such a hat band was made recently, and it was ascertained that it contained no less than 0.0556 drachms (0.8585 grains) of lead per square inch for the entire band. The use of lead for glazed hat linings is said to be an old thing; of course all such danger can be avoided by compelling your hatter to remove the glazed band and replace it with one made from common leather.

The attention of the Board of Health is invited to a row of houses on Bridge Street, Frankford. It is said that the filthy water from the outhouses reaches to the back doors.

Recent Decisions in Pennsylvania in Relation to Matters Concerning Real Estate and Commercial Law.

ACCOUNTS.—Money paid generally upon a bond or other debt; must first be applied to the interest due, and the balance to the principal. This rule does not apply to running accounts. In such cases if interest is allowed upon one side, it must be allowed upon the other.

BELL'S APPEAL.

Jan. 3, 1887.

ASSIGNMENT FOR BENEFIT OF CREDITORS.

—The rule requiring lien creditors of an assigned estate to resort to the personal estate as the primary fund for the payment of their claims is not an absolute one. So held in a case where lien creditors entered into an agreement for a sale of the assigned real estate, in satisfaction of liens in their order and where the fund for distribution was not an actual but a fictitious one, the proceeds of such sale being mainly represented by a mortgage back on the land sold.

SCOTT'S APPEAL.

Feb. 21, 1887.

BAILMENT.—A contract for the purchase of a sewing machine on credit, which provides that until the notes given for the purchase price shall be paid, the machine shall remain the property of the seller and may meanwhile be used by the purchaser and be in his possession, and that if they are not paid the seller may resume possession, is a conditional sale on credit with a provision to convert the sale into a bailment if the price should not be paid. Such provision does not convert the contract into a bailment ab initio.

MACHINE CO. vs. CROWELL.

Jan. 17, 1887.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.—A written obligation annexed to a lease as follows: "In consideration, etc., I hereby agree to become surety for the faithful performance of the conditions of the lease to be performed by the lessee; and in default thereof on his part to be liable therefor as if I was lessee, etc.," constitutes the person signing it a surety, and not a mere guarantor.

The fact that the lessor first proceeded against the lessee, and collected a portion of the rent, does not change the legal character of the obligation assumed by the surety.

SCOTT vs. SWAIN.

Jan. 17, 1887.

MORTGAGE.—An execution of a deed and of a purchase-money mortgage in order to give the mortgage priority over other liens, need not be in fact simultaneous acts.

The mortgage need not contain a recital that it was given for purchase money.

A purchaser is bound to take notice of the contents of a receipt for purchase money endorsed on a deed in the chain of title.

A mortgage for purchase money so described in the receipt upon the deed to the mortgagor, but containing no recital to that effect, dated three days after the deed, but delivered simultaneously with the deed, and recorded within sixty days after execution, is not discharged by a sale of the land in foreclosure under a mortgage dated a day earlier.

ASSOCIATION vs. ERB.

Feb. 7, 1887.

VENDOR AND PURCHASER.—Where the possession is taken and maintained under an express contract of sale, and the vendee (paying part of the purchase money) continues ready to pay the balance upon a conveyance, according to the contract, the relation of landlord and tenant does not exist, and there is no expressed or implied contract to pay rent, and an action for use and occupation cannot be maintained.

BARDSLEY vs. KAAS.

The Penn Bicycle Club's new building at 42d and Girard avenue, is now nearly completed, and will be ready for occupancy by October 1st. A. T. Boyden is the architect. The building is four stories high, with tile roof. Its frontage is 40 feet, with a depth of 50 feet. The first floor will be used for a hall, reception, billiard and ladies' room; the second floor will be occupied by meeting and other rooms; the third floor by riding, bath and janitor's rooms. The building is heated by steam and fitted up with hard woods, stained glass, open fire places, and everything for the comfort and convenience of its patrons.

Bids are now being received for the Church of St. Sauveur, at 22d and DeLancey Place, previously reported. Frank R. Watson, 518 Walnut street, is the architect. Bids will be received up to the 7th.

Henry Taylor, 922 Filbert street, has displayed the plans of seven houses at Front street and Washington avenue. These houses will be built of brick, with blue stone trimmings; four will be two-story and three three-story houses. The old buildings are to be torn down and used as far as practicable in the construction of the new ones.

Monday, September the 26th, is the opening day for the Philadelphia Real Estate Exchange, instead of the 19th, as was first intended.

Emma R. Hansell has purchased for $7,000 the tract of land at Haverford road and City avenue, containing six and one-fifth acres.

WORTH INVESTIGATING.

An estate with the possibility of loss from any cause whatever entirely eliminated, is the latest proposition of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, 921 and 923 Chestnut street. This is an investment that no man, however conservative, can object to, and the proposition is worth investigating anyhow.

REMOVAL.

Mr. A. B. Clemmer, the popular dealer in fine pianos and organs, has removed his ware-room from 1423 to 1517 Chestnut street.

Mr. Clemmer's stock embraces many of the best makes, and his extensive business enables him to offer peculiarly advantageous terms to those buying fine instruments, besides which his guarantee which accompanies every instrument makes it perfectly safe for the most inexperienced purchaser to buy at his house. Mr. Clemmer has been identified with the musical interests of this city for many years, and his present removal is the result of his growing business.

THE BUILDING OF THE PYRAMIDS.—One of the leading granite men of the country, who has made a personal inspection of the pyramids of Egypt, says: "There were blocks of stone in the pyramids which weigh three or four times as much as the obelisk. I saw a stone whose estimated weight was 880 tons. The builders of the pyramids counted human labor lightly. They had great masses of subjects upon whom to draw, and most of their work was done by sheer manual labor and force.

There are stones in the pyramid thirty feet in length which fit so closely together that you may run a penknife over the surface without discovering the break between them. They are not laid with mortar, either. There is no machinery so perfect that it will make two surfaces thirty feet in length which will meet together in unison as these stones in the pyramids meet. They were undoubtedly rubbed back and forth upon each other until the surfaces were assimilated to each other. — Plumbers' Trade Journal.

It is generally agreed that "a really fire-proof building should have its outer walls constructed of good hard-burned brick, faced preferably with pressed brick, and trimmed with terra cotta, as nearly all stones are disintegrated by fire. All interior partitions should be composed of hollow, porous terra cotta, or terra cotta lumber. The floor framing may be either iron or wood. In the former case the space between the I beam joists must be filled in with flat, hollow tile arches, which may be either fire-clay, hard tile, porous terra cotta, or terra cotta lumber. As the strength of a chain is limited by that of its weakest link, it is important that the arches should be so constructed as to entirely inclose the soffits, or lower flanges of the beams, as otherwise these become the vulnerable points of the system."

In England nearly all if not all prisons are built by convict labor. Since 1863 upwards of 5000 cells have been built entirely by convicts. The cost to the Government for their prisons was $358,700, the Government thereby saving nearly $300,000, or in other words these buildings would have cost if done by contract labor over $600,000.

Railroad Track Laid this year in the United States.

The Chicago Railway Age presents some very interesting figures showing the amount of Railway track laid in the United States up to September 1st, 1887. It says that up to July 1st the records show that 3,754 miles of new track was laid in the previous six months. In the last two months these figures have been increased more than 2,700 miles, the aggregate mileage of new main track now reported for the eight months from January 1st to September 1st being no less than 6,462 miles, which has been laid in 40 of the 47 States and Territories, on 219 different main lines or branches.

The total mileage added during the year 1886, if the figures of Poor's new manual may be accepted, was 9,000 miles. That the aggregate for 1887 will greatly exceed these very large figures is indicated by the fact that up to September 1st, 1886, our records showed for the previous eight months of that year a total of only 3,475 miles of new line, or less than half the mileage laid in the entire year. The present year has been exceedingly favorable for railway construction, and work has been pushed forward by the great competing roads with extraordinary energy, so that the proportion of the total for the year already finished is doubtless somewhat greater than that indicated for the previous year, at the corresponding date.

But that the mileage of new track completed during the year 1887 will very considerably exceed our previous inside estimate of 10,000 miles is now beyond a doubt.

The following table summarizes the track-laying for the first eight months of the year of which we now have detailed record:

TRACK Laid FROM JANUARY 1st TO SEPTEMBER 1st, 1887.		No. Roads. Miles.
Maine	1	11
Massachusetts	2	16
New York	4	5
New Jersey	1	52
Pennsylvania	7	43
Maryland	1	11
Virginia	3	35
North Carolina	8	124
South Carolina	3	25
Georgia	5	155
Florida	5	83
Alabama	9	189
Mississippi	3	31
Louisiana	2	53
Tennessee	4	13
Kentucky	5	48
Ohio	12	80
Michigan	7	171
Indiana	4	45
Illinois	6	210
Wisconsin	8	151
Minnesota	7	136
Dakota Territory	11	491
Iowa	7	111
Nebraska	13	536
Kansas	23	1,184
Missouri	10	213
Indian Territory	4	443
Arkansas	7	84
Texas	12	665
Colorado	7	403
Wyoming Territory	1	59
Montana Territory	2	273
California	6	192
New Mexico Territory	1	4
Idaho	1	15
Utah Territory	1	6
Arizona Territory	2	60
Oregon	3	17
Washington Territory	1	19

Total in 40 States and Territories, 219 6,462

These figures have never been equalled for the same time in any other year in the history of this or any other country with the exception of 1882, when there had been laid up to the first of September some 7,000 miles, the total for the entire year subsequently reaching the unprecedented figures of 11,568 miles. Of the 219 lines summarized in the foregoing table track-laying is still in progress upon nearly 100, and is also under way or about to be commenced on at least 50 more. From present appearances it now seems probable that the total new mileage for 1887 will reach very near to if it does not exceed 12,000 miles, thus surpassing the record of construction for the year most noted in that respect in the notable history of railway building in the United States. Already in eight months the new track laid aggregates over 70 per cent of the total in 1886, while it exceeds by more than 80 per cent the total in 1885, namely, 3,608 miles, is almost as much greater than the total in 1884, namely, 3,825 miles, while it nearly equals the total in 1883, when 6,741 miles were added.

Kansas still continues far in the lead, no less than 1,184 miles of new railway lines having been added in that favored State since January 1st. Texas follows with 665 miles, Nebraska with 536, Dakota with 491, the Indian Territory, although barred against settlement by white men, with 443, and Colorado with 403 miles, all laid since January 1st, with more to follow. The five States and Territories first named have more than one-half of the new mileage thus far reported for the whole country. Considerable activity is also manifested in several of the other western States and in three or four of the southern States; but in New England and the eastern and central parts of the country comparatively little is doing. The only portions of the United States in which no new track is thus far reported laid this year are New Hampshire, Vermont, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Delaware, West Virginia and Nevada—7 out of the 47 States and Territories.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, SEPT. 12, 1887.

It is a good idea for parents to cater to the tastes of their boys. If a youngster expresses a desire for a small printing press, a box of tools, a scroll saw, or an amateur photographic outfit, it's a good movement and he should have his desires satisfied. There are many active business men who now look back with great pleasure to their boyhood, and the little workshop in the garret or wood shed is still fresh in their memory and the pride they experienced at the first flush of success, when they mastered what they then regarded as some difficult mechanical undertaking, is far from being forgotten.

This craving for tools arises from a desire to become useful; it is practically the germ of manhood sprouting within the child. It affords a field for thought, and the little fellow works and thinks and dwells with pleasure upon his undertaking, which no matter how insignificant to the adult is to him a question of wonderful importance. Buy these things for the boys, we say, even if you are compelled to relinquish your cigars for a whole year, or must in consequence buy a cheaper carpet for the front parlor.

There seems to exist among a certain radically conservative class a disposition to deprecate what they term the present building craze; these wiseacres shake their venerable heads knowingly and prophesy the most disastrous results which must follow as a natural consequence of "the thing being overdone;" they look upon the building activity of 1887 as a piece of foolishness which will surely yield sorrow to many and joy to the Sheriff.

The impaired vision of these croakers will not permit them to regard the present building activity in any other light than that of wild speculation. Their logical deductions are based upon what they term a supply and demand estimate. They look at the situation from the same standpoint they would use in determining the future price of wheat or any other merchantable commodity. They ignore influences which are really making themselves felt throughout the whole length and breadth of the country, and which are the true incentives that are pushing new buildings up in every city, town and village on the continent. They forget that advanced civilization means advanced ideas as to the character of the houses the people live in; the mud hovel of the savage being the first step, and in keeping with the civilization that rests contented with homes of that character, these timid and conservative people fail to recognize the wants of the civilization of the present decade of the 19th century with its co-existing desire for better homes and better surroundings everywhere.

The building interest to-day is as free from speculation as it is possible to make it. The people have been saving for years, and largely with the single aim of buying homes for themselves, of a quality and character commensurate with their ability to pay. That some who have bought beyond their power of earning must pay the penalty of their own recklessness there can be no doubt, but as a rule the people are purchasing wisely and within their paying ability, and nothing short of a stupendous business panic will change the present desires of the people to be housed under their own roofs. So long as houses find the ready sales they are meeting with everywhere "the thing" is not yet overdone at all events.

The New York Sun recently published a statement which was made in the last municipal reports of the corporation of Chelsea, near London, that, contrary to what has generally been assumed in the relations of occupation and health, the sewer men of that place show marvelous health and vitality, notwithstanding they spend seven hours daily in the sewers, often in cramped up positions, dealing with offensive and dangerous matter. One of the sewer men, who is now pensioned off, is 86 years old, and was a sewer man for more than twenty-eight years; another, who is yet at work, is 74, and has followed this occupation more than thirty years.

This statement, interesting as it is, really disturbs the theories which have heretofore been advanced as to the danger of inhaling gases which are the result of the decomposition of vegetable matter, and yet sufficient evidence can be found to largely corroborate the above statement without going abroad for the facts.

The observing man who was acquainted with the outskirts of this or any other large city twenty years ago, must have been impressed with the singular healthfulness of those poor families who had taken squatter possession of what would seem very unhealthy locations on the edge of large stagnant and oftentimes repulsive bodies of water, composed of surface drainage, sewage, and frequently not a few carcasses of the smaller animals. The odors from these localities were not only repulsive to the more sensitive organs of the stranger, but were frequently supposed to be the cause of dangerous fevers in their vicinity, yet the squatters bid defiance to all sanitary laws, and flourished, if not financially, yet with a plethora of health that was really aggravating to his more sensitive and delicately bred neighbor.

That the English sewer men must breathe the noxious vapors of the sewers they work in cannot be denied, for there is no way of escape; but why is it that they, like the squatters, are invulnerable against the influences of this gas, while other people, with luxurious homes, ventilated under the most improved methods, and who only occasionally enjoy a whiff, sicken and die?

The above facts certainly point to some other cause than sewer gas, for the too frequent deaths that are supposed to be the result of sewer infection.

months, the earlier portion of the year necessarily being devoted to the preliminary work of surveying, grading and bridge building. There is still a large amount of construction to be completed this year, and if the weather is favorable it is not at all improbable that from 4,000 to 6,000 miles of additional mileage will yet be added before the close of 1887.

The Johnstown Democrat in speaking upon the same subject says: In a calculation of the amount expended in laying track in the first six months of 1887 some interesting statistics are shown. At an average of 100 tons of rail to the mile, the 3,754 miles have required about 375,000 tons of steel. At a cost of $40 per ton the value of this one item is about $15,000,000. Estimating the cost per mile, including stations, at $25,000, the total sum expended has been not far from $93,650,000.

EVEN York, Pa., has its real estate organ. It has just made its first formal bow to the good citizens of that city under the euphonious name of the Journal of Commerce. Its advent is certainly indicative of a genuine real estate boom in that section, and its first number is full of interesting reading concerning real estate matters of a local nature. York has a real estate exchange which, if we can judge from its advertisements in the Journal of Commerce, is pushing things just as they should be pushed. The Journal of Commerce is certainly a valuable addition to the real estate interests of York, Pa.

John Wanamaker's Centennial Souvenir.

A unique and tasty volume, containing the Constitution of the United States of America, has found its way to the office of the REAL ESTATE RECORD, as a souvenir of the Centennial celebration presented, by John Wanamaker, upon condition that the recipient obligates himself to give the document at least one reading. The idea is a novel one, and is in keeping with the public spirit, enterprise, and liberality of the donor.

We do not know whether the little volume is for general distribution, or if it is confined to the few lucky persons to whom it is sent; at all events it's a valuable present, and worth considerable trouble to obtain a copy. The Grand Depot has done many nice things for its friends heretofore, but this surpasses all others.

The Kensington and Tacony R. R. Co. have purchased from the Baldwin Homestead Association a small piece of land at Tacony for $3,000, also a tract has been purchased by the Philadelphia and Trenton R. R. Co. from the same for $2,000.

George Wilkins has sold to John B. Mayer, for $15,000, about five (5) acres of land at Front and Tioga streets; also about four (4) acres at Second street and Twelve-foot lane, from Charles Dingos, for $14,000; and from Samuel Dingos he has purchased a piece on Second street, near the same street, containing five (5) acres, $12,750, making in all fifteen (15) acres for $41,750.

The Tulpehocken Tribe, Imp. O. R. M., have ordered the purchase of the Unruh property on Main street, opposite the Odd Fellows' Hall, Mt. Airy, for $6,500. Messrs. Chas. Scurch, Enos Crooks and Thomas Slifer will hold it in trust. It is the intention of the Tribe to remodel the building, raise it to a third story, and convert the lower portion into stores or dwellings. It is contemplated to build an addition to the rear.

At Fort Washington, Pa., land is moving quite lively, and what is better, nearly every lot that is being sold will be built upon at once. W. D. Livzey is building a cottage for his own use. Mr. Mac Carroll, of the Provident Life and Trust Company of Philadelphia, has purchased two lots, and will build a house on each lot. W. F. Jacoby, Ticket Agent at Fort Washington, will also build. J. D. Thompson, of Germantown, Pa., has purchased seven lots. Some of them will have houses built upon them, and the balance will be for sale. S. A. Moss, paper hanger at Eleventh and Poplar streets, has bought two lots and will build. Alan H. Reed, of Jacob Reed's Sons, clothiers, has just bought four lots, which makes sixteen in all which he has purchased. All of them will be built upon.

Old Friends are the Best Friends.

The last cold snap was suggestive of fall clothing, and there is certainly no better place to buy than at the Merchant Tailoring establishment of Mr. Charles E. Eldredge, 113 South Ninth street, under the Continental Hotel.

Mr. Eldredge was for many years a member of the old clothing firm of Painter & Eldredge, on Chestnut street, which at one time commanded a large share of patronage from real estate men, architects and lawyers. Mr. Eldredge presents an extensive assortment of fall and winter suitings, at prices very much lower than those of similar establishments; in fact a suit at his store costs but a mere trifle over what one must pay for ready made clothing, made from fabrics of the same quality.

--The congregation of Christ Lutheran Church, near Stouchsburch (P. O. town), Berks Co., Pa., have decided to rebuild on the site of the old church, recently burned. At a meeting of the congregation the question of location was bitterly contested, some of the members having travelled twenty miles to vote. One old farmer who had willed $20,000 to the church, destroyed the will when he learned that the old site was to be used.

—On the slope of the Valley Hill, southwest of Frazer Station, Chester county, Pa., the Pennsylvania Railroad Company own sixty acres of land. It is now stated that the company will at once commence thereon the erection of a mammoth hotel as a summer resort for Philadelphians. The plans point to a building that will excel that at Devon, and as the landscape is one of the most charming for landscape beauty on the line of the road, it is thought to be a good scheme.

Architects' Notes.

T. Frank Miller, 615 Walnut street, is preparing the plans for a pair of stone, frame and ornamental shingle houses for W. W. Johnson at Fort Washington, Pa. The houses will be two and a half stories high, with a frontage of 105 feet and a depth of 90 feet for the pair. The houses will be finished in hard woods, electric lighting, electric bells, gas machines in each, and all the latest modern sanitary appliances; tank in each house supplied by windmill located at stables in the rear, the water to be drawn from the artesian wells. Each dwelling will contain parlor library, dining and drawing room. The hall will be square. At the side will be placed the open stairway. Alcoves ornamented with stained glass will be in the hall. The contracts have all been given out except for wind-mills and gas engines, and the work will be under the supervision of Mr. Miller. By the same architect, a stone house two and a half stories high, at Fort Washington, for Edward Stillwagen. This dwelling will be fitted up with all the modern conveniences. No contracts have as yet been given out.

Cope & Stewardson have designed a very very handsome iron gate for the property situated 1305 Arch street. The work will be done by Stephens, Cooper & Godley, 1347 Cuthbert street.

A portion of the Foster estate, consisting of twenty-four acres at Wissinoming, on the New Jersey Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, ten miles from Broad Street Station, has been laid out in building lots 50x100 and 25x100, costing from $250 to $500 each. All of the streets on the city plan are being opened at a uniform width of fifty feet. Before the fall sets in there will be twenty houses built there. Most of them will be frame, two and a half stories high, and in the Queen Anne style of architecture. Mr. Foster will build about ten himself. Many more lots could be sold, but care is being taken to sell to those who will build and not hold for speculation. Among the gentlemen who have purchased are W. G. Obertuffer, the insurance man, Fourth and Walnut streets; R. C. Robinson, Fourth and Walnut streets; J. B. Bowen, paints, Fourth street below Race; Frederick Vandegrift, Library street, and John Hanz, of Frankford, and others. Two houses have just been started on Foust street by Mr. Foster. Brian & Godwin, 1413 Filbert street, and Hazlehurst & Huckel, 410 Walnut street, are the architects for nearly all of these houses.

The American Life Insurance Company will tear down the building at present occupied by them, at the southeast corner of Fourth and Walnut streets, and will erect a handsome eight-story office building, which will be built of Wyoming Valley blue stone. The first story throughout both offices and hallway will be wainscoted with polished marble, with a base of red granite. All of the treads of the stairways, from basement to the eighth story, will be of Georgia red marble. The floors will be of the construction known as slow burning mill. The entire basement floor will be of rolled iron beams. Steam heat, electric lights, toilet rooms, and in fact every necessary appliance will be used to make this one of the handsomest of the many handsome buildings now being put up in Philadelphia. One rather odd feature of the building is that the two pillars, one on each side of the doorway on the corner, are cut in the form of an enormous hand. The tower rises over two stories higher than the main building. Thomas P. Lonsdales is the architect, C. W. Macfarlane, C. E., is the consulting architect. Bids are now being taken.

William H. Thompson, of Plainfield, N. J., has plans for the erection of a two and a half story frame and brick cottages 28x42 feet, with an extension 16x20 feet; the cost will be $6,500. The house is for Justus Williamson. Also, a two story frame dwelling for William Sidlemyer. The cost of this building will be $2,500. Size 20x36 feet.

Robert G. Kennedy, 224 South Third street, and W. S. Anderson are the architects for the alterations at Darlington, Runk & Co., 1126 and 1128 Chestnut street. The general plans for the buildings were made by Mr. Anderson, Mr. Kennedy attending to the offices and dark room. Carlisle & Joy did the frescoing. The heating by Pancoast & Maule, gas fixtures by Thackara, Sons & Co., electrical work by Edison & Co., and Walker & Keppler, and the carpenter work by B. Ketcham & Sons.

Samuel L. Fox, of the firm of James W. Queen & Co., opticians, has just begun a very handsome house. The building, which is situated at Bryn Mawr, Pa., is to be built of Port Deposit stone with Freedom stone trimmings. The first story will consist of library, parlor, dining room, study and pantry. All of these rooms will be fitted with every appliance for luxury and convenience. The second story will contain four chambers, bath and linen rooms, and maids' room. The third story will contain four chambers, bath and tank room, the latter to be supplied with a 1,200 gallon tank. The basement of the house will be furnished with laundry, drying room, rooms for provisions, coal, etc. A hand elevator will run from basement to top story. The house will be heated by steam, and will be fitted with electric bells, burglar alarms, speaking tubes, open grates, and other features. J. E. & A. L. Pennock, 305 Walnut street, are the contractors, and Addison Hutton, 405 Chestnut street, is the architect.

E. W. Thorne, architect, has drawn the plans for the Model Modern American Workingman's Cottage to be exhibited in the industrial parade of the Constitutional Centennial, to take place on September 15th in Philadelphia. Preceded by this house in the parade will be the workman's house of one hundred years ago. The plan for this cottage is as follows: First floor, square reception hall, with open stairs to attic, which will be of two kinds of hard wood. There is also a parlor, dining room, kitchen and wash house, bay in parlor, a projecting large window. A front and side porch, sink, range, open fire place, mantels, cupboards, etc. The second story contains large square hall, three bed rooms and bath, closets, etc. The attic is divided into two good bed room and a tank room. The inside is finished in hard and soft woods. The exterior is painted in three harmonious tints. The arrangement is such that the house can be heated by stoves or any heating apparatus desired. This house can be built to live in for $2,500. The size of the model is 18 feet front by 28 feet deep, including porches. The height will be 24 feet from the ground to the peak of the roof, height of stories being six feet. These dimensions are precisely two thirds as large as it should be to live in.

Recent Decisions in Pennsylvania in Relation to Matters Concerning Real Estate and Commercial Law.

DECIDED BY THE SUPREME COURT.

ADVERSE POSSESSION.—Where the plaintiff in ejectment for unmined mineral ore shows title to the mineral right, the fact that defendant who is entitled to the surface has been in possession of the land for any length of time, without taking possession of the mineral by mining it, cannot constitute an adverse possession in his favor as against the owner of the mineral right.

IRON CO. vs. LEWIS.

March 15, 1887.

DEED.—A deed absolute on its face may be shown by parol evidence to be mere security for money advanced or for the performance of a definite obligation. It does not follow from the possession of a power of sale by the grantee in such a deed that the power is to be exercised otherwise than by foreclosure.

PEARSON vs. SHARP.

March 14, 1887.

DOWER.—The heirs at law of an intestate decedent, agreed in writing that (as they had apportioned the real estate of said decedent among themselves, and as his widow had not made any claim for dower), so long as the widow should make no claim for dower, each heir should pay her annually a certain sum, etc., and that when the widow should claim dower the payments should cease; and provided that "nothing herein contained, and no receipt by the widow of any of the above mentioned payments, shall be a bar to her application for such dower, but such payments shall be claimed as a credit on the amount of dower which may be claimed." The widow accepted this agreement, and died without having claimed dower. One of the heirs paid the widow only a part of the amount stipulated to be paid by him, and in no year paid the full sum stipulated. After the widow's death her administrator brought suit for arrearages of dower against one who had purchased a portion of said real estate from said heir.

HELD.—That the widow did not waive her right under the law by receipt of payments under said agreement, nor was there any reason under the facts of the case why she should not recover all statutory arrears, subject to a credit as stated in the agreement.

BRODHEAD vs. HELLER.

March 28, 1887.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.—A lease "from the first day of December, 1885, at the rent of $600 per annum, payable monthly when due," with a provision that if the lessee shall continue on the premises "after the termination of the contract, then this contract is to continue in full force for another year, and so on from year to year until legal notice shall be given for a removal," followed by a clause that if the lessee shall continue on the premises "after the termination of the above contract, then he shall have the privilege of staying another five years at the above fixed rent per annum," is a lease for one year with the option of continuing from year to year for five more years.

JONES vs. KROLL.

April 11, 1887.

VENDOR AND PURCHASER.—A vendee of land, in possession under a contract of sale on which a balance of purchase money was unpaid, confessed judgment in amicable ejectment, to the vendor, to be released on payment of the balance of the purchase money in ten days. The money not being paid, judgment was entered twelve days thereafter, and a writ of hab. fa. issued. Thereupon the vendee took a written lease of the premises from the vendor, at a small sum per month, and the Sheriff returned the writ executed. The vendee was at the time indebted by judgment in favor of a third party. Thereafter the property was sold under a fi. fa. issued on said last mentioned judgment against the vendee, to the present plaintiff, who now brings ejectment therefor against the vendor and vendee. The vendee testified that he told the vendor that said judgment creditor was about to push his judgment to collection; that the amicable action and confession of judgment in ejectment were for the very purpose of hindering such judgment creditor from reaching the property, and that the nominal payments of rent provided for in the case were to apply on the purchase money. Held that there was such evidence of fraud and collusion in the transaction between the vendor and vendee, with the intent to delay such judgment creditor in the collection of his judgment, as should have been submitted to the jury, and which if found to exist would render the transaction void as to the judgment creditor sought to be defrauded, and the purchaser under him, the present plaintiff.

MILES vs. LEWIS.

The above decisions to be found in Vol. 7, Cent. Rep.

FRANK R. SHATTUCK,

No. 58 South Third Street, Philadelphia.

WHY should a man who wants to build a house be taxed for it in the shape of paying for a permit? If any payment is to be made, why should not the city or town pay the house builder for adding to the assessable valuation of the city. It does seem a little strange that enterprise should be checked even to that slight extent. One or two western cities have taken a step in advance. The Common Council of Minneapolis has recently passed an ordinance abolishing the fee system for applications for permits, and it is stated that there has been an extraordinary increase in the number of permits taken out since. The petty earnings in the shape of fee, of our Building Inspector's office might be wisely disposed of. Building enterprise should be encouraged in every way possible.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, SEPT. 19, 1887.

The crudeness of things a hundred years ago compared with the present time can be better appreciated by those who bear the marks of age. Young America is too familiarly identified with this age of progress and its wonderful achievements to appreciate understandingly the great changes that have taken place in the last few decades. The civic parade of Thursday, although free from the pomp and ostentatious show of the military display of Friday, must have impressed every thinking person who witnessed it with a keen appreciation of the true greatness of the American people, but it is left to those who lived years ago and who were daily identified with the old ways to fully comprehend the magnificent greatness of things present compared with things past.

The men who framed the Federal Constitution laid the foundation for a structure far greater than their wildest fantasies conceived, and could they have witnessed the great pageant as it passed through the mighty multitude of rejoicing freemen, their amazement and gratification must have been complete, for never has legacy been more carefully guarded than that which they left; never have a people lived more worthy of the trust imposed upon them, never a nation more honored, meriting honor and respect from the nations of the earth through energy and thrift, and that inherent love of freedom that calls no man King, with a Government of the People and by the People, an experiment no longer, for a hundred years of trial imprints upon every element of our republicanism the ineffaceable stamp of perpetuity for ages to come.

Thou too, sail on, O ship of State,
Sail on, C Union, strong and great!
Humanity with all its fears,
With all the hopes of future years,
Is hanging heathless on thy fate.

LAST week's excitement greatly interfered with the real estate business, although considerable business was done notwithstanding.

The auction sales of the week were extremely light, owing in a great measure to the fact that property buyers are not yet in full feather. The lull occasioned by the long vacation of the summer months has acted as it always does in turning the attention of the regulars away from the weekly sales of real estate; of course it is too soon to anticipate any great activity, as it takes some time for people to recover their business propensities after so long a rest.

An active fall business in real property depends very much upon the financial outlook; a tight money market can have no other effect than that of greatly curtailing the heretofore long weekly list of properties sold, yet positive bargains even then will find plenty of ready purchasers.

The vast accumulations of money in the vaults of the U. S. Treasury must ere long be felt in real estate matters as it has already been felt in business circles. Yet if the relief hoped for comes at any time this side of January 1st, it will be sufficient to avert any serious calamity; the business interest of the country will demand relief of some kind. It will take a heap of money, as it always does, to move the crops of the Western States, and some considerable money stringency must be expected, but these things have always regulated themselves heretofore, and the present year will be no exception. The outlook for next year is not bad by any means. The people need more houses, and will continue to buy and pay for them just so long as there are no breakers ahead and the possibilities of future employment remain as certain as they are at present. Next year's building boom may not equal that of the present year, material and labor may be a trifle lower, yet there will be—unless money becomes so tight as to render it impossible—sufficient building done to find employment for all and enough buyers to justify reasonable expectations on the part of builders and owners. The conservatives will of course allow a feeling of distrust to grow upon them; this is natural enough but there is no just cause for it; utopian schemes are dangerous even in the best of times, but those who confine themselves to legitimate building operations and keep their windward anchor well to windward, need have no fears so long as money can be had at reasonable rates.

The business interests of the city, state and county have not, as yet, received a shock worth mentioning. The few failures recorded do not reveal any weakness in the general trade situation, but have grown out of special causes. These failures have rather strengthened confidence than the reverse, strange as it may sound; yet there is much comment and many statistics that are misleading to be met with in financial and trade journals respecting future probabilities. The anxiety for something sensational, either good or bad, leads a good many otherwise competent and careful writers to indulge in bullist and bearist views on the situation. Hence it is that we meet with so much, from time to time, that is contradictory. The average business man reasons from a few conditions and facts, and is guided by only common-sense considerations. The spirit of enterprise has not been discouraged, and in investors and promoters of schemes, great and small, are as enthusiastic as ever in searching for favorable fields and opportunities to build fortunes during the next few years. There are no sound reasons for doubting the wisdom of heavy investments; at least, no accidents have occurred to prove that investors are on the wrong course. We are told that money is becoming more stringent, but if so it signifies nothing, considering the fact that the volume of exchanges in thirty of our leading commercial centres is ro per cent. greater this year than last, since January. We are informed, on the best authority, that the month of August was the most prosperous August the country has seen. We know from personal knowledge that the jobbing interests of this city have had a remarkably good year, and that the business of the state has gone beyond all precedent. Take as a pointer the anthracite coal trade, which is two-and-one-half million tons ahead of last year, at this date, with prices firm and demand nearly up to the moving capacity if it were allowed. The iron trade also shows wonderful expansion. This unflinching barometer of trade can be consulted with satisfaction. The steel rail makers are taking orders for next spring delivery, and prospects are excellent, despite rumors of declining activity, on next year's business. Our leading architects and builders are not sounding any alarm as yet, nor are they predicting any less activity in the future. Our building and architectural exchanges all show signs of life in building, and of great activity in the future. Real estate authorities here and elsewhere say the most urgent demands have been filled for the present, but add that the new crop of demands next year will be equal to the demands of this year; and there is abundant evidence to substantiate this encouraging statement, if any corroboration were necessary. Our banking and money, lending institutions ought to be able to speak advisedly as to future probabilities. With all the available funds in constant use at good rates, there is no room certainly for making predictions of a downward or a backward tendency. Summon who or what we may into the witness box, they all speak substantially to the same end; yet even all these high authorities may be mistaken. A., B. & Co., quoted A. in Prophet & Co.'s Commercial Agency, goes under for a quarter million, as we read before breakfast, and the business world wonders. What surpasses us in the case of the individual, may surpass us as regards the whole business world. Jay Cooke's failure pulled us all up with a round stop. True the conditions then do not prevail now, but the necessity for care is as great now as then. The masses are earning higher wages and have stronger assurances of steady work. Credit is strong, debts are few. Margins once small, are more reliable. More accurate business calculations can be made in 1887 than in 1877. The progress we have made is a permanent one, and the business men recognize that they are decidedly safer than they have ever been. The producing interests are loaded up with contracts and orders for the rest of the year, and the signs all point to a busy winter in all channels of activity.

ARCHITECTS are trying to solve still more successfully the problem of cheap and comfortable homes. The designs are almost endless. We must not imagine that we have reached the pinnacle of perfection in our present house-building arrangements. True, we have broken away from the sardine-like row of similar fronts. Here and there we see signs of a new departure, which involves a small park in front or in the rear of a block, where fountains and electric lights play a part. The plan of an enclosed square has been tried with success in London. We have not yet gotten away from the idea that every foot of land must be utilized. The cramped-up conditions of our city homes have driven tens of thousands into suburban localities; but even here the desired privacy and elbow-room cannot be had. The necessities of the situation will, no doubt, soon lead to the construction of houses on four sides of a large square, with the centre utilized as a park or garden, enriched with electric lights, fountains, statuary, artificial iron work, etc. The idea is not as impracticable as it may seem.

THE increased street traffic in all our large cities is calling closer attention to the necessity of some better paving material. The old cobble stone pavements remain only for two reasons: 1st, The municipalities are not able to put down better; 2d, They have nothing better to put down, within economic limits. Yet it is doubtless only a question of time when the present pavements will disappear and some cheap and serviceable material substituted. The subject is being urged upon the attention of New York authorities from several standpoints, one of which is that the streets cannot be cleaned. Numerous stronger reasons exist, but this, if it answers the purpose of stimulating-reform, will do as good as any. The largest streets in New York are frequently made impassable for a long time by the tearing up of street pavements for a variety of objects, and we of Philadelphia know what that means. Wagon wear and tear, noise and slackened speed, due to irregularity of surface, have all been mentioned as reasons why a change should be made, and yet the change does not come. There is a fortune in store for the man who will give us a good street material.

THE matter of public competition among architects is attracting considerable attention abroad as well as at home. The Swiss architects have drawn up a set of principles, elaborated after a careful consultation with the English, French, Belgian and German codes, though they are in no sense copies of them. One of the principles is that competing sketches shall be judged by experts, and that the author of the plan placed first shall be commissioned to carry out his design. All architects know what injustice is often, almost always, done under cover of rejecting all designs. The Swiss plan is to pay all the premiums offered, whether the plans be good or bad. Experts under this plan will not be allowed to say that none of the designs submitted are good enough. Their function is simply to select those that rank highest, and pay the advertised premium offered according as they rank. In no other way can a spirit of emulation be developed. This rule should find ready acceptance everywhere. It is reasonable and just, and takes away from judges the arbitrary power which they have so often used to perpetrate injustice, whether intentionally or unintentionally.

THE sites of most of our recently constructed school houses have been wisely selected. For good reasons they should be as remote from noise as possible, and from objectionable neighborhoods, whether the objections be due to the character of the tenements surrounding or the occupations of the people. Most of our new school structures are three stories high. It is a question whether the height should not be restricted by law to two stories. Perhaps too little attention has been given to all the requirements of a public school as regards light, ventilation, wash and cloak rooms. At least there is room for improvement in this direction. A wash room may not be a necessity in a school house, but it could be made to promote cleanliness. School furniture is much better than ten or twenty years ago, and but little fault can be found with its character, though in the primary departments children are frequently too crowded, under the mistaken notion that economy of space is demanded. A school is not a theatre, occasionally visited for three or four hours, but is the day-light home of children, and it should be made as inviting and home-like as possible.

DR. J. H. REED of Camden, late of Texas, has several fine Texas farms and ranches improved and stocked in rapidly improving sections, just opened by railroad, which he desires to sell or might exchange for desirable South Jersey land. Texas is attracting a steady share of emigration, and is destined to attract a large amount of northern enterprise and capital.

The staining of floors, especially in some of the higher priced dwellings, is becoming quite general. The cheaper woods used are stained to look like dearer woods. There is considerable to be learned on this subject.

A floor stained to represent dark old oak is preferred by many. The mixture for accomplishing this is sold at all paint shops, and comes in grades 1, 2, 3, and 4, varying from light to dark. If the boards are smooth and fine-grained, a satin wood or pitch pine stain and polish is preferred; but if the floor is old or rough it is folly to attempt any stain except that of dark oak or dark mahogany. Some of the mixtures used for this can be put on with a rag, although a brush is better. Pour the liquid into a saucer, dip the brush in, saturate thoroughly, rub evenly over the wood, and dry instantly with a soft cloth.

For the ultra fashionable floor, which is of a pale shade of oak, sized and varnished, buy the desired amount of raw sienna powder; mix with water, and rub into the boards as directed above. Mahogany staining: Make a mixture containing half a pound of madder, two ounces of logwood chips, boiled in a gallon of water, brush this over the wood while hot. When dry go over this with a solution of pearlash, two drachms to one of water, size and polish. If a redder shade is required, it can be produced by smearing the surface with a strong solution of permanganate of potash, which is left on for five minutes. The wood is then carefully washed, dried and polished.

A good cheap oak stain is made of equal parts of American potash and pearlash, two ounces of each to a quart of water. As American potash is a solvent, care must be taken to keep it from the hands, and an old brush should be used.

An excellent method of waxing floors is as follows: Take a pound of the best bees-wax, cut it up into very small pieces and let it thoroughly dissolve in three pints of turpentine, stirring occasionally, if necessary. The mixture should only be a trifle thicker than the clear turpentine. Apply it with a rag to the surface of the floor, which should be perfectly clean. This is the difficult part of the work; for if too much or too little is put on a good polish is impossible. The right amount varies, less being required for a hard, close-grained wood, and more if the wood is soft and open-grained. Try a square foot or two at first. Put on what you think will be enough, and leave the place untouched and unstepped on for twenty-four hours, or longer, if needful. When thoroughly dry, rub with a hand-brush. If it polishes well, repeat the whole process over the entire floor. If it does not, remove the wax with fine sandpaper and lay again, using more or less than before, as may be necessary, and continue experimenting until the desired result is secured. If the mixture is slow in drying add one part japan to six of turpentine.

St. Louis has taken the lead in the matter of establishing a school where young men can be instructed in architecture. The courses include mathematics from arithmetic to trigonometry, descriptive geometry, technical physics and architecture. The instructions in this branch will comprise everything which is important and indispensable to the building tradesman. In the highest class complete sets of plans for buildings and estimates for same will be worked out from given data. This will be of great advantage to the student, as he may often be called upon to perform such work in after-life.

Free-hand Drawing and Modeling.—The first will be practiced from copies and models of such objects as are of interest to the building tradesman. Attention will be also paid to modeling in clay and plaster of Paris, for which the materials will be furnished free.

Modeling of Constructions.—Practical lessons will be given in the construction of brick and wood models of all kinds, such as houses, towers, bridges, stairs, etc. The necessary tools and materials will be furnished free.

English Lessons.—These lessons are to include grammar and business letters, principally such as are of importance to the building tradesman.

Bookkeeping.—Bookkeeping so far as necessary for builders will also be taught.

Scranton's New Public Building.

Architect Walters, who made the plans for the new public buildings to be erected at Scranton, Pa., has had them accepted by the Councils Public Building Committee of that place.

The plans contemplate a stone building 86 by 132 feet and three stories high, to be heated by steam. The basement will contain rooms for the police department, two private offices, one of them for the Sergeant of Police, boiler and storage rooms, and the city jail, with quarters for twenty prisoners.

On the second floor the offices of the Mayor, Chief of Police, City Treasurer, City Controller and City Solicitor will be located.

Rooms for the Select Council, the Common Council, the Board of Control, the City Clerk, the City Superintendent, the Secretary of the Board of Control, and committees are provided for on the second floor. There will be folding doors between the Council chambers, and galleries will be put in for spectators, as well as in the room of the Board of Control. The Councilmen will sit in a semi-circle enclosed by a railing.

On the third floor there will be the City Engineer's office, Assistant City Treasurer's office, a draughting room and four offices not yet assigned.

Private offices will be attached to the offices of the Mayor, the Chief of Police, the City Treasurer and the City Clerk. Toilet-rooms will also be provided for each of the offices. The vestibules and corridors on each floor will be large.

Mr. Walter said that to erect the building in accordance with the most approved methods, yet with the strictest regard for economy, will require about $125,000. To build so as to keep within the amount appropriated—$75,000—would necessitate the making of every detail of the exterior severely plain and the interior finish of a cheap order.

WORKINGMEN who are not carried beyond the reasoning point through prejudice and senseless hatred towards their employers, must, after a long pending strike, look with simple astonishment upon the figures representing the great loss they have collectively imposed upon themselves through enforced idleness, which might have been avoided through some plausible practical method of arbitration, to the great advantage of all concerned. The striking stone cutters of this city have frittered away almost the entire season, with wages at $3.50 per day, because the master stone cutters gave work and wages to a few non-union men and declined to submit to the dictation of the walking delegates as to whom they should or should not employ. What the loss to the stone cutters of this city will be through this senseless strike no estimate has yet been made, but we do know that as individuals they will never be able to recover the time lost, nor will many of them who have fallen from grace, and who have, through idleness, acquired bad habits, be able to regain their former habits of industry. The strike recently ended at Chicago, involving as it did the building trades at a time when every hour of active work was precious to both man and master, entailed upon both a greater loss than can ever be estimated. The Chicago Journal attempts to solve the riddle by presenting the workingmen's losses alone, and it gives the following figures:

Carpenters, stairbuilders, etc. . .	311,000
Brick manufacturers	782,000
Lathers, plasterers and painters .	148,000
Gravel and slate roofers	45,500
Stonecutters	120,000
Ironworkers, millmen, etc. . . .	115,000
Hodcarriers, lumber employees, teamsters, bootmen, etc.	481,000

Total $2,413,000

These figures, although perhaps not over-reliable, are simply enormous, and when the purchasing power of this amount is considered, and a passing thought is given as to the enormous quantities of beef, pork, flour, clothing, and the other necessities these millions would buy, and the relationship these commodities have to labor in the course of their production and consumption, it would seem that every workingman who reads them would feel that he had had enough of strikes for all time.

A Mechanic Speaks.

The following clipping so thoroughly presents the practical worst features of trade unionism that we give it in full.

A mechanic, writing in a labor paper at Chicago, says:

"I have four sons, all free born Americans, so-called, and all now grown to manhood. I tried to give them trades as they respectively reached the proper age, but in every instance I was forbidden to do so by the laws of the trades. All four of them are now men, but none of them was permitted to learn a trade in the land where they were born, and which they have been taught to call a land of freedom. The oldest got a job at fireman on the railroad, and, after a few years managed to steal the trade of engineer; the next drifted off to that undefinable country known as "the mountains" and there he is wasting away his life digging holes and searching for silver and gold. The next picked up a book and taught himself the short-hand trade; he gets twice as much wages as I ever got with my wheel barrow and shovel. The youngest gets one dollar a day in a store in the humblest capacity, but hopes to work up in time to the grade of a clerk. That all of them did not become hoodlums and tramps is not the fault of the unions. A man with a heart in him, even if he has no brains at all, must see in a moment that the policy which robbed these boys of their right to learn a trade cannot be right, and not being right, it cannot be either economical or wise.

One evening I was talking to that short-hand writer about the strike of the telegraph operators, supposing that he would probably take a deep interest in the subject, but he cared little about it. "I hope the operators will win," he said, "but I am not anxious either way. It's a choice of monopolies, and I side with the weaker. The companies monopolize the profits of telegraphing, the operators monopolize the art. They forbid one another to teach the trade, and if their monopoly is beaten by the other, it will be no more than the big pike swallowing the little one."

I look at it that way myself, and it appears to me as if the policy of shutting up one trade in order to prevent competition is good for that, it must be good for any other calling or profession, and, all the trades and occupations being closed, the people outside must be either rich, or tramps, or thieves. The trades having shut everybody out, have shut themselves in, and having deprived a large part of the community of the means of buying anything, trade diminishes, there is less demand for labor, and less money to pay for it. Another exclusion, then, becomes necessary, until we get back to the wigwags, where we don't need any machines at all. We might follow the principle to greater extremities yet, until at last we grub roots or climb trees for a dinner, like that primeval ape from whom we have all sprung.

J. B. JOHNSON, director of the United States Testing Laboratory, at the Washington University, St. Louis, says:

"If one is ignorant of the character and strength of his material, he is as badly off as if he knew not the stresses to which it was to be subjected. What shall we say, then, of those builders and designers who know neither the one nor the other? There are few more astounding facts than this, that a large proportion of the structures which are daily erected, to the safety of which we trust our lives, are little better than blind guesses as to their ability to stand the loads to come upon them. Usually, however, the guesser—that is to say, the designer—tries to be sure and guess large enough; but he occasionally guesses too little, and not unfrequently guesses so large as to make the cost unnecessarily great. Custom is made to determine the dimensions of the structure and the character of the joints, whether for a warehouse, an elevator or a dwelling; a machine, a vehicle or an engine.

"Manufacturers, builders, architects and too many engineers rely solely on the tables and formulae given in the trade or engineering handbooks. They know nothing of the original experiments from which the tables are derived, and too often are unable even to verify the truth of the formulae. As a matter of fact, the portions of these books referring to the strength of the materials, and especially of wood, were based on experiments on small specimens and were made about one hundred years ago! Some of the arguments in favor of a new test are given below:

"All the old tests were made in England, and, as already remarked, on small specimens. The Western American woods have never been fairly tested for strength. Such tests as have been made on large specimens of American wood have shown the strength to be only about one-half what all the tables give them. Many cheaper kinds of timber may prove more valuable for structures than more expensive varieties, which have been supposed to be stronger.

"Thus pine supports or pillars have been found to be stronger than oak ones, when tested in full-sized samples. Notches cut in beams or joists, whether at the ends or in the middle, have been found to weaken the pieces a great deal more than is generally supposed. When a joist is notched into a floor beam or header, it is only about one-half or one-fourth as strong as when left full size and resting on the bottom. It always splits from the notch. If the portion below the notch be sloped off so as to come to the full length at the middle, the strength is doubled. That is to say, by removing a portion of the joist (in case of a notch) the strength is increased. This seems paradoxical, but it is true in practice and consistent with theory. It then does not fail by splitting from the end, but by breaking apart in the middle. The shearing or splitting strength of timber is of great importance in structures, and is almost always overestimated. A few well-arranged tests will give more information to the designer than all the tables in the handbooks on these matters."

Use of Paper in Building.

The attention of architects and constructors has recently been called to the possibilities in the extensive use of paper in future building. Chambers' Journal mentions the existence of doors having the exact appearance of polished mahogany and of perfect paper imitations of black walnut, while in Paris there were recently manufactured piano cases of the same material.

At recent meetings of the Illinois State Association of Architects a number of papers on the subject have been read from which we extract the following:

When the model cheap house shall be finally evolved it is probable that paper will enter largely into its construction. We already use the material for outside weathering and for insulation within. It has become a standard wall decoration in the house. It often keeps out the cold of winter and the heat of summer. In floors it cuts off the passage of sound and no material better serves for ice-room walls. While already used for siding, it seems not to have been thought of for shingles, floorings, architraves and many kinds of constructive ornaments. It will stand the climate under even the severest tests, and will scarcely need painting more than pine, and it can be decorated to the designer's fancy. It can be molded, stamped, cut, nailed, and handled more easily than any material we now have. As in exterior use, so within, each part may be paper; and sometimes the wall and ceiling, plain or ornamental, in relief, the bases, the architraves, the mantels, even the doors themselves, will be made of paper.

Economically considered, the free use of paper for lining walls and the double thickness of glass in windows will in a very short time pay large dividends in the saving of fuel. One architect claims for an eight-inch wall, properly lined with paper, a greater resistance to the cold of winter and the heat of summer than is usually obtained from a wall built sixteen inches in the old method.

Another speaker, in prophesying the future development of such a material as paper remarks that we class a great variety of substances under the general name of paper, but his main idea is a flexible sheet made of vegetable or other fibre, which has been reduced to a pulp and then spread out and pressed and dried. Its most obvious qualities are:

1. Continuity of surface. It can be made in rolls of almost any width and length. It is flexible, or by gluing several lengths together may be made stiff. It will stop the passage of air because there are no joints.
2. It has no grain like wood, and will not split.
3. It is not affected by change of temperature, and hence has an advantage over sheet metal as roofing material.
4. Whereas in its natural condition it is affected by moisture, it may be rendered water-proof by saturating with asphalt or by a variety of other treatments.
5. It is non-resonant and well fitted to prevent the passage of sound.
6. It is a non-conductor of heat.

By combining paper pulp with other substances and solidifying the mass by pressure we may produce a material that will replace wood for many purposes, and the ease with which it may be made into sheets of any width and thickness that will not warp or shrink from heat or cold or dampness indicating the superiority of this material.

The commercial success of the paper cottage will depend upon the discovery of some very cheap material for the pulp, and also a cheap process for compacting the same and rendering it water-proof. It would seem that there was wood enough in the country to make cheap pulp, but no compound has yet been placed upon the market that will fully meet the above conditions. It is in the line of American ingenuity and inventive skill and will no doubt soon reach a practical stage.

When paper shall come into general use there will be no more shrinkage, no more abuse of architects for bad work, of mechanics for the use of imperfect joints. There will be no more ugly nail holes or other usual wood annoyances. There will be no more patching or deafening or trouble arising from the wet floors and walls.—Real Estate Bulletin.

Recent Decisions in Pennsylvania in Relation to Matters Concerning Real Estate and Commercial Law.

DECIDED BY THE SUPREME COURT.

ATTACHMENT.—Pension money which has been received by the pensioner and deposited by him with a friend for safe-keeping, is subject to attachment in the hands of the depository for the debts of the pensioner by attachment execution, under the Act of June 16, 1836.

ROZELLE vs. RHOADS.

April 18, 1887.

DEED.—Although a deed on its face may appear to be indefeasible, an oral defeasance may, by proper proof, be established. That is to say: the conveyance may be shown to be a mere security for money advanced, or for the performance of some definite obligation.

PEARSON vs. SHARP.

March 14, 1887.

MECHANIC'S LIEN.—Under the Act of June 16, 1836, a mechanic's lien may be filed for articles consisting of heating, laundry and cooking apparatus furnished in the construction of a hotel.

Such articles are permanent in their character, and necessary for the use to which the building is to be applied.

DIMMICK vs. COOK.

March 14, 1887.

HUSBAND AND WIFE.—In the absence of proof of fraud or concealment, a widow cannot avoid an ante-nuptial settlement. A subsequent increase in the value of the husband's property does not affect the validity of a settlement.

A widower, 52 years of age, and worth about $175,000, married a woman 43 years of age who had no property. In an ante-nuptial settlement she released, in consideration of real estate producing $1,200 a year, all her interest in his estate. The deed of settlement remained in the husband's possession, and was never recorded.

He died worth about $400,000. In addition to the real estate settled, he bequeathed to her the interest of $15,000 for life. The residue of his estate he gave to his children.

HELD.—That the settlement was valid and binding upon the wife.

SMITH'S AP.

Feb. 28, 1887.

MORTGAGE.—The acts of public officers de facto (such as Notaries Public, Justices of the Peace, etc.), coming in by color of title, are good and valid when they concern the public or the rights of third persons who have an interest in the act done. An acknowledgment of a mortgage before a Justice of the Peace, who has qualified as Clerk of the Quarter Sessions, is valid, although the Act of May 15, 1874, declares that no person shall be capable of holding both offices at one time, and provides a fine for violation.

On the doctrine of estoppel the mortgagor who has accepted the money secured by the mortgage, is prevented from denying the validity of the mortgage. A writ of quo warranto issued at the instance of the proper authorities is the proper manner of settling the dispute as to the right of office.

ADAM vs. MENGLE.

March 14, 1887.

WILL.—Where the latter part of a will varies from the first part, so that both cannot stand together, the latter part, as being the last thought of the testator upon the subject, controls.

KULP vs. BIRD.

The accident companies received premiums $215,310, or $12,923 less than in 1885. The Pennsylvania life companies issued 2,889 policies, insuring $7,046,583 upon lives of residents—an increase of $507,840. Companies of other States issued 18,400 life policies, insuring $43,281,565 in this State. In addition, there were issued by foreign companies 200,068 industrial policies, insuring $23,761,642, making an aggregate in all companies of 216,357 policies, insuring $74,089,790. The total losses paid by life companies in this State were $4,256,478, of which home companies paid $768,828, and companies of other States $3,487,650. The insurance in force at the close of the year 1886 upon the lives of residents of Pennsylvania aggregate 452,285 policies, insuring $296,163,937, of which 22,706 policies, insuring $59,074,454, were in Pennsylvania companies, and 429,579 policies, insuring $237,089,483, in companies of other States. The accident department of one foreign company had in force at the close of the year 9,678 policies, insuring $16,391,250. Assessment companies of other States did a business in this State of $7,980,040 and expended $7,040,524.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, SEPT. 26, 1887.

THE newspapers are so prone to seize on material to write about, and watch for it as a hunter watches for prey, that they are frequently led into extremes in presenting matters for public information. Here we are all worked up over a possible financial stringency. All the money panics we can recall came unannounced—unexpected. Who expected the panic of 1857? Who suspected on the 17th of October, 1873, that next day Jay Cooke and the Northern Pacific would go under? The next day who was prepared for it? No one. The whole nation was taken by surprise; so will it be when the real panic comes. There are a thousand secret influences all at work. No man sees or can see them. Our little cocoanut full of wisdom counts for little when we undertake to solve gigantic problems.

But this apprehension of evil works out good results. We should put our house in order. There are agencies now at work which will help us avoid disaster. The action of the government in purchasing $14,000,000 worth of bonds is one of the best, in fact the only thing that can be done now. But this is patch work. The doing of it is virtually at the option of the government. This fact alone has an unsettling effect.

The volume of money is not sufficient for the future wants. This year one thousand million dollars have disappeared in various directions—railroad, manufacturing, mining, house building, and other innumerable directions. This absorption means a great deal more than it may appear to mean on the surface.

The real fault is with our financial system. There is a powerful and wealthy interest behind our banking system whose purpose it is to make the most out of the system, regardless of the people. For years there has been an opposing interest, an interest which has sought to establish a system which would not furnish gain and profit to bankers, but which would cast all its benefits on the people.

The advocates of a larger volume of money have been opposed all along, chiefly because the plans advocated would rob the powerful monetary interests of their present livelihood. The theories themselves have been denounced as chimerical and dangerous. The National Republican, however an excellent authority, came out the other day and advocated the loan of $100,000,000 by the government on the security of its bonds deposited with it. This measure would give an immense volume of money to the country. But it would be opposed for various reasons: 1st. It would commit the government to a dangerous policy from the banking interests standpoint, viz.: that of becoming a banker and loaning money. 2nd. It would give the country all the money it needs, and thus relieve it of all possible stringency for an indefinite period, and thus make the people more independent of the banks; and, lastly, it would create a strong popular feeling in favor of the government making that policy a permanent one, and thus pull the foundation from under our present national banking system. This the bankers do not want, particularly at this critical time, when all interested parties are casting about them for a new system which will preserve to the banking interests the immense profits growing out of the lending of money.

But after all we are not in such danger as the papers talk about. The danger, however, must come. It is in the distance. It will come like a clap of thunder. Then the possessors of ready capital like Jay Gould, who has just turned $17,000,000 of his possession into cash, will swoop down and buy up everything offered by the one thousand United States Sheriff's and Marshall's at forced sale.

THE Commercial and Industrial South is published by R. B. Witter & Son, at Richmond, Va. It is not only a bright and newsy sheet but it also contains a vast amount of important information as to the industrial interests of that section. The proprietors of the Commercial seem fully alive to the business sentiment of the whole South, and their paper is an important factor in booming the industrial interests of that too long neglected section of the country.

THE opinion entertained by many that the timber supply of this country will soon be exhausted, seems to have no tangible fact on which it can rest. The Boston Commercial Bulletin recently published a statement which is largely contradictory of all such nonsense, among other statements it asserts that "Notwithstanding the great draw upon the wood reserves of the country there is no danger of exhaustion at present. New England is by no means denuded of its timber. The great Northwestern pineries are comparatively unexhausted. There is also a vigorous second growth of white pine in New England, where the forests are already yielding between 200,000,000 and 300,000,000 feet of timber annually. Southern pine, although stripped from the banks of streams flowing into the Atlantic, is practically untouched in the Gulf States, especially those bordering on the Mississippi. The hard-wood forests of the Mississippi basin are still prolific. In Michigan, particularly the Northern Peninsula, hard-wood is plentiful, maple especially. In the Pacific coast region, the great forests of fir are practically intact. The forest capacity of the country is vast. Strange to say, the decimating element of most potency is fire, and not the axes of mercenary timber speculators."

Moorehead & Co., of Pittsburg, have closed a contract to furnish open-hearth steel in San Francisco to the extent of $300,000.

FIGURES are dry and hard to digest, yet sometimes it is well to stop in the mad hurry and rush of business and look about us and see what is going on within our own borders and beyond the narrow circles of an individual business. Just at this time when the nation has been celebrating the adoption of her constitution and in which our city has been the central point, the observed of all observers, it is meet that facts and figures should be brought to light, not to overwhelm with their magnitude, but to show what a God-fearing, industrious community can accomplish. The following is a list of real estate owned by the city of Philadelphia: School houses, $5,050,375; police stations, $512,000; City Hall and offices, $11,584,000; public squares, $4,315,400; markets $187,500; vacant lots, $307,473; fire department, $207,500; dwelling houses $83,000; armories, $110,000; wharves, $786,800; Potter's field and burial lot, $8,800; county prison, $300,000; house of correction and site of new prison, $805,400; gas trust. $2,686,000; municipal hospital, $116,000; poor department, $1,850,378; Fairmount park, $12,913,444; water department, 795,000; morgue, $26,000; total assessed valuation, $42,645,069.

The entire area of our city being nearly 130 square miles or 82,600 acres. The number of buildings in it aggregate to 191,370, valued at $545,000,000, scattered over 900 miles of paved streets and 110 miles of those not paved, one quarter of this distance being traversed by passenger railroads. Men, women and children, to the number of one million, live in these houses, walk on the streets or ride in the cars. 200,000 are employed in the various branches of trade and receive over a hundred million dollars for the same. The value of their labor and skill being worth $650,000,000. The capital employed enabling the wage workers to receive this amount and produce this quantity of manufactured goods is $300,000,000, the material alone being worth $275,000,000.

Now that we have seen how this vast army is housed and fed, let us turn to the manner in which it receives its moral and mental training, as well as providing for the cure of the sick and attending to the afflicted and unfortunate.

There are 645 churches of various denominations, whose capacity is nearly half a million people. The hospitals and charitable institutions number 115.

The youth of the city are being educated in 472 public schools, whose value is considerably over five million dollars, the number of pupils educated being over a hundred thousand, at a cost of $17 per scholar. Besides the schools we have twenty large libraries, nearly all being accessible to the general public.

To show that Philadelphia enjoys herself and that the Quaker element has been commingled with that not so strict in regard to the pleasures of life, we have twenty-one places of amusement and numerous grounds used for athletic sports.

One thing that a Philadelphian may congratulate himself upon is that we are a city of homes, no matter how poor the person may be there is generally some place that he can call his own for the time. By the census of 1880 our city had 146,412 dwellings in it, which were occupied by 165,044 families, which averages 5.79 persons to a house. New York could boast of 243,157 families, but to accommodate these she provided but 73,684 dwellings, averaging 16.37 persons to a house. Out of a list of ten leading cities of the country, Philadelphia's percentage of persons to a house is the smallest.

But slight mention can be made here of our beautiful park, valued at thirteen millions of dollars, or of our City Hall, valued at nearly twelve millions, the Masonic Temple, the handsomest building of this order in the world, costing a million and a half to build; the Post Office, Mint, Custom House, and the various offices for public affairs; the numerous elegant bank and office buildings that have been erected during the past year or two and those that are now in course of construction. Our own citizens know these facts, and those who are not fortunate enough to live here can only see to appreciate.

Camden and Vicinity.

The Fire Association of Gloucester appropriated money to build a hose house.

Twenty-one building lots were sold at Collingwood at the last sale held by W. T. Bailey & Co.

Robert Kaighn is the contractor for the four brick stores being built on Kaighn's Avenue, west of Second. William Griffith is the owner.

Plans have been prepared by the construction department of the W. J. R. Co., for a new station at Millville.

The official board of the First Methodist Episcopal Church at Millville authorized the Board of Trustees to erect a chapel at the rear of the Church.

At Haddonfield, a small church of the Roman Catholic denomination will be built at the corner of Park and Mansion Avenues. The ground has just been purchased.

At Burlington, Charles Harner's new house, is being weather-boarded, and Mr. Birch's house on Locust avenue, same place, are nearing completion.

The St. Peter and Paul R. C. Church have purchased the lot of ground and the adjoining dwelling at the corner of St. John and Spruce streets, Camden, and will erect a church building there. No plans have been drawn as yet.

The question of a new water filter for Camden, has been postponed in order to see other filters beside that of the National Company's, which was examined by several members of the water committee.

There has been more building in Camden During the past season than for many years past. New buildings have been going up in every section of the city, and the improvements now under way and to be continued during the fall will make the present year an exceptionally brisk one.—Camden Courier.

An Enjoyable Pic-Nic.

The Sixth Annual Pic-Nic given by Mr. Philip J. Walsh, took place on Thursday evening last at Belmont Mansion, over 400 employees and invited guests sat down to an elegant supper, of which Reed birds and Mumm's extra dry were noticeable features, during the day the employees indulged in athletic sports, tugs of war and other contests which of course afforded great amusement to the guests. A brass band and dancing orchestra were in attendance all day and the ladies of the party neglected no opportunity to enjoy the dancing. The Pic Nic was an enjoyable affair and reflected credit both upon employer and employee.

ELECTRO-PLATING THE DEAD—METHOD OF THE INTERESTING CHEMICAL PROCESS.

Wherever the population is dense—as it is in all great cities—it is seen at once that the custom of burying the bodies of deceased persons is a certain and fruitful source of disease. Water and air are alike polluted and rendered dangerous to life by the placing in the earth of the lifeless lumps of clay, which will in time be resolved into their original elements, but which, in the meantime, give forth noxious exhalations. For this reason, the practice of intramural burial has been done away with, and modern cemeteries are placed as far as possible from municipal centres. In lieu of inhumation, the scientists of the present day have devised four methods—namely, cremation, cementation, coking and electroplating. Cremation is only the classic funeral pyre, without any of its unpleasant and revolting attendants. The body is reduced to a handful of ashes by intense heat in a furnace so arranged that nothing disagreeable passes off during the process. The process of coking is similar; but instead of being burned the body is exposed to a flameless heat and reduced to a hard, brittle substance instead of to ashes. Cementation does not deal directly with the body, but with its environments. It consists in hermetically sealing the coffin by placing a coat of the finest cement all around it. The advantages of a sarcophagus are in this way secured without much expense. But the latest method, and one which is growing into popular favor is electro-plating. It is the application of a perfectly even metallic coating to the surface of the body itself by the same process as that which produces electrotype plate. The method is briefly this: The body is washed with alcohol and sprinkled with fine graphite powder, to insure the perfect conduction of electricity. It is then placed in a bath of metallic solution containing a piece of the metal to be used; to this is attached the positive pole of a strong battery; the negative pole is applied to the corpse, and a fine film of the metal at once begins to cover the body perfectly and evenly. This may be kept up until the coating attains any desired thickness. To this process there would seem to be no valid objection. In effect it transforms the corpse into a beautiful statue—form, features and even expression being perfectly preserved. The body being hermetically sealed within its metal inclosure, merely dries up and assumes the aspect of a mummy. This method obviates many objections which have been urged against cremation, and at the same time meets the wishes of those whose sentiment, if nothing else, inclines them to favor the ordinary way of burial. The feeling of the desecration of the human form divine, which its reduction to a handful of ashes causes to many people, is entirely done away with, as no rude hand is laid upon the once loved form. No change is brought about in appearance except that face and figure are covered with a shining veil, through which the familiar lineaments appear with all their well-remembered characteristics and expression.—Morning News, Wilmington, Del.

A bed of asphaltum, or mineral pitch, twenty inches thick, has been found at Beauregard, Miss.

An attempt is to be made to produce a new kind of sand paper made from ground flint rock taken from Mt. Kineo, Me.

The earth's eternal heat is now being used in a practical way at Pesth, where the deepest artesian well in the world is being sunk to supply hot water for public baths and other purposes. A depth of 3,120 feet has already been reached, and the well supplies daily 176,000 gallons of water, heated to 150 degrees Fahr.

Mr. Mulhahn, the English statistician, estimates that the annual increase in wealth of each of these countries per year is: Germany, $100,000,000; Great Britain, $325,000,000; France, $375,000,000, and the United States, $875,000,000.

According to statistics given by Dr. de Pietra Santa in the Journal d'Hygiene, the proportion of doctors in France to the population is less than one-third of what it is in this country. In 1876 France had one physician of the first class to each 3,000 of population, and one of the second class to each 9,000. In 1886 there was one physician of the first class to 3,186, and one of the second class to 13,679, so that the proportion of doctors seems to be diminishing. Over 29,000 Communes in France have no physician. As we have one doctor for each 800 or 900 of population we might spare a few for France if proper inducements were offered.—Sanitary Engineer.

The Philadelphia Drug, Oil and Paint Reporter is responsible for the statement that pure olive oil, except that made in California, is rarely found in the United States, although the material used in the manufacture of "olive" oil is largely exported from this country. Cottonseed oil is one of the most common bases of European "olive" oil, and thousands of tierces go there every year, to be made into oil and sent back as French or Italian olive oil, warranted strictly pure. Statistics show that New Orleans annually exports sufficient cottonseed oil to Bordeaux, etc., to fill 15,000,000 oil bottles. The California oil finds a market without difficulty. The profits are large. Each acre has 70 tierces, and each tierce will average three gallons per annum, and the wholesale price is four dollars per gallon: the return from one acre is therefore about $840 a year. Just twice as much imported oil is required for a salad dressing as of California oil, which is a proof of its superior quality and value.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, OCT. 3, 1887.

CINCINNATI is to have a Centennial next year; artists are at work on a design for a monument to President Harrison, which will be unveiled at that time.

THE Twenty-first Annual Commencement of the American Institute of Architects will take place in Chicago, October 19th, 20th and 21st. A grand turnout is expected.

THERE seems to be no difficulty in renting small houses as fast as they are built. The investments pay from 10 to 15 per cent. on first cost. In certain localities in the city real estate has advanced in value, because of the demand for more house room.

THE builders of Philadelphia, or, at least, the great majority of them, have been abundantly satisfied with the season's business from April 1 to October 1, six months of phenomenal activity. Our record of progress has shown a steady progress from the opening of the season to the close. Those who have invested their money have met with no discouragements. Upon careful inquiry made in various quarters of the city it appears that houses have been renting all along as fast as ready, and even during the heated spell. Several hundred houses are now receiving their finishing touches, and there are tenants or buyers for all. Rents are satisfactory, and realize owners from 8 to 12 or, in some cases, 14 per cent. on prime cost. The quality of work done is improving. Builders remember that they have reputations at stake, and are taking as much pains as the prices will allow. Even in the small houses there is an imitation of more costly residences. Outside trimmings seem to recognize there is such a thing as architecture, and the interior work and finish in hundreds of these small houses is quite neat.

The better class of houses in and near town, costing from $7,000 to $12,000, are also quickly taken, and that too by a class of tenants who want to stay in one place. There is about this class of houses everything to induce a tenant to remain, to make a permanent home therein, and to take as much care of the property as though personal ownership existed.

Those who have expended their money in these houses will continue in the same line next year. While there will be a great many small houses built the proportion between them and the better class will be more nearly equal.

On the subject of rents real estate agents and landlords say there is a minimum of trouble. The people who occupy our small houses are well employed, earning good wages, have situations at stake, and are anxious to stay in one place. There is less moving to and fro than formerly. The average period of occupancy of a house is increasing.

Suburban property owners have not held their land with a tight grip, but have let it go at a reasonable market value.

Suburban house building has been pushed at a great rate, and all of the new enterprises are prospering. Building material is low, while labor is high, and work is being prosecuted as rapidly as men can do it.

It would repay the average Philadelphian to spend a while in the dozen or more beautiful and thriving suburban villas, seeing what is done, and what is in sight. All along the P. R. R. is one continuous improvement. The Schuylkill Valley and Reading roads have not been overlooked. The B. and O. and P. W. and B. roads have attracted a large and wealthy class of house builders. Even in New Jersey there is a spirit of enterprise at work which next year will manifest good fruits.

As before intimated a new departure will soon be made in house building. The street in front and alley behind are not actually necessary; nor is the compactness of construction to which we have become so accustomed more than a habit that ought to be broken.

Open courts with grass, foundations, play grounds, trees, lights, etc., could as well be the outlook from the front of our modern small houses as the narrow dirty street with monotonous houses like our own opposite to us.

THE business man of to-day more than ever desires to be let severely alone, so far as politicians are concerned, and the same might be said as to the financial disturber who constantly sees panics in the near future. He would also be glad to see a perpetual truce declared between what we call capital and labor. The country can almost govern itself if let alone. We have for years had too much political doctoring and too little of the let alone freedom to which we are entitled. But the law-makers must have their annual fun in grinding out laws for us which not one in a thousand ever hears of afterwards. The financial quack must prophesy and warn, but meanwhile the man of business is toiling along quietly. The labor agitator must also have his opportunity to arouse the toiling millions from the serfdom to grinding capital. To all these things we must become as accustomed as we can be, for they are evils, like Jersey mosquitoes in summer time.

Yet the politician, the crank and the striker are all learning some little, and are finding out that the great bulk of the people only want to be let alone, and pursue their respective avocations in quiet.

Winthrop, Maine, wants the Oak Grove Seminary located at that place when the buildings are rebuilt, and the town offers $50,000 towards erecting them.

A New Title and Trust Company for Frankford.

Harry B. Yerger, 430 Walnut street, Wm. H. Peace, 4434 Frankford avenue, and I. Wisler, the chair manufacturer, 223 and 225 North Sixth street, are now engaged in perfecting the organization of the Frankford Savings Bank, Title, Insurance and Trust Company.

The charter has already been obtained, and its privileges are so broad that a profitable and extensive business can be done under it.

The company's offices will be located in the building formerly occupied by the Second National Bank at Frankford, it having been purchased by the new company for office purposes. The capital stock is $250,000, most of which has already been subscribed. When it is understood that Frankford is at present without any banking facilities whatever, the success of the new company may be regarded as a foregone conclusion.

The importance of the building boom in this city may be estimated when it is known that in the past two years 149 houses have been built, 51 last year and 98 so far this year. A house agent, who has watched the filling up of these new houses, states that the most of them are occupied by new comers, and that when removals from other houses to the new ones have been made the vacancies thus caused in old houses have also been filled by new arrivals in the city. These are unmistakable evidences of growth.—Burlington Evening Reporter.

The measuring of a candle power of a light is accomplished by measuring the shadow cast by a rod in the light of a standard candle with the shadow cast by the light to be tested. By moving the latter towards or away from the rod, a point will be reached at which the shadow cast by both lights will be of the same intensity. The intensity of the two lights is directly proportional to the squares of their distances from the shadow, i. e., suppose the light to be tested is three times the distance of the candle, its illuminating power is nine times as great.

Strength of Foundations.

The question of stability is indeed an important one in all foundations, particularly so with those beneath large structures, heavy machinery, and the like. A moderately soft brick will crush beneath a weight of from 450 to 600 lbs. to the square inch, or about thirty or forty tons to the square foot, while an A No. 1 machine pressed brick will withstand a pressure of four hundred tons to the square foot. Masses of brick, however, will crush under smaller loads than a single brick. Some laboratory experiments have shown that small cubical masses, but nine inches on each edge, laid in cement, crushed beneath a load of about 35 tons per foot square, others with piers nine inches square and two feet high, in cement withstood a pressure of 60 tons per foot, while with pressed brick, laid in Portland cement withstood two hundred and four tons per square foot, and with common mortar stood over seventy-five tons' pressure to the square foot. The loads should always be at least one-half the estimated crushing strength of the foundation material, inasmuch as the cracking and splitting begin long before the materials crush. The pressure of the large brick shot tower in Baltimore, 236 feet high, is but six and one-half tons per square foot, while double the height, it would be but about one-third more—strange but true.—Clay Worker.

Lock and Bell.

Lock & Bell is the name of a new monthly publication issued simultaneously at New York and Philadelphia in the interests of the Lock and Bell trade of the United States. Its first issue has reached us and it is certainly a pleasant and interesting paper and must prove a welcome visitor to every hardware and lock establishment throughout the whole country. The Lock & Bell is issued weekly from its offices, 927 Arch street, Philadelphia and 237 Broadway, New York, it is published by William Byrnes, Esq., who as a lawyer, journalist and business manager has had much experience and is well calculated for his undertaking as the first number of the new publication indicates.

MISCELLANEOUS.

At Seaside (P. O. town), Hillsborough Co., Fla., a $15,000 hotel is contemplated.

At Gasden (P. O. town), Etowah Co., Ala., S. W. Riddle & Co., will erect a large building for business purposes.

At Newport (P. O. town), Jackson Co., Ark., an extensive furniture factory is to be erected by the Newport Lumber Co.

At Chattanooga, Tenn., the Wesley M. E. Church congregation will erect an $18,000 structure on Lookout street.

At Aurora (P. O. town), Dearborn county, Ill., the first Baptist Church congregation will expend $20,000 on a new edifice.

At Francisco the Young Men's Catholic Mutual Aid Association will build a three-story structure at the corner of Tenth and Market streets.

At Ashborough (P. O. town), Randolph Co., North Carolina, a new Court House, to cost $15,750, has been awarded to W. Carter, contractor.

At Armstrong (P. O. town), Calhoun Co., Ala., Mr. A. L. Tyler owner, is making extensive additions to his residence at a cost of $10,000.

Swan & Hudson, of Marysville, Cal., have the contract for the new Hesperion College buildings at Woodland, Cal. They will cost about $17,000.

At Quincy, Ill., the new hotel, before reported, is to be 110 by 190 feet, five stories high, of stone, and will cost $100,000. Architect J. L. Silsby, of Chicago.

At Los Angeles, California, a new city hall is to be built. Messrs. Compton & Haas, the architects, have prepared extensive plans of the building, which it is claimed reflect the highest credit upon their ability.

Through the State and Elsewhere.

—At Easton, Pa., new oil cloth factory buildings will probably be erected, although the location is not definitely settled. Mr. Luther W. Miller is looking for a site, although he seems to want a bonus from the town selected for the location. The Messrs. Odenwelder, of Odenweldertown, near Easton, have offered to give a site at that place. Chicago and other places have made several offers of both sites and money, and the plant may go West after all.

—At Easton, Pa., John C. Mayer, formerly a reporter for the Phillipsburg News, will shortly build a store and dwelling house at Eleventh and Butter streets that place. At same place work on the Court House is being pushed. Architect Stewart says the work will cost less than $40,000; but this does not include the steam-heating apparatus. The building will be one of the most complete in the State.

—At Heightstown (P. O. town), Mercer Co., N. J., Messrs. Chamberlain and Hutchinson will build a large hay press at the foot of William street; and it is also stated that Chamberlain & Grover, of Cranbury (P. O. town), Middlesex Co., N. J., will erect a hay press in the same locality as the above. At same place Hon. J. V. D. Beekman is building a residence on W. Main street. Jos. Cristloff is building on S. Main street. E. Eldridge is building on Stockton street; J. T. Lairds on Day street; H. Weller on Franklin street; Mr. John Donnell and William Robbins on Mercer street; Mrs. D. P. Messeroll on Morrison avenue, and D. A. Lautz on Railroad avenue.

—At Sharon (P. O. town), Mercer county, Pa., a new fire brick works is in course of erection. At same place Harry Thomas is building a two-story frame house on Vine street. It is Queen Anne style. Harry Kline has the contract.

—At Bethlehem, Pa., the town council will buy a steam road roller; address chairman of the Street Committee, Bethlehem, Pa.

—At Reading, Pa., at the fine mill house property, W. C. Kurtz, contractor, is building a large hall 56 by 23 feet, for dancing parties.

—At Centre-Moreland (P. O. town), Wyoming Co., Pa., J. Vantuyke is building a dwelling house.

—At Darby, Pa., Mr. R. H. Hood will erect a residence next spring.

—At York, Pa., Ivan Heistand will build several houses this fall.

—At Glenlyon (P. O. town), Luzerne county, Pa., a new Catholic church is to be erected.

—At Erie, Pa., Mrs. Shannon will build two houses.

—At Towanda Hill, near Towanda (P. O. town), Bradford Co., Pa., the school directors have decided to build a new school house.

—At Plymouth (P. O. town), Luzerne Co., Pa., it is proposed to build a new large gallery to the People's Theatre in that place.

—At Derry (not a P. O. town), near Altoona, Blair Co., Pa., new water works are to be built. A Philadelphia party has the contract.

—At McKeesport, Pa., a pair of new pumps of large capacity are to be placed in the water works.

—At South Bethlehem (a suburb of Bethlehem, Pa.), an addition, 40 by 103 feet, is being made to St. Luke's Hospital.

—At Hollidaysburg (P. O. town), Blair Co., Pa., Geo. F. Rollins is building a furniture warehouse near the jail.

—At Downingtown (P. O. town), Chester Co., Pa., William Krautter is building two new houses; the foundations are being laid.

—At Salem (P. O. town), Salem Co., N. J., George Dunham is building a handsome residence on Walnut street.

—At Phoenixville, Pa., the Phoenix Iron Co. has started the erection of a building for a new steel plant.

—At Coaldale (P. O. town), Schuylkill Co., Pa., Owen Boyle has just bought a building lot on High street and will build at once.

—At Pottstown, Pa., the corner stone of the United Brethren in Christ Church has been laid.

—At Williamsport, Pa., the corner stone of the new Chapel for the Park Avenue Sunday School has been laid.

—At Emaus (P. O. town), Lehigh Co., Pa., work has been started on the second stocking factory at that place.

—At Pittsburg (South side), Pa., the American Mechanics will erect a new building for meeting purposes.

—At Dushore (P. O. town), Sullivan Co., Pa., Sergeant Haley is building a new house. John Jordan has the contract.

—At South Bethlehem, Pa., the foundations for the new Music Hall or Opera House will be completed by November 1st.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, OCT. 10, 1887.

The business of buying and selling for profit so completely absorbs the attention and energies of the American people that they overlook some of the conditions upon which profitable buying and selling is based. The study of these conditions is somewhat abstruse and hence it is neglected. The result of this neglect has been the periodical recurrence of panics, the earliest of which remembered by this generation was that of 1857. It may sound strange to say it, but is true nevertheless, that the principles upon which business is conducted, financial, commercial, rail-roading and manufacturing, are false and that they necessarily result in disaster sooner or later. The extraordinary productive capacity and the extraordinary energy of the American people postpone the recurrence of these disasters longer than they could be postponed by any other people. It is therefore no surprise that business men should be constantly watching for signs of a reaction. Five years of prosperity and five years of depression have been coming and going for decades. There is no occasion for this vast oscillation. These periods come because the basis upon which business rests is not a sound one and yet the mistakes which are constantly made are not closely observed nor their avoidance studied. The business community have almost come to consider them a necessity, something after the order of the old blood-letting medical doctor of one hundred years ago. We have read and heard of over production as though it were one of the necessary conditions of progress. Over production is impossible as long as there is a single one of our sixty million of population who has not three square meals a day and a comfortable home in which to live. The reactionary influences at work at this time can be scarcely perceived but they still exist and are doing their work far down below the surface of trade. It is very fortunate that our Government is able, by the congressional legislation of 1881, to come to the rescue of the business interests when they need assistance, by purchasing bonds in advance of their maturity. The necessity for this purchase simply shows that there is not enough money in circulation. Business men expect to avoid disaster and depression in the future by a similar action upon the part of the Government as fast as a stringency presents itself. It would be far better if a financial system was established which had sufficient elasticity to furnish necessary money for the business wants. It is admitted that we have not the proper system now, else, there would be no need of bond buying by the Government before maturity. It would be perhaps presumptuous to attempt to solve a problem which the wisest of our generation is confessedly unable to solve, but the fact is that the remedies to be applied are simple and in harmony with natural law and experience. The reason these remedies are not adopted is that they would interfere with the selfish interests of a powerful monopoly, namely, the national bankers, against whom we have not a single word to say or single complaint to make because they are using that system to the best advantage for the people of the country. Our national bankers have done excellent service in the past.

Our system was a war measure rather than a purely commercial measure. It has enabled the nation to expand in productivity faster than it could have possibly advanced without it. Our national banking system is helping to make us what we are, but after giving all due credit to it, and to its promoters, it must be said that the necessities of the country are now calling for a better, stronger and more enduring system.

The government has three hundred millions of dollars at its command, too much entirely for any government to have lying idle. Some silly minds have suggested that the government flaunt millions of this money in public improvements, by purchasing railways, telegraphs, in the building of canals and various other schemes of a national character. While it is to be admitted that worse uses could be made of money than in this direction, it is also to be said that this is not the proper mode of relief, that there is something still better to be done. It is not assistance that the people want, but it is a system that will enable them to assist themselves. We have no doubt that within five or ten years the urgent necessities of this rapidly growing country will lead people into the right direction, and that a proper fiscal method will be the result. Rapid expansion of business of all kinds is certainly encouraging business men who see opportunities before them and are struggling to reach them and profit by them. Real estate is steadily advancing in value; manufacturing is increasing; the construction of houses is surpassing the greatest expectations of a decade alone. The masses of the people are well employed. Wages are high. Employment is regular, and the demand is for more labor even than can be had, and this in the face of an importation of one million foreigners per annum.

There is no need of talking of what the outcome of all this will be. The prosperity we now enjoy can be made permanent. There is no need for a reaction and no room for one if we observe the simple rules in our national affairs which guide business men in their affairs. A sufficiency of good money is an imperative necessity. The hiding of hundreds of millions in banks and vaults, public or private, is almost a crime. As well might a nation surrounded by enemies, enlist a million of men and hide them in barracks, as for a nation like ours to coin and print money and hide it in vaults. The energies of sixty millions of people demand employment.

Our manufacturers, architects and builders are all busy. The present year is the most prosperous in our history. Philadelphia has built its five thousand houses already and will complete its six. New cities and towns of the far West and Southwest are galloping into prominence and are creating a new market for all manufactured products of the East. The spread of population throughout the West is laying the foundation for greater activity than the country has ever enjoyed.

WHEN all of the new office buildings projected and contemplated are erected, the business center of Philadelphia will present a metropolitan appearance.

OUR new City Government deserves much credit for the vigor with which it has undertaken to execute all laws on the statute book. Our citizens are pleased with our directors and will stand by them in their efforts to give us a thorough and masterly City Government.

THE Board of Health cannot give too much attention to the sanitary condition of our public schools. There is no doubt that much sickness of school children in times past has been due to neglecting this matter. No possible excuse can be offered for overlooking this very important sanitary matter.

THE rooms in the Drexel building are renting very fast. All of the rooms on the tenth floor are already taken and only about a dozen remain on the ninth floor. Rooms 18 x 21 rent from $150 to $200, the latter figure being for those on the street side containing three windows. The United Gas Improvement Company has taken an entire floor. The building will not be ready for occupancy for a year, but long before that time every office will be rented. The investment will be a very profitable one as the rentals are high but not unreasonable.

It has been suggested that clerks of work be appointed by builders or architects to see that the work agreed to be done is properly done. It is argued that the time of architects is too much taken up to supervise all of the multitudinous and tedious details of house and mill building. Expert mechanics, it is shown, can as well see that the instructions of architects are properly and honestly carried out. On certain classes of work, some such arrangement could no doubt be profitably made. It would be an improvement on the walking delegate!

LARGE blocks of two-story houses are being erected in the southwestern section of the city, but the question of drainage is not receiving the slightest attention. This may be customary and all right, but as fast as the city can afford to make necessary drainage improvements it should be done. It is, of course, true that if the question of preliminary drainage were insisted upon that blocks of houses would not be built. We must do with them as we have done in the past, follow up improvements as fast as they can be made without doing injustice to building enterprise.

THE architects, here and elsewhere, have been especially busy. Their reports made in recent conventions reveal a well satisfied condition. Work has been abundant and professional services are spoken of as coming with more request.

The agitations in the building trades have done more or less harm everywhere but especially in Chicago. Both employers and workmen are compactly organized and if strife breaks out a prolonged struggle would be probable. Throughout the earth we have been comparatively free.

The winter prospects are that the industries will all be busy. Jobbing interests anticipate a season of brisk exchanges. Stocks of nearly all kinds of merchandise are light, and factories and mills will necessarily run full time to meet customers' demands.

BUILDERS have had no chance to growl at the price of nails. Prices have been all summer $2.10 to $2.25. The nailmakers in the East met October 13th to see whether something cannot be done to better their trade conditions. Several mills in this State have never yet turned a wheel since they started. The fact is the nail making capacity of the country is far beyond the present needs or the probable needs for years to come. Both Eastern and Western associations contemplate the formation of a national association. The probabilities, however, are strongly against the establishment of an association that will enable the nail-makers to overcome the difficulties which beset them. Yet builders might as well keep an eye on their doings and be prepared lest by some turn of events prices might be advanced.

AND now, what of 1888. Have things reached a climax and must we settle down to ordinary plodding work. The spirit of Progress forbid! It would be a sin and a shame if the average man cannot be permitted to work sixteen hours a day and wear himself out before nature intended.

The best figures to be had declare that business this year is 15 per cent. ahead of last year to September 1st, and 20 per cent. of 1885 to same date. How will 1888 swing? The probabilities are that the rush of work will be as great next year as this. Railroad building may possibly receive a slight check but there is no reason for anticipating a general falling off in demand. The nation or its people owe less than ever; money is cheaper than years ago. The production and consumption of manufactured products of every kind is greater and prices are relatively lower. Rents, living, travel, clothing have not declined, but the mechanic and business man has more at the end of the year than when prices were lower.

There are no breakers in sight apart from the always present possibility of a stringent money market. It is very nice to have a ready administration with ample reserves at its command to step in and relieve any stringency that may overtake the business interests, but it would be much better to have a financial system that would regulate the volume of money to the needs of the people, automatically, so to speak.

The building interests throughout the country have been exceptionally prosperous. At New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati no dullness has existed. Reports from numerous smaller cities show a similar activity. The agricultural sections have been prosperous and an immense amount of shed, barn, fence and house building has been reflected in the lumber, hardware and iron markets.

Dr. Doremus is moved by the Opera Comique fire to suggest a cheap method for rendering fabrics almost fireproof. He writes: "Twenty years ago the light summer dress of one of my children, caught fire, and before the flames could be extinguished they had accomplished their fatal work. This heartrending accident induced me to make a series of experiments to prevent its recurrence. I dipped articles of clothing in solutions of tungstate of soda, borax and many other chemicals. After drying the texture I found them unflammable, but none of these agents were as effective as a solution of phosphate of ammonia in water. Let any one place delicate tissues, as those of which ladies' veils are made, or curtain materials, or thicker textures of cotton or linen in said solution, 'wring them out' and stretch them to dry, after which apply lighted match to them or plunge them into the gas flame. It will be impossible to set

Before the beginning of the historical period, considerable skill in rope making had been acquired, so that it must be classed among the oldest of the arts. The existing relics of the ancient Egyptians include sculptures showing the process of manufacture practiced more than 4,000 years ago, while the oldest records of that people represent well-made ropes of great strength. Flax and the fibres of the date tree were employed for these ropes, but grasses and the hides of animals were probably among the first materials used.

Nine Inches of Land.

The law sometimes plays strange and unpleasant pranks with a man's property, when a portion of it is taken for opening a street. In cutting Highland avenue through to Richmond avenue, all the land of Thomas Dark, Jr., on that street, is taken with the exception of nine inches, which is assessed $58.70 for the improvement, and will have to be paid because it is taken out of the damages awarded Mr. Dark, though his nine inches of real estate will not have a great value for him. Another feature of the case is that the land of James Drake is left just that nine inches from the corner, and he could be blocked off from it by a wall should the owner take a notion to erect one. The law does not allow the city to take any more land than is actually needed—or rather not more than is called for in the notice of intention. Otherwise the strip in question could have been taken, and no doubt there are those who wish it had been.—Buffalo Courier.

SANITARY SCHOOL-HOUSES.

WHERE AND HOW THEY SHOULD BE BUILT AND HOW HEATED AND VENTILATED.

The State Board of Health of Vermont has issued a circular in relation to school-houses which contains many valuable suggestions. Following are the more important: The best location for a school-house is on an elevation, from which the ground slopes in every direction, a natural mound or knoll, but not on a high hill. The soil should be gravelly, thus affording a natural drainage. Where these natural advantages cannot be had, the site selected should admit of and have thorough artificial drainage. It should not be in the vicinity of a marsh or any stagnant water, nor on filled grounds unless the ground was originally dry and filled with clean gravel. Trees are desirable, but not necessary. If they abound they should not be near enough to shade the building, which should get the sun and air freely. Much more light and air are required than for dwellings and shops. The lot should be sufficiently large that not more than one half of it should be covered by the building, which should be at least sixty feet from any other building. No school-house should be built in the vicinity of any mill, factory, machine-shop, railroad station, or other place where there is likely to be noise or confusion. The social character of a neighborhood and moral nuisances are also sometimes to be considered in deciding upon the location of a school-house. Where it is possible the lot should be large and furnished with more or less of the common apparatus for outdoor gymnastic exercises.

The height of the school building above the ground will depend upon the character of the soil; if it is naturally dry, the building may be near the ground; if drainage is necessary, the building should be put upon an elevated foundation. In any event, free circulation of air should be provided for, and the sub-floor space should be perfectly dry.

The material for construction should be the same as that adapted for the best houses. If brick or stone is used, damp-proof layers are important, as well as wainscoting and deeper furring than usual. Buildings should never be more than two stories high. Thirty-eight by twenty-three feet is about the model size and shape of rooms, according to the best authorities, and about twelve feet in height. These dimensions are determined by laws as to light, sound, and capacity. This size is adapted to accommodate forty pupils.

The area of window space, if in a city or village with other buildings in the vicinity, should not be less than one-fourth of the floor space. In the open country the window space may be somewhat smaller. The window-sills should never be placed lower than three and a half feet from the floor, and the windows should extend upward nearly to the ceiling. It is best to have the light diffuse itself from above the level of the pupils. The upper part of the windows and the ceiling serve to send down the light. Porticoes or projecting roofs or window ornaments should not be placed on the outside so as to in the least obstruct the light. Windows should be placed on the sides of the room. If the room is not over twenty-four feet wide the windows may be upon one side only, and that upon the left of the pupils as they sit at their desks. Light may be admitted from behind the children, but never in front.

The doors should be wide and open outward, and should be on the opposite side of the room from the windows.

No school building is perfect from a sanitary point of view which does not contain proper facilities for the care of wraps, overshoes, and umbrellas. These rooms should not be closets, but such as can be thoroughly ventilated. A wash-room is very convenient, perhaps, it may be said, necessary. It need not be large, but should be a separate room. It will greatly promote cleanliness. Children must at all times have plenty of water. The water supply, then, should be abundant, wholesome, and convenient of access. In common country school-rooms the ordinary stove is used for heating. This should be provided with a sheet-iron or galvanized iron jacket, extending high enough above the stove that the air may be well heated, and leaving a space from four to six inches all around the stove. This jacket should be opened at the top and closely fastened to the floor at the bottom. A pipe not less than six inches in diameter should pass through the floor under the stove and be carried out through the underpinning to the external air. Thus a current of pure air from out of doors, warmed by the stove, will be constantly poured into the room, and will diffuse itself so that the most remote from the stove will be warm, and those nearest will not be overheated.

Windows and doors are the natural ventilators. But they should be used only to flush rooms with fresh air during recess or after school hours. When the jacketed stove is used, the foul air may be got rid of by lowering the windows from the top; or better, by raising the lower sash and placing under it a strip of board so that the air may pass out between the upper and lower sash.

Each pupil should have from twenty-five to thirty cubic feet of fresh air to breathe every minute. Of course, the oftener the air is changed the smaller may be the space occupied. But how to change the air without creating unpleasant and dangerous draughts is the grand problem of ventilation. In rooms such as those mentioned above the entire air will, by ordinary means, be changed about three times an hour, without creating an objectionable current. But, to give each pupil the requisite amount of fresh air, it should be changed six or eight times an hour. Foul air, particularly among children, causes dullness, nervousness, headache, colds, catarrh, and numerous other disorders. Hence, foul air must be got rid of in some way. The jacketed stove, with the partially opened windows, will accomplish this for single rooms, although imperfectly, especially if the rooms are large. But if several rooms are to be heated by a furnace in the basement, special flues must be made for the egress of the bad air. It is better to have the registers for the inlet of warm air on the inner sides of the room, and above the middle. Thus the warm air will pass across the room toward the windows, the cool air from which will give a tendency to fall downward, then flowing along the floor, still retaining considerable warmth, it will keep the feet of the pupils warm, and will pass out of registers near the floor, in the wall of the room, upon the same side in which are the inlets. The registers of egress should be somewhat larger than those of ingress, and must be connected with flues extending to the roof, and that can be heated, thus creating a current which will draw out the bad air. The smoke-pipe of the furnace may be utilized for the heat necessary to

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, OCT. 17, 1887.

THE Ponce de Leon hotel will be built of concrete, which is one third cheaper than brick.

A CHEAP and simple way of purifying cistern water is to use three grains of perchloride of iron and four grains of soda crystals per gallon of water. This precipitate will settle in forty-five minutes and leave the water perfectly clear.

It is time that a perfectly safe automatic coupler were adopted by the railroads of the country, because twelve hundred persons are killed every year, and twenty-eight hundred maimed by the present careless devices.

THE question of the removal of Smith's and Windmill Islands is again renewed, the Advisory Board to the Harbor Commission having declared them permanent barriers to the future improvement of our water front, and that they even threaten to seriously embarrass our commercial interests and prosperity. After an expenditure of forty thousand dollars by the government to keep open a channel through the sand bar at the northern end of Smith's Island the effort is now regarded as a complete failure. It is a question if the removal of these islands will effect the purposes intended. No man has ever been able to circumvent or direct the influences of tides to any considerable extent, and the proposition to remove these islands involves so much risk that it is even an open question in case they are removed if our whole water front will not be entirely ruined. The accumulation of sand is the result of up-river washings; this must settle somewhere, and the probability is, in case a channel is opened through the centre of the river, that these washings will fill up our slips and bulk-heads along our river front. We had better look before we leap.

WHILE there is no open outbreak between the architects and builders yet there are rumblings that betoken the possibility of a storm. No doubt there is just cause for grievances to be found on both sides. The architects complain that after they have spent thought and time over a design, when every point in the whole construction has undergone a complete and searching scrutiny, the builder comes with the complaint that this is not right, and the other could be improved, and frequently refuses to bid on the same. This is the sore point with an architect, and he frequently anathematizes the whole tribe of builders.

On the other hand the builder refuses to bid because plans and specifications are not definite, they are drawn on too small a scale, frequently on a sixteenth or an eighth, when nothing smaller than a quarter scale, unless carefully drawn and thoroughly figured, can give a clear meaning. The use of the quarter scale should not be arbitrary; however, when plans are to be made for buildings one hundred feet square, it is folly to carry out the quarter rule when the working drawings are sufficiently explicit. Experienced bidders when estimating in the offices of certain architects add a certain amount to their estimates, which might be called "the personal equation," for elaborate details which are neither indicated in the specifications or general drawings. Many architects, though drawing to a small scale, indicate to the builder the character of the work he may expect.

Many a young contractor has been ruined by deceptive plans. Architects should present their work in such a shape that misconceptions are not liable to occur. When this is done the builder should have confidence and respect for the architect to concede the fact that years of study and preparation are worth something.

WE are informed by some lumbermen from the Northwest that the stocks of white pine are very large, and that prices are low. The supply of white pine in this market is large enough to supply all wants. Large purchases have been made but deliveries are backward on account of a scarcity of cars. The various railroad companies have given large car orders out, that deliveries be made as fast as possible. Quite a good deal of lumber that has been bought for fall delivery cannot be delivered until next spring. This is given as a reason why lumber will advance during the winter. Builders should make a note of the prediction and not be deceived by the fact that lumber in the West is a little lower in price than usual. The receipts of lumber at Chicago are one hundred million feet in excess of last year, but if it cannot reach Eastern markets the abundance there does no good here.

The low stage of water in the upper streams of the Mississippi has prevented the free movement of logs to the mills. At Minneapolis and St. Paul dry stocks are exhausted, and green lumber is being liberally shipped. The railroad requirements this year have been a very important feature. All of the larger lines of roads are now short of cars, and the winter will be on them before they will be supplied. There is talk in the West of an advance in prices.

W. S. FRAZIER, a well-known Pittsburgh architect, in a paper read before the Fire Underwriters' Association, of Western Pennsylvania, said that the majority of the so-called fire-proof buildings were nothing but traps, and would burn very readily. He showed that wood set close to steam pipes would ignite, and that this was the cause of a great many fires. He emphasized the necessity for greater architectural supervision of houses intended to be fire-proof, and argued that carelessness in construction was often responsible for fires, when proper construction would prevent them.

create the draught for the outlet flues. Unless the upward draught be very considerable the flues must be very large. As commonly made, the ventilating flues, even in rooms supposed to be well ventilated, are so small as to be of very little use.

Unless the location be elevated, and the soil dry and porous, there will be need of artificial drainage. The ground should be thoroughly under-drained, so that after a rain the surface will very soon become dry, and leave no pools or puddles of water in which organic matter may putrefy and contaminate the air. And particularly should the ground underneath the building be carefully protected, so that no water from the roofs or from the ground around can penetrate the cellar or the sub-floor space, rendering it damp or unwholesome.

The essential points of a privy are, a receptacle completely impervious to moisture, and plenty of dry earth in powder. The receptacle should be of easy access, so that the contents can be readily removed. It should be large enough to hold the quantity which accumulates during a week, and should be emptied at the end of every week. Dry, finely-powdered clay is by far the best, but loam will answer. Sand and gravel are not suitable. In a farming community almost any one can afford to furnish the dry earth and empty the receptacles for the benefit of his land, since, if properly attended to, the contents of the receptacles are no more offensive than dry ashes. In places where water supply is abundant and sewerage is good water-closets are undeniably the most desirable. But these require an experienced plumber, who understands what is necessary. The location of the privies or closets should be near, but not in the school building. Separate ones should be provided for the different sexes, and the passage to them, certainly for the girls, should be covered.

Seats should be single, and of such height that the pupil's feet can rest on the floor. If too high, the pupil should have a foot-rest. The back of the seat should be curved, adapted to the curve of the body. Especially should the lower half of the spine be supported. The seat should be broad enough to support the greater part of the thigh. Desks ought to be of such a height that the elbows may rest upon them without displacing the shoulders. The front of the desk ought to be perpendicular to the edge of the seat, or project over the seat for an inch or two. No desk ought to be more than once and one-half the distance from the window that the top of the window is from the floor. The top of the desk ought to incline upward at an angle of twenty degrees for writing. For reading, the angle of forty degrees is better. If the top is not adjustable it may incline at thirty degrees. It ought to support the paper or book at a distance of twelve or sixteen inches from the eyes. It would be well that the desk or the seat, or some part thereof, should be movable at pleasure, so that, although the desk usually overhangs the seat, the scholar may be able at any time to stand upright in his place.—Building.

Architects' Notes.

Furness & Evans, 209 South Third street, have made the plans for a large elegantly appointed hotel in Baltimore, Md.

The last report obtained from the Girard Trust Company was that the competition for the plans had not closed.

While the architects have not so much work on hand to be built at once, yet the majority are looking forward to next spring, to which point much of their present work is tending.

The Philadelphia Barge Club have accepted the plans for their new club house, by Constable Brothers. The house will be two stories high, with a frontage of 60 feet and a depth of 40 feet.

Architect Dodge, a resident of Holmesburg city, with G. W., J. M. D. Hewitt, 310 Chestnut street, will soon commence the plans for a house for Titus Bros., same place. The building will be of frame construction and cost about five thousand dollars.

Amos J. Boyden, 413 Walnut street, is working on the plans for a two and-a-half story stone and frame house for H. J. Brooks, at Oak Lane Station on the North Penn R. R. The contracts are not let. About $7,000 is the cost of the house.

Wilson Brothers & Co., 435 Chestnut street, have finished the plans for a three-story stone house at Overbrook, Pa.; also a house for the Rev. Mr. Ecker, at Abington, and a stone school house at the same place, a house for Dr. John Lowman, at Johnstown, Pa., and two stations for the Coney Island R. R. Co.

Frank R. Watson, 518 Walnut street, drew the plans for the dye house and stock room for Pilling and Madelsy, Trenton avenue and Huntingdon street, now under contract by Robert Beatty. The building is of brick, 138x32 feet. By the same architect a house at Oak Lane for David Dixon. The structure will be two and-a-half stories, of stone and shingle with a slate roof, no contracts are let. Also a frame and single Queen Anne house for F. M. Pierce, at Chastley, N. J. L. Fisher is the contractor.

Hazlehurst & Huckle, 410 Walnut street, are quite busy, and have a force of seven men at work constantly. Among other new work may be reported that of the Manufacturers' Club, which was won by them in competition. This building is to be located at 1409 Walnut street, and will be the most ornamental and convenient club house in the city. Indiana lime stone will be used for the Walnut street front, and the front on Moravian street will be highly ornate. All of the building, which is to consist of five stories, will be divided into compartments as follows: The café, reception, and secretary's rooms on the first floor; library and billiard room on the second; assembly hall on the third; private and large dining rooms on the fourth; barber shop, smoking room and kitchens on the fifth floor. On the roof will be built a summer garden. A hydraulic elevator will afford easy access to any of these rooms. Steam will be used in the heating and incandescent lamps for the lighting of the building. By the same architects, a house on Spring Garden street above Twentieth, for R. N. Carson. The improvement will have a brown stone front and hard-wood finish. No contracts are yet let. Also a hotel at Ashville, N. C., for A. Garrett, to be called the Oakland. Bids are now being received.

Furness, Evans & Co., 209 S. Third street, have finished the plans for a house for John H. Livingston, to be built on Walnut street above Twenty-second street. The base and trimmings will be of English red stone. The front will be of fine pressed brick. The inside finish and construction has received careful consideration to the smallest detail; open grates, electric bells, dumb waiter, a complete system of plumbing and heating will be introduced. The house will be four stories high; the front building will be 22x40, the building in the rear 17½x43.

Brian & Godwin, 1413 Filbert street, have now on the boards five two-story brick houses with pressed brick fronts, the trimmings to be of brown stone and highly ornamental cornices. The special feature will be the plumbing. These houses are for Mrs. Geisenberger, and will be erected at Tacony. By the same architects an alteration and addition, involving, probably, an expenditure of a thousand dollars, will also be built in the spring for C. Needles at 2424 Kensington ave. These gentlemen have quite a number of large operations on hand which will be reported later on.

BUILDERS' ITEMS.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

At Allentown Pa., a new stand pipe to cost $2600, is to be erected.

Sheriff Ridgway will alter the front of the Assembly Buildings, of which he is the owner, at the Southwest corner of Tenth and Chestnut streets.

The Fairhill Land Company at Pierson's Station, P. R. R., although having been organized but a few months, have sold over sixteen hundred lots. The superior advantages offered being in a large measure the cause.

The Stokes property on the Bristol pike at Holmesburg, is being viewed by parties who are looking for a suitable location for a school. The house and grounds as they now stand, are for sale at one hundred thousand dollars.

A new parish building has been started at Chestnut Hill, for the Church of the Mother of Consolation. The structure will be of stone three stories high, with a frontage of 45 feet and depth of 75 feet. The probable cost will be $12,000.

A new hall will be built by the Odd Fellows in this city. No location has as yet been decided upon, it is understood that a committee has been appointed to select a suitable site, about $200,000 will be necessary to build a hall and furnish the same.

The Atlantic Refining Company, located at Point Breeze, who lost several valuable buildings by fire recently, are now ready to go on with rebuilding; two pump houses one story high, one 62x33 feet and the other 72x35, and a two story warehouse, 93x93 feet. The first story will be 11 feet and the second story 10 feet in height.

In a recent issue we mentioned that the Pleasant Hill Land Association had been organized and were prepared to sell building lots, since that period, nearly eighteen hundred lots have been sold, the like of which, has never been known in the history of land associations in this city. It will prove an interesting and profitable item to architects and builders, that the majority of these lots will have houses erected upon them, costing from two to five thousand dollars. Work will be commenced on them early next spring and almost before the city knows it, she will have a thriving settlement in the upper end of the Twenty third ward, composed of beautiful houses on well graded streets. So much for enterprise.

Councils' Proceedings.

Several very important matters came up before Select and Common Councils at their meetings on Thursday of last week. A large amount of pressing business was promptly disposed of, among which were the establishment of voting places, the laying of additional gas pipes, the erection of public lamps, the construction of main sewers in several portions of the city, the revision of grades of streets, and the paving and grading of various streets.

In Select Council the usual batch of new measures was introduced, among which were the provision for electric lights at nine points on Ridge avenue, the re-paving of a portion of Broad street, between Dauphin and Lehigh avenue, with an improved pavement, besides the laying of sewers on Tioga street, between Broad and Germantown avenue. Steps were taken to complete the re-paving of Oxford street, between Broad and Eighteenth streets. Mr. Housman introduced a measure fixing the charge for building permits at $2.00 instead of variable charges according to the time occupied in making improvements.

Petitions were presented for electric lights in Frankford, for an increase in the pay of certain firemen, and for provision for pay of police matrons.

The Board of Education presented through the chairman of select council, an important communication concerning the condition of the Girls' Normal School, which stated that its accommodations were wholly insufficient to accommodate the large numbers that seek the education given by a high school. The communication asked for an appropriation of $125,000 to supply the proper building. The matter was appropriately referred.

In Common Council a large number of bills was introduced, referring to the grading and paving of streets and macadamizing certain roads. Among the Common Council measures was one to appropriate $50,000 for the extension of Mill Creek sewer and $25,000 to extend the Landreth Public School in the Twenty-sixth ward. The Chairman of the Highway Committee proposed the establishment of a new bureau, to have charge of the construction and maintenance of bridges. The managers of the Pennsylvania Hospital, in West Philadelphia, desire authority to open a street to their grounds. The Electrical Committee was ordered to report upon a petition from citizens of the Fifteenth ward for electric lights on Green street, between Broad street and Fairmount Park. The Survey Committee was directed to test the endurance of their noses on the Aramingo Canal, which has been the subject of much criticism for some time past.

Legally Dead.

WEST CHESTER, Oct. 6.—Register of Wills B. Levis Hoopes has just granted letters of administration upon an estate in a case the like of which has never before been presented in Chester county, and perhaps but few have ever existed in the State. By an act of the Legislature approved on June 24, 1885, it was made possible to legally presume upon the death of a testator after an absence of seven years. Francis J. Keiter of Spring City applied for letters of administration upon the estate of Frederick R. Ebner, formerly of East Vincent township, Chester county, who had been absent from home for seven years, and was supposed to be deceased, his whereabouts being entirely unknown. By the terms of this law certain requirements must be complied with in cases of this kind relative to advertising, etc., one of which is that a lapse of twelve weeks must occur after notice has been given by advertisement before the matter can be taken into court. Mr. Keiter having complied with all the conditions of the law, the court decreed that the legal presumption of death had been established, and directed the register of wills to issue letters of administration on the estate. The case is a peculiar one, and might give rise to some curious complications if the testator should happen to turn up alive; but under the provisions of the law the register of wills is exonerated from any liability under the letters, and is not responsible for anything that may occur under such a contingency. There has probably been no other case of the kind presented in this section of the state since the law went into effect.—Morning News, Wilmington. Del.

Schubert, of Neuremberg, has made a careful study of the various kinds of script and the bearing which the use of each has upon the hygiene of the eyes among children, and the following are his conclusions: "As a practical conclusion drawn from his over-vations, Schubert lays down the rule that all children should be taught a perpendicular handwriting. Even if the erect median position of copy-book be not actually better than the oblique median, still the teacher cannot tell when inspecting writing done at home what absurd position may have been adopted when writing it, if the child is permitted to write anything but perpendicular letters. These latter can only be executed in the erect median position. It may be possible for adults to write more rapidly a slanting than a perpendicular hand, but children are not required to write rapidly, but in a manner that does not tend to deform their vertebral columns or their eyes. In many countries, nowadays, and in times past, perpendicular handwriting alone obtains, and Schubert appends a series of fac-similes of German handwriting in every century from the eighth to the eighteenth inclusive. From this it is seen that slanting letters were not adopted to any extent until the seventeenth century."

The October number of The Connoisseur has been received. This number is the beginning of Volume II. Some interesting reading from the pens of Henry Willard Austin on "Monks and his Work," illustrated; "Recent English Architecture," by Paul Sedille, illustrated; "American Book Illustration," by Frank L. White; "A German View of the Paris Salon," Eugen Von Jagow; and several very pretty poems and illustrations. The frontispiece, by Frederick W. Freer, is an original dry point etching of a head, a masterpiece in itself.

LONDON mobs, hungry for bread, will strengthen the disposition of a great many fair-minded people to enquire into the causes which lead to such a state of things as is to be found among the London poor to-day. England has tens of thousands of broad and fertile acres that it is reasonable to suppose people would go to if they could; they go to them in this country and in Europe, as well as in South America and Australia. These agitations are calculated to unsettle the confidence the people of England as to the wisdom of the system of political economy, which they have been accustomed to regard as fixed as the laws of the Medes and Persians.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, OCT. 24, 1887.

THE fine vacant lot on Chestnut street above Seventh has as yet found no buyer, although a good many inquiries have been made for it, and some conditional offers.

THE rush for money in Eastern markets has subsided. Those who, a month or six weeks ago, were urgent borrowers are now returning their loans and rates of interest are pointing downward. The stringency was of short duration, yet its recurrence is possible and probable.

COUNTRY real estate dealers within fifty miles of Philadelphia have been selling a good deal of property during the past month or two, and are even now pushing through negotiations for large transfers that indicate that the real estate boom, if such it is, is not at an end.

THE architects throughout Pennsylvania have had a great deal of encouragement during the past few weeks. Everything points to a great deal of activity next year. It appears, from present indications, that a larger amount of fine house building will be entered upon next year than this. This year has been a busy one in small house building, and this activity will no doubt continue throughout the coming year, but it will be strengthened by the construction of a large number of houses costing from $5,000 to $10,000,—so, at least, architects think and say.

BUILDING material of all kinds keeps at moderate prices. Nails are even lower than in the summer. Bar and sheet iron are selling slightly lower in large lots. The production of crude iron is increasing, and is now at the highest limit ever known. Merchant steel is also low, as is everything which goes into the construction of tools, machinery and appliances of all kinds. This is encouraging to the building interests.

THERE is a good deal of guess-work indulged in as to the probable future course of markets. The country is not running into debt. Very little of the wealth created is diverted to the payment of interest or mortgage indebtedness. What the people earn is theirs. The General Government, instead of seeking to increase taxation, is unable to unite upon a plan to reduce it. Municipal taxation is moderate when compared to the earning capacity of the people. Taxation, in any form, is not considered burdensome, and there is a disposition among the people to endure even more, where expenditures are made for legitimate purposes. Wages are high and employment permanent. Manufactured products, for the most part, are sold at good margins and manufacturing capacity of all kinds is more or less oversold. Whether we view the future from an industrial and commercial standpoint, we find many reasons to justify the conclusion that the condition of the country is far better than it has ever been during any period in its history. It is not, therefore, wise or sensible to anticipate a disaster this year or next. The great bulk of the people are pursuing a conservative course. The wild expenditure of one speculator in a thousand cannot cause a depression. Our locomotive works were never so busy as at this time. The car works throughout the country cannot build and deliver cars fast enough. Our shop capacity is employed far into the night, and the mills and furnaces of the country are producing and selling more material than the history of the country has ever known.

Many writers take these very facts as evidences of a reaction. If vigorous and healthy activity are precursors of disaster, then we are face to face to it. The trouble with many prognosticators is that they see an end to large profits and rapid fortune-making. Speculative opportunities are fewer. The bulls and bears can no longer toss stocks hither and thither and pile up vast fortunes out of the credulity of investors. People know more and see farther than a few years ago. Legitimate enterprise is more general. Moderate earnings are the rule. The government is drawing a tight rein on railroad monopolies. Individual enterprise feels more encouraged. The actual brain and brawn of the country has a better chance to-day than last year. Declining prices of wheat, corn, and meat means something to them. Speculators may rage and corporations may groan, but the consumers have no tears to shed over declining prices, or a falling off in purely speculative activity.

MR. DUPUY, who has been so widely quoted during the past few days, on account of his published views in regard to the real estate boom, hastens to deny the conclusions which were drawn from his statements. Eastern financiers, investors and speculators were interested in what was said from the panic standpoint. Western real estate and business interests are interested in Mr. DUPUY for an entirely different reason. They will be the greatest sufferers in case a reaction sets in. His haste to contradict in part what he said was due to his anxiety to save railroad securities and prevent any untoward influences breaking in upon the stock market. Mr. Dupuy does not care particularly whether the Western real estate speculators pay $100 for a $10 lot or not, but he does not want railroad stocks to decline a single point. All Westerners would, however, do well to paste Mr. Dupuy's alleged incorrectly reported interview in their hats and read it every morning and evening. He has told pretty near the truth.

DURING the past six months a large amount of brick-making machinery of all kinds has been shipped East, West, and South. The brick-making interests were never in a better shape than at present.

THE manufacturers of building material propose to do a great deal of preparatory work this winter, in view of an active demand for material next spring. Interview with slate manufacturers, quarriers of stone, makers of brick (plain and fancy), manufacturers of lath and shingles, manufacturers and dealers in lumber for building purposes, show that all have about the same thing to say concerning the future of building material. Whatever the possibilities are in the West, we, here in the East, feel that the healthy activity in building will not be abated because railroad builders may see fit to build fewer miles of railroad next year than they did this year. The falling off in construction of railroads has led to a decline in demand and price. Within a few months rails have declined from $42 to $34. This in itself is a good thing. There is in many other directions a slight declining tendency; even certain kinds of lumber are weaker than two or three months ago. Michigan uppers are down one or two dollars per thousand. Nails are selling at 2 to 2.10 at factory. Bar iron is one dollar per ton easier than in midsummer. Lath, shingles, slate and some kind of stone are also a little lower. This is due to two causes,—first, to the increasing facilities for production, and second, to the fact that there is some uncertainty in the minds of buyers and builders as to the extent of next year's building activity. The effect of this weakening tendency in prices will be to help building enterprise. Land in Pennsylvania has advanced very little; building sites can be had almost as cheap as a year ago; whatever advance has taken place it is legitimate and not speculative. Near railroads, building sites are held pretty firmly, but the advantages justify the prices asked. In rural sections farmers and land owners are quite willing to dispose of land at reasonable prices, in order to encourage enterprise in their midst. Saw-mills and planing-mills throughout the State have had quite a busy season. In the West a combination has been effected by which prices have reasonably been advanced.

ARCHITECTS engaged to erect large buildings find it advisable to frequently consult engineers on such matters as the generation and distribution of steam, the best and cheapest methods of ventilation. The training of the average architect is not in this channel. The occasional oversights, which have developed into actual mistakes, have emphasized the necessity for the consultation of specialists. The multitude of steam-generating and ventilating appliances on the market is confusing often to the architect who has had no special training in such matters. Builders of large structures have a right to the use of the highest special skill in every detail. There is considerable latitude for judgment in the choice of devices, and only those whose education and experience enables them to keep fully posted should be entrusted with the important task of deciding the which and the how in the doing of such work.

THE matter of furnishing accommodations for those pupils who have passed the examination for promotion to the Girls' Normal School was again agitated on last Thursday, when the Board of Education presented a communication to Select Council, in which it was stated that the present building is not large enough to accommodate those who seek the advantages of a high school education. Many pupils at the last examination for admission to the Normal school were denied the privilege, although obtaining the required average merely for lack of room, a petition was then sent to the Board of Education asking that a place be furnished with the necessary school appliances where these neglected candidates could receive proper instruction. This was refused. Now a resolution has been referred to the Committee on Schools for an appropriation of $125,000 to enable the Board to purchase a suitable lot of ground and to erect a building which shall be used as a high school for girls. It is to be hoped that this very necessary measure will meet with no opposition and be pushed forward with all possible speed.

JUST now the indications point to a more conservative action next year on the part of various labor organizations. The striking spirit has run a good part of its course. The rank and file of workmen will not be so easily attracted into contests with their employers next spring as they were this. The desire to secure the highest possible pay will lead to agitations for better wages, but it will be localized rather than general in its nature. Last spring the feeling prevailed that wages should be higher in all directions. At present workmen feel that they are being paid about the value of their labor, and that an agitation for fewer hours is likely to bring evil to them, as well as to their employers.

THE volume of business during the past two or three weeks shows a little subsidence of distribution throughout. The far West has had an exceedingly prosperous season, and is now wisely curtailing operations, so as not to have heavy debts to pay when the winter season comes upon them. The railroad companies are all crowded with freight, and a severe cutting of both freight and passenger rates is in progress in the West. One railroad company has reduced its passenger rates to two cents; competing lines, it is hoped by the Granger interests, will be obliged to follow suit. We, here in the East, would be pleased to see such a fare revolution encouraged, and hope it may extend here. Two cents passenger rates ought to be high enough. During the past twenty or thirty years everything else has declined, but passenger rates remain where they were, notwithstanding many of us are travelling in the same old cars.

A FINELY-CONSTRUCTED school-house has an educational influence on pupils which it would be well to stimulate. Brick walls and carpenter work may meet the utilitarian demands, but higher ends can be profitably subserved in the production of architectural effects, which need not add largely to the cost of plain work. The lack of pleasing architecture is not a defect, but its presence would be an advantage. Too little attention is given to interior school-house work, and they frequently bear too much resemblance to mere educational barracks. The necessity of more improved sanitary devices, and the importance of more light and air, which in a measure come under the head of sanitation, is recognized. The limited means made available for school building purposes, and the urgency for the greatest possible space, are against beautifying either interior or exterior to any great degree, but a comparison of the school-house of to-day with the school-house of our youth shows that some progress is being made.

AN examination of our exchanges shows that a great deal of public building is to be undertaken next year throughout the Western States. The same is more or less true of Eastern cities. During the last two or three decades the business expansion through which we have passed was not anticipated. Houses and cities were not built, as they would have been had our wonderful growth been then foreseen. Scores of buildings now are projected that will cost from $100,000 to half a million. Large, fine buildings are being built and projected which will accommodate from 50 to 300 tenants, instead of, as in the past, small houses after the manner of dwellings, which accommodate a trifling number only. It has taken us a long time to get away from the dwelling house system, just as it has taken the English car builders a long time to get away from the old stage coach idea.

THE American plan or system for the building of small houses for working men is attracting a good deal of attention in Great Britain and Europe. The Building and Loan idea has enabled tens of thousands of American to own their own houses, where otherwise they would never be out of the control of a landlord. Some improvements have been made in Paris by a financier, who proposes to issue bonds for fifty million dollars and build an immense number of houses, which the buyer can have seventy-five years to pay for. The money will be borrowed by the issuing of notes from one franc upwards. The total loan will be divided into seventy-five parts and one part will be redeemed each year at double the face value of the notes. The scheme has the lottery feature in it, and for this reason is attractive in Paris. It will enable poor people to live practically in their own homes.

THERE is entirely too strong a spirit of investment in the States west of the Mississippi. True, it is raging in spots only, but the spots are large and a vast amount of money is disappearing in channels which must, of necessity, remain unremunerative for years. The farmers and landowners will obtain a good deal of money for nothing and be profited to that extent; perhaps, after all, the loss is not so serious as might be at first apparent. Those who have a good deal of money to spare are handing it over to those who are in need of it; but, after all, this is not business, and money expended in an unbusinesslike way is a loss.

THE New York Legislature has asked the Superintendent of Public Instruction to procure from architects six plans for country and town school buildings, costing from $600 to $10,000 each, the latter size to accommodate 250 pupils. Country schools in New York and other States have been built too closely by the rule of thumb, and it is well to see what are the best results which can be obtained from a given sum of money. Country school-houses ought to be made somewhere near half as comfortable and attractive to their occupants as the farmers' stables generally are to their stock.

WOOD pulp is now made into boards and covered with metallic paint, and thus made almost fire-proof. It can be and is made to weigh one-half pound to the square foot, which is one-tenth that of slate and one-fifth that of shingles.

WITHIN the past few days Western lumber salesmen have been prowling through Eastern markets, endeavoring to unload large quantities of material for winter rail shipment.

VERY little progress seems to be made in determining what is the best and cheapest pavement for constant and rough travel.

THE people of Philadelphia will call for electric lights just as fast as the city finances will allow the system to be extended.

THE Pennsylvania Club has purchased a building on Walnut street east of Fifteenth, which it will hereafter occupy.

THE Building Inspectors do not believe the regulation of the permit fee belongs to Councils, as the matter is now fixed by Act of Assembly.

SEVERAL textile manufacturers contemplate the construction of additional mill capacity this winter. The textile manufacturers have reason to be proud of their success, but they have earned it, and are determined to keep Philadelphia in the front rank as a manufacturing city.

THE American Street Railway Association can do much good to its membership by an exchange of views as to methods and management. Several very practical and interesting questions were discussed at the recent meeting. The question of the application of electricity is becoming one, and street railway managers show a disposition to utilize electricity as fast as electricians produce motors capable of doing economic and regular work.

It is probable that a large amount of small house building will be done next year. The tendency is in that direction, not only in this city, but in others. Land and building material can be better utilized in the construction of small houses than in large ones. Our Building and Loan Associations are doing a great deal in the way of stimulating the house owning spirit and hundreds of small houses are gradually slipping out of the ownership of large builders in the possession of individual owners.

It is to be hoped that the builders of new houses on Chestnut street, will not strain the law governing the width of that street too severely, for the sake of a few inches advantage. There seems to be need of supplemental legislation upon the question of the preservation of the legal width of Chestnut street. Some builders are willing to live up to the letter and spirit of the law, others grudgingly conform to the letter of it. Councils cannot too soon give attention to this matter in order that future complications can be avoided.

A GOOD many builders are using small quantities of red wood, which is being adopted to some extent in the Western cities for very fine work. It is susceptible of a very high degree of finish. The Michigan lumbermen began a few years ago to pick up desirable tracts at $5 to $7 per acre in California, and the later demand has since advanced prices to $25 to $50 per acre.

The West End.

That part of Market and Chestnut streets west of Broad street, seems to be familiarly known as the West End, in fact the name has been growing more popular every year. At first the name was given to a hotel, soon afterwards the merchants of that section applied it to designate their wares. It is several years ago that F. H. Peirce & Co., the shirt manufacturers and furnishes at 1407 Chestnut street, conceived the idea of manufacturing a first-class shirt that could be sold for a single dollar and which although low in price should possess so many of the elements of superiority that they could justly guarantee it to be the best shirt in the world for the money. After many experiments they succeeded in producing just what they had aimed for, and in selecting a name they decided upon the West End. To-day the West End is the most popular shirt in the market, and it must continue to maintain its present popularity just so long as the same care is exercised in its production and the materials used in making it, none but the best selected Wamsutta muslin is used. The bosoms are three-ply and are made of 1900 fronting linen, which is made especially for this firm. The West End is cut by a system which insures a perfect fit in almost every instance. It is finished by hand in the best manner and the sewing is done with the best six-cord cotton, besides which each shirt has a patent continuous facing which effectually prevents tearing down the back. This then is a short history of the West End Shirt which can be bought at East End prices, to wit: $1.25 laundered and $1.00 unlaundered and you will never realize how good they are until you have given them a critical examination.

At the Royal Institution, London, Mr. Winchurst has exhibited an exceedingly interesting experiment in which small type placed on a disc revolving several thousand times a minute was distinctly seen and read while in motion. This was accomplished by means of an electrical arrangement which caused brilliant sparks to illuminate the print at the exact instant only when the type was vertical. But for the buzzing produced by the great velocity of the disc, the words would have been supposed to be at rest. This beautiful application of the electric spark gives a ready means of observing any and all changes which may take place either in matter or machinery in rapid motion.

At a shipyard in Newburgh is being constructed the first vessel to be propelled by electricity ever built in this country. It is a yacht, 37 feet long, 7 feet wide, and 5 feet deep. It is to be run by stored electricity. It is building for a Newark, N. J. electric company, and it will run between that city and New York.

The earth's internal heat is now being used in a practical way at Pesh, where the deepest artesian well in the world is being sunk to supply hot water for the public baths and other purposes. A depth of 3,120 feet has already been reached, and the well supplies daily 176,000 gallons of water heated to 150° Fahr.

Recent Decisions in Pennsylvania in Relation to Matters Concerning Real Estate and Commercial Law.

DECIDED BY THE SUPREME COURT.

DEED.—A deed of land with all rents, issues and profits, and all the grantor's estate, right and interest to the grantee, his heirs and assigns, vests in the grantee the legal title and equitable estate, including ground rent and life estate of the grantor.

BIDDLE vs. TOMLINSON.

March 28, 1887.

An instrument in the form of deed purporting to convey lands to a trustee, in trust for the trustee's children, the grantor reserving the right to collect the rents, issues and profits for her own use during life, was duly signed and acknowledged, but not in the presence of the trustee or cetuis que trust, and no consideration paid; and it was retained by the grantor in her possession until death. Held that it was not a valid deed.

A delivery is essentially necessary to give validity to a deed. The signing and sealing thereof are insufficient to bind the grantor or to pass title to the grantee therein named.

DURAIND vs. DYCH.

April 11, 1887.

CORPORATIONS.—Where the whole amount of the unpaid subscriptions to the stock of an insolvent corporation is required to pay the creditors, an assessment is not prerequisite to an action by the assignee of the corporation against a stockholder.

But where the whole amount is not necessary to pay creditors, no action can be maintained until the extent of the stockholders' liability has been ascertained.

BANK vs. GILLESPIE.

March 21, 1887.

HUSBAND AND WIFE.—In an action to obtain possession of land bought at an execution sale, where the wife of the execution debtor claimed the property as her separate estate, which claim was alleged by the plaintiff to be fraudulent, the defendant claimed that although the land was originally acquired with the wife's money, the deed was made out to the husband; that thereafter he endorsed an assignment to his wife on the deed; that subsequently the husband transferred the property to a third person and such third person transferred it to the wife.

Held that the defendants were not precluded from putting in evidence such original deed and the assignment endorsed thereon, by the fact that an affidavit made by the wife in this proceeding, stated that she did not come into possession, and did not claim to hold under the execution debtor (the husband), but that she came into possession under the title of such third party.

If the husband had possession of the wife's money and used it in the purchase of the property, it would support the wife's title.

HEATH vs. SLOCUM.

March 21, 1887.

NOTES.—As a defense to a past due promissory note, signed by the defendant and payable to the plaintiff's testator, the defendant alleged that the note was given for the accommodation of the testator, and in support of the allegation proved that the date of the note was written with ink different from that used in the rest of the note, and that when the note was protested he had sent notice to the testator complaining that the testator did not attend to his business, to which the testator replied that it was the defendant who did not attend to his business. Held that this evidence was properly submitted to the jury, and that a comment upon its inadequacy was not error. The verdict was for the plaintiff, the jury finding that this evidence was not sufficient to make the note anything but what it read on its face.

Plaintiff could not recover unless he was in actual possession of the premises at the time of the alleged trespass.

The Fastest Boat in the World.

Messrs. Thornycroft, the torpedo boat builders of Chiswick, have just completed a new torpedo boat for the Spanish Government, which for speed has beaten anything which has yet been built. The new boat is 147 feet 6 inches in length, has a beam of 14 feet 6 inches, and draws 4 feet 8 inches of water. She has twin-screw compound engines, which act independently of each other, while the steering gear consists of two curved rudders, which make her the handiest vessel of the class yet afloat, as she is able to turn about in three times her own length going at ordinary speed, which to-day was 15.84 knots with the natural draught.

On a trip the other day with the tide in her favor and forced draught she attained the extraordinary speed of 29.01 knots, or a rate of nearly 33½ miles an hour. Her times yesterday on the measured knot were, for two runs of a knot each with the tide, 2 minutes, 10 seconds and 2 minutes 11¼ seconds; while against the tide for three runs the record was 2 minutes 25 seconds, 2 minutes 25 seconds, and 2 minutes 25½ seconds—giving a mean speed of 26.18 knots, or over thirty miles an hour.

She is divided into a number of water-tight compartments, and in case of being hull-bulged by shot is fitted with ejectors capable of discharging 480 tons of water per hour. She has two torpedo tubes in the bows, and has space to carry four Schwartzkopf torpedoes, and will mount four Nordenfiet machine guns.—London Telegraph.

California's 1887 wheat crop is variously estimated at 32,000,000 bushels and upwards. One authority states that if the rainfall is somewhat deficient the figures will be about 34,000,000 bushels against 36,165,000 last year.

Worth Remembering.

In this age of telegraphs, typewriters, and telephones business is transacted so rapidly that what would have taken our forefathers a week to accomplish is now done in a single day.

Old methods are fast giving way to more progressive ideas. Competition in all lines is pushed to the last extremity, and the energetic man is ever ready to welcome the advent and herald the success of any time and labor-saving mechanical device which tends to insure promptness and accuracy in business.

The more progressive builders and architects have within the past few years learned to appreciate the great advantage to them of using the typewriter in writing specifications and in submitting estimates. The work from these wonderful instruments is plain and business-like, obviating all mistakes in reading and for this class of work has the special advantages of enabling the user, to execute five or more perfect copies at one writing.

The Remington Standard Typewriter is the acknowledged leader and there are not less than thirty-five to forty thousand of this make of machine in daily use. Mr. J. W. Earle is the manager of the Philadelphia office of the Remington, and will cheerfully furnish information and send circulars upon application.

[ENTERED AT THE PHILADELPHIA POST OFFICE AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.]

VOL. II.—No. 43.

PRICE 15 CENTS

The new bisulphite process of making wood pulp, which has produced results highly satisfactory to paper makers, differs from the old process quite essentially. Instead of being ground, the wood is reduced to the required condition by chemical action, chips being placed in what is called a digester, in which acids operate upon the material, in connection with a steam pressure of 100 pounds to the square inch, applied for eight hours. The advantage over grinding, as to the quality of pulp produced, lies chiefly in the fact that the long fibres of the wood are retained unbroken. A metal is required for the digester which is capable of withstanding the effects of the acids. A successful test of the bisulphite process was lately made at the mills of the Kimberly-Clark Company, Appleton, Wis., at which 60 paper makers and other interested parties were present.

Change of Address.

The United States Mineral wool Company formerly at 22 Cortlandt street, New York, announce their removal to No. 2 Cortlandt street, same city. Builders', architects' and all interested in their productions will do well to make a note of the change of address.

We are indebted to Mr. Romulo Vasquez for a practical suggestion which could be accepted by other architects with profit. It is this, in writing out specifications an index of the contents be placed on the first page. This is a very simple arrangement, and greatly facilitates the finding of any particular portion without delay.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, OCT. 31, 1887.

THE dissatisfied Knights of Labor, who have fired off their blunderbus at Chicago, will not meet with much sympathy from their fellow-workmen or from employers generally. The majority of our trades organizations are conducted wisely and employers would regret to see a return to the old time methods of striking and disorganizations. Organized labor is more conservative and less troublesome than disorganized labor. The Knights of Labor have done a great many foolish, and some bad things, but the Organization has done its best. It has been made up of men unused to control or discipline, and who have had to learn the first lessons of obedience to their own constituted authority. If the Knights of Labor were to go, strikes would multiply and employers would not be as safe as they now are. If everyone of the accusations made by the satisfied Knights were true, it would not justify the breaking up of the order. It has done much good work and can do much more. It has taught labor to be self-respecting and to respect the rights of employers and of capital. It has stood between order and anarchy, or at least to the foolish and feeble expression of anarchic sentiments. It has laid a foundation which no disaffection can overturn. It has made a glorious future for labor possible. It is, therefore, to be regretted that a few dissatisfied ones should seek to destroy these agencies for good, because some bad or foolish things have been done. Experience has shown, that in the long run, the organization of labor does not compel employers to pay extremely high wages. The equalization which organization brings about, offsets part of the injustice of maintaining wages at the highest possible point, if it be an injustice. One thing may be relied upon in this country, and that is, that American workmen will always keep labor at a good price and it has ceased to be a question whether there is any advantage in crowding labor down to a bare living limit. Well-paid labor is as necessary as intelligent labor, and we cannot have one without the other. Organized labor has come to stay with us and it is to the advantage of employers to have it under the most intelligent control.

Architects' Notes.

The partnership between Isaac Pursell and J. W. B. Fry having expired by limitation, they will continue the practice of their profession individually. Mr. Pursell in room 46, and Mr. Fry in room 45 of 119 S. Fourth st. Work contracted for before the 14th of September will be finished mutually.

Constable Bros., architects, of New York city, who drew the plans for the new boat-house on the Schuylkill river, before reported, have been obliged to change their plans, somewhat, and erect a brick and stone building instead of a frame, as was first intended, as an ordinance forbids the erection of such structures of frame in the park.

Romulo Vasquez, of Holmesburg, is preparing plans for a double house for George McCoach, at Fox Chase, 23d Ward; probable cost $3,000. Also a single frame house at Tacony for J. Robinson, that place. Mr. Vasquez is making preliminary sketches for a single frame house for Robt. Welsh, at Tacony, to cost about $5,000. None of these plans are yet far enough advanced to comment upon.

The Masonic Art Temple Association has been formed, its object being to decorate the Masonic Temple with works of art, such as frescos, stained glass, pictures, statuary, bronzes or any other suitable interior decoration. The membership is to be confined to those persons belonging to the fraternity. The annual dues are $1, with a life membership of $20. On October 22d a meeting for organization was held. Clifford P. McGalla was elected president, Singleton M. Brice, secretary, and John Jay Gilroy, treasurer. There are three vice-presidents and a board of seventeen managers, consisting of leading business and professional men of this city, James C. Windram, the architect of the Temple, being among the number.

Culver & Rodgers, 901 Walnut street, have finished the plans for a brick and stone Colonial house to be built at Mount Pleasant, Philadelphia, for D. D. Smith, which is under contract to W. H. Burns for $9,000. The size is 49x70. By the same, a three-story Colonial house for J. M. Matthews, to be built at Devon, Pa. The size of this house is 38x60, and will cost $5,000. The contracts are not yet let. The Langhorne Hotel will not be built until spring. These gentlemen have also a block of three-story houses, which will be erected in the spring at the Falls of Schuylkill, near the P. & R. R. depot. Over the stores will be a hall, to be used for society and other purposes. The cost will be about $4,000. No contracts have been let.

P. A. Welsh, 429 Walnut street, has completed the plans for two six-story office buildings, to be located on Arch street, between Second and Third streets, for Darby & Sons, and the Riesky estate. These buildings would have started before, but the builders were waiting for an order from Court. Brick and Hummelstown brownstone will be used in the construction. Each store front to a height of four stories is open and covered with a large receding semicircular arch. Beneath the arch each floor is lighted with bay-shaped windows, hung inside the face of the building line. The first story is iron and plate-glass. Each store is to be fitted up with elevators, electric lights, and all other conveniences. When finished will be among the handsomest and most modern facades on Arch street, as they are entirely different from any now erected in the city. J. H. Barbica is the contractor. Adjoining those buildings is a two story-and-a-half house of very ancient date, in which the first American flag was made. What a contrast is here presented, the old life and the new, architecture of two periods, with over a hundred years intervening. A short but pointed story of the progress of our great city.

E. W. Thorne, architect, 14 South Broad street, together with the Trustees of the Thirteenth St. M. E. Church, awarded the contract for their new church, on Thirteenth street below Vine, in place of the old Nazareth M. E. Church, to the lowest bidder, J. R. Millison. The contract includes the whole complete, with seating, heating, plumbing, frescoing, and patent pavement front of church and parsonage. The front to be of two shades of brown stone, rock-face, and broken range work with dressed trimmings; to have a tower and an open timber roof. The halls, vestibule and the whole of the auditorium finished in oak and walnut; the basement in yellow pine; the seating capacity of auditorium is 600. The basement is divided into various rooms by sliding glass partitions, and can be thrown into one room when required. There is a cellar and a coal vault under pavement. There are two sets of main stairs, six feet wide to auditorium, also a back stairs and besides two sets of open stairs to a large front gallery. The central tiers of seating in auditorium extend to the front wall, thus affording a novel and beautiful arrangement of the interior. The roof to be slate; the cost of the whole is nearly $20,000. Mr. Thorne won this work in a competition, as he guaranteed the whole not to exceed a certain sum, to build it, and verified his guarantee, substantially, by producing a reliable contractor to take the whole, for even less than what he had told the trustees. While other plans figured many thousands of dollars more, and no better in any respect. Mr. Thorne has no other work under way, and it will be reported soon.

VOL. II.—No. 44.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1887.

PRICE 15 CENTS

THE demand for hardwoods of all kinds this season has not been in excess of the supply, and in consequence, prices are in favor of buyers and builders. An immense amount of hard woods is being used in interior work. Even in the cheaper houses, better classes of woods are being used than were used a few years ago. Railroad building has developed a large area of timber territory, and saw mills and planing mills are springing up by the hundreds.

A STUDY of our permits for the past year shows that a great deal of money has been expended in interior alterations, alterations of fronts, additions of back buildings and the addition of stories. The depreciation in values which has been going on is thereby partially arrested. The stimulus which has been given to this high class of repairing work will lead next year to a much more general improvement. There is no more reason why all house fronts should be alike than why all interiors should correspond.

Municipal Doings.

At a meeting of Councils last Thursday, the Twenty-second Ward School Board asked for $15,000 for repairing and making a second-story addition to the Spencer Roberts school on Mill street, near Duy's lane, Germantown, and $10,000 for a lot and school building at Rowlandville, both in the Twenty-second Ward. Also the Finance Committee agreed to report favorably on the ordinances authorizing the repaving of Oxford street from Broad to Eighteenth, at an expenditure of $3,000, and Mt. Vernon from Twenty-second to Twenty-third, at a cost of $2,500. Director Stokley informed the Electrical Committee of his intention to ask Councils to appropriate from $350,000 to $400,000 for electric lights along the two river fronts.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, NOV. 7, 1887.

SEVERAL branches of trade indirectly connected with the New York Real Estate Exchange are to be attached to it under a system of graded membership.

THE builders of Chicago are imitating some of the New York building laws, particularly those relating to the construction of theatres, in which New Yorkers seem to have attained considerable success.

THE American Institute of Architects has taken steps to enlarge its membership and strengthen its organization. A traveling secretary will be employed.

THE demand for architectural iron work this season has been exceptionally large. Nothing so illustrates the temper and sentiment of a people as the style of architecture used. All of our manufacturers of architectural iron work are very busy.

Rock asphalt is coming into more general use, especially in large office buildings. It is laid upon fire proof hollow tile, levelled up with cement and thoroughly resists the action of the elements. It is also used for breweries, cellars, stables, and store and mill floors.

WHATEVER may be said of building activity throughout the East, there is a rushing activity throughout the West and South-west. New cities are springing up there which have certainly a mushroom growth at present. Wichita, Ark., shows investments this year amounting to $5,760,000. Kansas City is forging ahead.

ARCHITECTS are anticipating a great deal of house-building activity in suburban districts. The disposition to get out of town is growing. The disadvantages of suburban residence being compensated for, by improving traveling facilities, better roads, better light and more society. The demand for well-built suburban houses has taken a fresh start this year, and quite a number of builders are already engaged to do fine work at various points within five to ten miles of Broad street station.

IN the death of Thomas U. Walter, we have lost from among us the last survivor of three distinguished architects, each of whom towered head and shoulders above the others of his day and generation. The first was William Strickland the architect of the Custom House, the Mint, the Merchants' Exchange and the State Capitol at Nashville, Tennessee. His pupil on whom his mantle seemed to fall was Thomas Ustick Walter, who was at the height of his architectural fame at the time the third one, Henry Hobson Richardson whose name is a household word among the present generation of architects, was but a student in the Ecole des Beaux arts in Paris, curiously enough, both Strickland and Walter were born and educated in Philadelphia, a city which has never been noted for the architecture of its ordinary buildings.

Among his principal works were the Moyamensing Jail, and the Breakwater at Lagayra for the government of Venezuela.

In 1851 he was appointed Government architect, and while at Washington designed the extensions of the National Capitol, Patent Office, Treasury and Post Office buildings, the dome on the old Capitol, the Congressional Library and the Government Hospital for the Insane. The iron dome at the Capitol being the most graceful and beautiful in the world.

The noted buildings in this city designed by him were St. George's Hall and his own private dwelling opposite, which has been recently torn down, the Preston Retreat, Girard College, and the Biddle and Cowperthwaite places on the Delaware river.

At his death he was engaged on the new Public Buildings; he was also a member of Franklin Institute and was for many years the president of the American Institute of Architects up to the meeting in October, when he declined re-election on account of ill health. He was a prominent Baptist, an active Free-mason and a member of the American Philosophical Society.

Through New Jersey.

At Atco (P. O. town), Camden county, Fritz Koehler will build a new dwelling.

At Merchantville (P. O. town), Camden Co., Irvin C. Beatty will build a dwelling.

David Kirchenbauer will build a house and store at Williamstown.

At Burlington (P. O. town), Burlington Co., a new national bank has been organized, with a capital of $100,000.

At Bordentown (P. O. town), Burlington Co., H. M. Sciple's new residence on Crossnicks street is nearly completed.

At Imlaystown (P. O. town), Monmouth Co., the M. E. church congregation have raised funds to build a 10 feet addition to their church.

At Riverton (P. O. town), Burlington county, E. C. Stoughten, of Burlington, is building a fine residence. Pancoast and Bishop are the contractors.

The Trinity Baptist church at Fifth and Market streets, Camden, will erect a new church building. Herman H. Barbour, 518 Cooper street, is the pastor.

At Pitman Grove (P. O. town), Gloucester Co., the corner stone of the Arbutus Hill Methodist E. church building will be laid on the 10th instant.

At Collingswood (P. O. town), Camden Co., a Mr. Green of Philadelphia, will build a fine residence on Atlantic avenue, Mr. B. Frank Davis can give information.

At Salem (P. O. town), Salem Co., M. B. Ayars is building a dwelling on Seventh street and George H. Durham's new residence on Walnut street is enclosed.

At Cape May, the land company recently formed have secured the land and are nearly ready to commence operations. It is stated that a large hotel will be built on the company's tract.

At Glassboro (P. O. town), Gloucester county, more houses will be erected next year than ever before. C. S. Johnson's and Geo. Kemble's new houses are enclosed. John Taylor is building a double house.

At Moorestown (P. O. town), Burlington Co., a Presbyterian church has been organized, a committee has been appointed to locate. The Rev. E. B. Hodge of Burlington, N. J., can give information.

At Cape May, the recently organized Mount Vernon Land and Improvement Company will build, as soon as surveys are completed, a $20,000 hotel and several new cottages. J. Henry Edmunds, real estate broker, Cape May, can give information.

At Sea Isle City (P. O. town), Cape May Co., Louis Bergdoll, the Philadelphia brewer, has bought a block of lots on Ocean avenue, and will erect a beautiful building and concert garden, to be opened with the commencement of the season.

At Pleasantville (P. O. town), Atlantic county, four acres have been purchased by a Philadelphia party who will build a nickel-plating factory. D. L. Risley, of that place, sold the ground, and can give information. At same place, H. L. Warner is building a new barn.

At Hightstown (P. O. town), Mercer Co., Messrs Black Bros, will build a house on the Lonrey lot; at same place the Knights of Pythias will build a public hall and lodge building on the site of the Methodist church building removed, it will be 26x48 feet.

At Atlantic City, Councilman Barston, of that place, will build several cottages on Arctic ave, between Delaware and Maryland avenues. Sherf & Mayer, same place, is building a hotel corner of New Jersey and Arctic avenues. At same place, the Allen House, corner Pacific and Arkansas avenues, is to be enlarged.

At Palmyra (P. O. town), Burlington county, Geo. Roden, Sr., is building a new dwelling, corner Morgan avenue and Spring Garden st., and Miss Wilhelmina Dover is building a double house on Leconey avenue; Panoast and Bishop have the contract. At same place, John Downing, of Philadelphia, is having built a large house and bakery near Pavia station.

At Camden, the Esterbrook Pen Works will erect an addition to their present works on Cooper street, it will be 40 feet by about 36 feet, L shape and four stories high. Improved machinery will be purchased and a large increase of workmen will be added; this is certainly indication of great prosperity and is owing to the increased popularity of the American steel pen.

At Woodbury (P. O. town), Gloucester Co., Benj. F. Thorp's large and handsome residence is nearly completed. It is to be heated by steam. At same place, the new Methodist church will certainly be built, as brother Wm. R. Kemble, the Philadelphia Horse Railroad magnate has agreed to back the enterprise with $20,000. He desires a handsome site for the new church selected at once, and an effort is being made to secure one. The new structure will have a frontage of 60 feet at least. The Rev. B. C. Lippincott, of Woodbury, has the matter in charge.

At Cape May, the Mount Vernon Land Company was organized November 4th, 1887, with a capital stock of $100,000, of which sum $50,000 is subscribed and paid for. The company has purchased three hundred acres of land on the ocean front below the Sea Breeze Hotel, extending over the Cape Island turnpike with a frontage of 2800 feet directly opposite the driving park; the land extends to the light-house. The surveyors are now at work laying out the avenues and dividing the ground into cottage lots of which there will be over two thousand. This enterprise is in the hands of experienced real estate men who have been very successful in operations on the North Penn Railroad. The officers of the land company have purchased the old elephant which is on the grounds, and they will make alterations and use it for bath houses and other purposes. They have also decided as soon as the avenues are opened and laid out to build a hotel and a number of cottages. This enterprise was arranged and carried out a successful sale by T. M. Reger, 711 Walnut street.

VOL. II.—No. 45.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1887.

The Provident Life and Trust Company's New Building.

It is now substantially settled that the new building which the Provident Life and Trust Company contemplate erecting will be started on the first day of June, 1888. The company have just completed the purchase, from the McMullen heirs, of the property located on the south-west corner of Ranstead Place and Fourth street. This property has a frontage of 15 feet on Fourth street and extends back on Ranstead Place some 48 feet. The company have now secured all of the properties on the west side of Fourth street, between Chestnut and Ranstead Place, except No. 48, which is owned and occupied as a silver-plating works and novelty store, by Mr. George Eakins, who seems to have no disposition to sell. It is to be hoped that the company will also be able to secure Mr. Eakins's property, as it practically controls an adjoining alley, and without this property the architectural beauty of the new building will be greatly impaired. Plans are to be made this winter for the new structure, and its cost will probably reach over a million of dollars. Of course it is too early to speculate upon its architectural features and beauty, but it will no doubt be made to conform with the Chestnut street building, both as to architecture and material. The new structure, when completed, will greatly increase the popularity of this part of Chestnut and Fourth street as a financial centre, besides enhancing the value of property in the neighborhood.

Philadelphia is certainly slowly but surely coming to the front in its magnificent structures for business purposes, and the indications are that in another decade many of our prominent financial concerns will either improve and extend their present buildings or erect new structures altogether. If but a part of the enterprise now expressed by our banks and trust companies was infused into the minds of property owners on Market, Chestnut and other streets, these business localities of our city would soon be beautified with a class of business structures which would reflect credit upon the city, besides supplying adequate and greatly needed facilities. The fact is a good many quiet and unostentatious deaths are needed in order that enterprising men who will build and improve may succeed to the ownership of these properties now held by a lot of conservative old fogies who either fail to catch on to the spirit of the town or who are indifferent to aught else besides the few shekels the properties at present yield.

Checks should be collected as soon as received.

Judge Biddle on Saturday last delivered an opinion in the case of the State National Bank of New Jersey against Abram Weil. A check was drawn by the defendant, on May 26, 1885, in favor of a Mr. Doughton, and was made payable at the Shackamaxon Bank, but was not presented for payment until May 29, 1885, after the bank had suspended. The defendant, who had ample funds in the bank to meet the check, claimed that the payee had been guilty of unreasonable delay and should suffer the loss. The Judge decided that the point was well taken; that the rule in commercial circles was that when all the parties resided in the same city the check should be presented on the day of its receipt or the following day; and when payable at a different place from that in which it is negotiated, the check should be forwarded by mail on the same or the next day for presentment. This rule was applied to the present case, and Weil relieved of responsibility.

At Paoli, there will be several improvements made in the spring. Plans are in such an undeveloped condition as to prevent further information.

The Smell of Paper Money.

In speaking of a recent defalcation at the Troy post-office, a gentleman said: "It is never safe to enclose an old bill in an envelope to be sent by mail. Why," said he, "men who are experts can tell whether a letter contains money or not simply by the smell. If you will notice an old greenback, it has a peculiar smell about it that can readily be perceived, even if it be enclosed within a letter. It is better to send a registered letter or a postal note, or, if you enclose a bill, be sure it is a new one. That will not smell."—Albany Journal.

Origin of Paper-Hanging.

The art of making paper-hangings was copied from the Chinese, among whom it has been practiced from time immemorial. Wall-papers did not come into common use in Europe until the eighteenth century; but stamped papers for the purpose appear to have been made in Spain and Holland about 1555. The first allusion to wall-papers known to exist is in the examination of Herman Shinkel, a printer of Delft, who was accused in 1568 of printing books inimical to the catholic faith. Being interrogated as to certain ballads, he said they had been printed by his servant in his absence, and that when he came home and found that they were not delivered, he refused to deliver them, and threw them into a corner, intending to print roses and stripes on the back to paper attics with. It is probably to King William III. that the introduction of wall-papers into England is due. Paper-hangings of a sort, it is true, were in use in England and some parts of the Continent long before the time of William of Orange; but they usually consisted merely of maps of the world, as it was known then, with fantastic borders of Indians, negroes and elephants, and other "natives of far-off regions." The art of paper-hanging in imitation of the old velvet flock was new when William came to England. It was on the walls of the drawing-room at Kensington Palace that these new hangings were first seen in that country. They took the fancy of the fashionables of the day, and their cheapness being an additional recommendation, they speedily came into general use.—Mechanical News.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, NOV. 14, 1887.

Some wonderful Figures showing the number of new Buildings erected in Philadelphia for the first ten months of 1887, 6,784 new buildings already erected or in course of construction, costing nearly Twenty-four Millions of Dollars.

WITH this issue of the REAL ESTATE RECORD we furnish a summary of building operations for the year 1887, from January 1st to October 31st, inclusive. The statement shows in detail the number of two-story houses, the number of three-story houses and the number of warehouses, foundries, factories, engine and boiler houses, breweries and bottling houses, offices and shops, for which building permits have been issued. It has been found necessary to include three or four kinds of buildings under one head, for instance, banks under offices. It has also been necessary to include alterations of fronts and alterations of interior and back buildings all under one head. The summary is as complete and exhaustive as circumstances will permit. Careful calculations have been made, based on practical experience and well known rules of architects and builders to get the approximate total cost of building investments. These investments aggregate in the neighborhood of $24,000,000. This has been the first systematic effort to get the cost of building done in any year in this city. The law governing building operations does not require the estimated cost to be given, and it has been found rather difficult work to make a fair approximation, but we think, on careful investigation, our readers will agree that the estimate is as nearly correct as it is possible to make it. The cost of warehouses is estimated at five cents per cubic foot, other buildings from six to ten cents per cubic foot, according to kind of building. It has been impossible of course to take the cubical contents of every building built and in lieu of that, a fair average has been made by taking a large number of each kind and striking the average. This will be found to be very little astray from the actual measurements.

We also publish interviews with a number of architects and builders as well as of real estate operators. It will be seen by a perusal of these interviews, that the building interests have been satisfied with this year's work and generally entertain a favorable view of a continuance of the same activity next year. While there are a few unfavorable opinions expressed, the bulk of them are of the contrary sort. The success which has attended the renting and selling of houses has strengthened confidence, and stimulated enterprise. In all probability, unless something in the meantime entirely unforeseen intervenes to we will enter upon a season of unprecedented activity next year. One reason for this is, material will be cheap and abundant.

If agitations for shorter days and higher pay do not spring up, builders will be encouraged. Investors are carefully looking into the probabilities of the future and think they can see their way clear. Small houses will be multiplied. Quite a number of builders have already made liberal purchases of land for next year's building purposes. In numerous cases contracts have been made for material. Large supplies of brick have already been arranged for and some brick manufacturers are preparing to enlarge their capacity.

The Land Improvement Companies are also in a happy frame of mind. The sale of lots this year has been particularly gratifying to them. A dozen or more prosperous suburban villages have been started and the railway facilities offered are a strong inducement to city residents who buy and build. The lot sellers, speak for themselves and the figures given tell a story which they can better tell than any comment upon them.

The money lending interests are pleased with the investments that have been made this year. There is very little of a speculative character going on. Philadelphia funds are generally kept at home. There is a very strong prejudice, in fact a rule, with some financial concerns against lending money out of the city and especially out the state. There is considerable money uninvested, which will find its way into brick and mortar next year. The financial authorities consulted in regard to next year's probabilities, while modestly declining the notoriety of a public notice in connection with their opinions, are quite ready to say privately that as yet they have no reason to apprehend building enterprise in Philadelphia is being overdone. Manufacturing capacity, they say and see, is expanding. The volume of Philadelphia business is steadily growing. Railway extensions are widening thus opening up remote markets, and the enterprise of our manufacturers and jobbers is extending the area of their markets.

In connection with the improving tendency in and about the city, we must not forget that all the near-by towns are favored with a similar building activity. The inducements to suburban residences are attractive. The railroad schedules are arranged to suit the convenience and almost to anticipate the wishes of patrons of the various roads. The railroad builders and real estate operators in a dozen near-by towns are quite elated at the amount of building that has been done this year, and at the indications for the coming year. Real estate is cheap, and there is no effort seemingly to crowd prices up to an enterprise prohibiting point.

The total number of operations, including alterations of all kinds of buildings, foot up, for ten months, 8,080, of which 25 come under our miscellaneous head and 1,296 under alterations.

The following Statement shows the number of Two and Three-Story dwellings erected by Months, from January 1st to October 31st inclusive for 1887, in each of the Thirty-One Wards:

Miscellaneous 6759

We present the views of many prominent architects, builders, real estate brokers, and others, as to the present condition of the building and real estate interest of this city and vicinity, and the prospects for 1888.

Savage & Smith, conveyancers and real estate agents, say they could rent, if they had them, fifty small houses at once, and they could see no cause for stoppage in real estate operations, and that, in their opinion, there are not too many small houses. They have considerable negotiations on hand at present for selling property which will add to next year's business.

Thomas H. Parks, real estate broker, 1947 Norris streets, says he hasn't a finished house on hand that was started this year, and he has many sold that are not finished. The reasons he gives for this are, that houses are of such good quality that they attract the attention of purchasers at once and many persons rent or buy houses even before the cellars are dug, and are willing to pay even as far as a month, rent, and sometimes a year's rent in advance to secure them. This gives them a selection of tenants and they are able, out of the number of applicants, to select only those that are desirable. Mr. Parks also states that the general business is good and that he has sold over five hundred houses this year and says he could sell over three times as many finished houses as he has sold. He will also build several operations in the spring.

Culver & Rodgers, architects, corner Ninth and Walnut streets, say "Next spring will be the best we have had for three years. We have plenty of work on hand, and can safely say the outlook is brighter than it was a year ago."

P. A. Welsh, architect, 429 Walnut street, says "I can speak very flatteringly of work for next spring, and expect to be very busy. The work already on hand which will be erected in the spring amounts to about a half million dollars.

Thos. P. Lonsdale, architect, 429 Walnut street, says there is no indication of stoppage for want of money or for fear of a rise in building materials. Those corporations who intend to build will not stop for either of these reasons. He further says, that he has a year's work ahead, and the new work for next spring will amount to between $300,000 and $400,000.

T. P. Chandler, architect, Third and Walnut streets, says "We will have a moderate amount of business for next year, and don't think it will fall below what we have done this present year, which is good."

Cope & Stewardson, architects, 212 South Third street, say: "We can see no reason why business should fall off, and expect to do as well next year as this. All the indications are for a prosperous season. We generally begin to be busy about the middle of December."

J. R. Williamson, architect, Merchants' Exchange, says: "The present indications are that we will be busier this winter than we were in the spring and summer together. The outlook for next year is even better than it was this time last year."

Addison Hutton, architect, 400 Chestnut street, says: "It is rather early in the season, but I can say in general words, that at this time of the year I have never seen the prospects any better for the following year. This year has been a good one with us, and next year will be about the same."

Biern & Keller, builders, Forty-fourth and Westminster ave., say: "There will be plenty of work next spring, and we will do better than any year previous." They will build sixty two-story dwellings in the spring as soon as the building season opens; ground will be broken this fall.

Nicholson and Michaelson, builders, Fortieth and Green streets, say: "From the quick way in which sales are being made, the prospect for next year is good. We propose to go ahead with our operations, and will build one hundred houses beginning in the spring; the greater number will be three story houses. There is no indication of a fall in the real estate market, our only trouble being in obtaining material."

Brian & Godwin, architects, 1413 Filbert street, say they have work on hand for next year amounting to $300,000, most of it in manufactories in this city, and they expect to be very busy.

Reed & Wade, architects, 20 South Broad street, say: "The prospect for business next year is even better than this. We have twenty-nine houses already on hand for the spring, and quite a number of operations in view, not yet consummated."

E. W. Thorne, architect, 14 South Broad street, says he has a great amount of work engaged, more in fact than he had last spring, and it is of a better and more expensive class.

Romulo Vasquez, architect, Holmesburg, says he thinks that business will be brisker next year than it was during the present year, as he already has a number of orders to be filled between this and spring, and much work promised ahead.

Jacob Myers, builder, 1315 Sansom street, says: "I do not base my opinions upon any definite foundation or from any knowledge of my own, yet my idea is, that there will be less building next year than there has been this. The matter has been overdone, and enough building has gone on this season to last for five years, and when all these office buildings are finished, there will be nearly one thousand offices in their combined number. And I do not think the growth of the city will warrant any more. I think the builders will do a fair business, but there will not be that activity in the future that has characterized this season."

R. Partenheimer, real estate agent, Chestnut Hill, thinks that a great amount of building will be done there next year if no trouble arises with the mechanics. What is needed is small houses, which are in great demand. As yet there is no activity in real estate matters.

Mr. Cooper, of Yarnall & Cooper, architects and builders, 14 South Broad street: "I see no reason why business should not be very good next year. The outlook is very hopeful; but the prosperity next season depends largely upon the working class. They are better off at present than at any previous time. There appears to be plenty of money. The savings funds have plenty, which is a good indication. Wages are better now than they have been since the war, and provisions and other necessities are comparatively cheap."

Roydhouse & Atkinson, bricklayers and builders, 1419 Sansom street, say, "We have made no contracts as yet for next season, as it is too early, yet, from what the architects tell us and from the general outlook, there will be a large amount of heavy work done next season."

The Westmore Improvement Company "feel very sanguine about next year. The sale of lots is very encouraging, and a large amount of building will be done on our property next season."

Mr. Riley, of Rea & Riley, builders, 627 Filbert street: "I see nothing to prevent next season from being as good as the past has been, unless strikes or some unforeseen accidents occur. It would seem that some persons are overdoing the matter; yet, while there are a great many buildings in the market, they are constantly being taken up."

Wilbraham Brothers, of Frankford, say they will have plenty of work to keep them going until spring, and will not have to discharge a man. They will build fully as many houses, if not more, next year, and they consider there is plenty of room for building, as they can rent all the houses they can build before they are finished.

W. R. Matchett, 1517 South Broad street, has built eighty-seven houses this year, but does not think he will put up so many next year. He never sold so many houses as during the last season, and therefore thinks that there is still plenty of room for building. This spring he had to buy brick out of the city, but there are plenty now for all demands.

John M. Sharp, 1936 S. College avenue, has put up 214 houses this year in the northern section of the city. He is unable to tell how many he will build next year, but has bought ground enough to contain three hundred. He cannot see any indications of building being overdone, and says the business for both spring and fall has been equal to any season he has ever experienced, nor does he look for any labor troubles, as the men all seem perfectly satisfied. He considers the real estate market is in a very healthy condition and thinks the temporary stringency of the money market has had no influence on the real estate market. Mr. Sharp says, "The class of houses that are being put up are far superior to those of former years, and the class of buyers in the market are far more intelligent than buyers used to be."

John J. Serrill, builder, 1413 North Broad street, has built, this year, forty-eight houses near Dauphin street. He has had $150,000 worth of property idle on Berks street, between Third and Fourth streets, caused by the shallowness of the sewer constructed. On account of the trouble about the sewer, Mr. Serrill has thrown several of his houses on the market. He thinks there is still plenty of room for building, as there is a big demand for houses, both for rental and for sale. He has bought the ground on the north side of Dauphin street, between Third and Bodine streets, and will build twenty-five houses on it next year, which will complete the block built this year. Mr. J. S. Serrill, and Mr. M. G. Serrill will divide the ground bought on the north side of Susquehanna avenue, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets, and will build together 200 houses on it. Mr. Serrill does not anticipate any labor troubles, as the men have things their own way; the contractor simply being a pay-master.

W. G. Serrill, builder, Fourth & Berks streets, has built this year 21 nine roomed houses with brown-stone trimmings on Fourth street, south of Berks, and 14 stores on Berks street, west of Fourth street.

Jacob Wenzelberger, builder, 260 Bridge street, Frankford, has built this year seven different styles of Queen Anne cottages on the ground of Thos. E. Foster at Wissinoming, also a pair of French roof houses for Thomas W. South of Tacony, a Queen Anne Cottage at the upper end of Tacony, and a two-story factory at Gillinderville. He expects to build a good number of houses next year, having some to go on with in the spring.

Amos R. Crosta, builder, 4534 Salmon street, Bridesburg, has built 25 houses this year, most of them being six and seven roomed houses, built for the owners. These houses are situated in Tacony, Frankford and Bridesburg, and are mostly single houses. This neighborhood is building up very rapidly. Mr. Crosta has just started on six houses in Bridesburg. He looks for great improvements in this section next year, and will build at least thirty houses.

Mr. A. M. Zane, Real Estate and builder, has erected 135 two and three-story houses this year, mostly in the upper section of the city. He says building has not been at all overdone, and there is plenty of room for good houses in suitable localities.

Dixon Bros., builders, 2817 Frankford avenue, have built 50 houses and are engaged at present on a factory 186x57, four stories high. They have several important building operations on hand in different sections of the city. Their opinion is that the coming year will be a very good one.

George W. Hancock, President of the Real Estate Exchange, thinks the building operations for next year will not exceed the operations of this year, as the buildings that are now under way will meet the demand. There is a difficulty to rent houses for over $30 per month. Another hindrance to building in the future will be that valuable lots are becoming scarcer and those that are accessible are so high in their price that it will not pay builders to put four and six room houses on them.

The installment mortgage business is growing and is taking the place of the old ground rents to a great extent and makes it practically easy for a man to own his own home. Nearly all of our trust companies are handling them on account of the amount of interest obtained, which is six per cent. Whether these mortgages will be foreclosed or not depends on the state of the labor market. The real estate market is in a healthy condition at present, and I think there are more houses being sold at present than at any time for years. I can not say what will be done next year and, as I said before, it will depend on the labor market.

Thomas H. Flood, builder, 2747 Frankford avenue, has built 664 six-roomed houses, and has already sold 46, although not yet completed, which goes to prove that building is not being overdone. Mr. Flood has made preparations for building one hundred houses next year. He thinks a man cannot invest his money better than in houses, as he has some paying him twelve per cent.

Paoli Land Association, "We have sold a number of lots and have several new houses in contemplation. Next year will be better than this. We draw the inference from what has been done. Three farms have been sold at Malvern, aggregating $73,000, which have been purchased for speculative purposes."

Wayne Land Co., "We are selling property all the time upon which will be several handsome improvements. Wayne is all alive and houses are selling rapidly; prospects for next year are excellent."

Tacony Real Estate Association: "Have sold all of their lots, numbering three hundred, the majority purchased for building purposes. Many will commence to build next spring. Houses at Tacony are scarce and can be rented as fast as built."

Castor & Hood, 148 South 4th street: "We have cashed of fourteen two-and-a-half story brick houses at Wissinoming, which are nearly completed. We have made no calculations as to next year's business. We think, however, the market will be strong, as manufacturing interests are booming. The large firm of Erben, Search & Co., woolen yarns, and a number of other factories will be built in the spring, and an appropriation has been made by the R. R. Co., for a new station at Wissinoming."

Fort Washington Land Association, Mr.

T. M. Reger, says: "This year has been very successful, lots are being rapidly bought up and very handsome improvements being made. The prospects for next year are even better than the last."

Anglesea, Island Heights, Seaside Park, and Point Pleasant, N. J., and Cape May. "Along this part of the shore it has been very quiet, with an undercurrent that indicates that there will be a very active spring trade."

Cynwyd, "The operations so far have been very successful, and we are very much pleased; grading has been commenced, and there is a fair prospect of selling all the lots by next year. The majority of purchasers have bought with the intention of building."

Mr. Evans, of the firm of Furness & Evans, architects, 209 South Third street, says, "This year has been a very good one with us, and we see no reason why next year should not be equally as good. We have a large amount of work on hand for next spring."

John Wilson, of Wilson Brothers, architects, 435 Chestnut street, says, "Business with us has been unusually good this season. It is impossible for me to say just what will be done next year, as it is too early. The outlook for the country seems favorable. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is all right, and the Reading Road is on its feet. The corn crop in the West, this year, was smaller than usual, and this will affect the railroads in a measure; they generally feel it in about nine months' time. The Drexel building will be finished next year." In reply to the query, Who will fill all of these office buildings? Mr. Wilson said, "These large buildings are destined to become hives of industry, and will be filled with tenants who are tired of inferior accommodations and bad sanitary appliances, and the old fogey who exacts a high rent and gives nothing in return will find that his property has depreciated on his hands. I can see no reason why next year's business should not be equal to this."

The Ardmore Land & Improvement Co., in connection with Messrs. Thompson & Campbell, purchased eighteen acres of ground which was called Argyle. This was divided into lots numbering thirty-six, of which all but ten have been sold. On most of them the company erected houses, and are now engaged in building eight houses, to be finished next April.

The Pleasant Hill Land Company has sold nearly all of its lots, numbering over 2,000, in about four months. Improvements will be made in the spring, when streets will be opened and graded, a park laid out and several houses put up.

Baldwin Homestead Association have sold nearly half of their property. The land between the State road and the Delaware river has been reserved for manufacturing purposes. There is a probability of various manufacturing establishments being located there. Those who are buying, are doing so in order to build houses for their own occupancy. The prospect for next year is especially good for manufacturing purposes, and we believe that a number of houses will be erected.

Wissinoming Land Association have sold all of their lots, and quite a number of their members are building, and we think that the outlook for next year is very good.

Folsom Land Company: "Five hundred lots were sold the first year of its corporate existence, and nearly all bought on the installment plan, and those persons who bought early in the year have nearly finished their payments, and will receive their deeds at once. A large number of them will erect houses in the spring. The outlook for next year is good, and the demand for property in the country is as good as ever—that is for houses costing from $2000 to $4000."

W. S. Kimball, Forty-first and Chestnut streets, real estate dealer, says, that this season has certainly been a prosperous one. In the last five years we have added to the value of the Twenty-seventh Ward, in building operations, $2,000,000. There is a demand for houses, renting from $18 to $25. We are speaking now of the Twenty-fourth and Twenty-seventh Wards. What we want is more rapid transit. As to there being a collapse in the real estate market, we do not believe it, as our people are too conservative and there is no overtrading, builders generally having the cash to finish their operations.

F. A. Flood, builder, Van Pelt and Diamond streets, says, that this year, with them, has been excellent, having built one hundred and forty houses on Lambert and Woodstock streets, from Susquehanna to Dauphin street. They intend to build sixty-five on Twenty-first street. Mr. Flood thinks that next year will be equally good, if not better, than the present year has been. They are selling houses as fast as built, and thus far have had but one thrown back on their hands. E. H. Flood will build eighty-six ornamental houses on Van Pelt street, and talks of building Twentieth street, from Dauphin to Susquehanna avenue.

H. R. Shoch, 2025 Columbia avenue, has put up 148 houses this fall, thirty-five of which are sold. The demand is for houses that will rent from $15 to $30. Next year's building interests will be good and he intends building three hundred more houses. He says, "There will be no fall in the market next year, and to show that there is no over-production, of all the houses I have built, I only own the one I live in and hold but $28,000 worth of instalment mortgages. Those houses that were sold with a mortgage, to-day are nearly all clear, the mortgages having been paid off. The location of next year's houses will be on Dauphin and York, Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets." Mr. Shoch has land sufficient for 2600 houses, which will be built as the demand is made for them.

John S. Stevens, 163 North Sixth street, president of the Master Builders' Exchange: "Everything looks promising for next year. My own judgment is that the building of dwelling houses is a little overdone, that some of the houses are not sold, and there will not be so many put up as there have been, until these are disposed of. A great many large buildings will go up during the coming year; those that have gone up serve as an impetus for others to build. The builders talk very encouragingly and are very busy just now."

THE Chicago Railway Age presents some interesting figures, showing the truly wonderful progress of railroad building in this country. The Age claims that, during the first ten months, the present year shows that more new main line track will be added to our railway mileage during 1887 than in any year in the history of the country, there having been completed, from January 1st to October 31st, a total of 9,408 miles of track on 274 roads, and that it seems probable that at the end of the year fully 12,000 miles of new track will have been laid; whereas, in 1882 there were built but 11,568 miles of new road. This magnificent work has been done in Forty-one of the Forty-seven states and territories. As a means of comparison, the Age gives the following table of track laying during the twenty preceding years:

Year.	Miles.	Year.	Miles.
1868	2,979	1878	2,629
1869	4,615	1879	4,746
1870	6,070	1880	6,876
1871	7,379	1881	9,796
1872	5,878	1882	11,568
1873	4,097	1883	6,741
1874	2,117	1884	3,825
1876	2,712	1886	9,000

THE publishers of the Builder and Woodworker, of New York, have been deceived and had foisted upon them a piece of architectural piracy which should not go unrebuked. The attention of our readers is called to plate 84 in that paper for November, 1887, entitled House and Cottage Studies, Allan C. Browne, architect, (Del.) 694 Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. In the upper right hand corner is a design which seems familiar to us although we are unable to place it. In the upper left hand corner is a sketch entitled "a city house." This there can be no doubt about, for it originally appeared in Building, Vol. 6. No. 19, May 7th, 1887. The same is a residence of Mr. S. G. Ward, Washington, D. C., designed by Messrs. Hornblower & Marshall of that city. The sketch just below this originally appeared in the Builder and Decorator of this city, Vol. 4, No. 8, April, 1887, and entitled a House at Wynburne, Culver & Rogers, Architects, Philadelphia. In first looking at this page it was our idea that the designers names were either left out by mistake or that the plate was gotten out by Mr. Browne for ideas in cottage and house study, and that proper credit would be given in the text, but this we did not find and in looking further we find on plate 86 a sketch entitled "a fire-side nook," parlor at Wynburne, and signed "Al. C. Browne, '87." This had a familiar appearance and looking up some old files of The Special Illustrated Building we found in the December number for 1884, plate 43, the same sketch reprinted from The British Architect called an "Inglenook for the health exhibition," designed by Barnard, Bishop & Barnards, of Norwich, England, and sketched by T. Raffles Davison. The plate 87 called Hall Detail, Wynburne, has also been taken from an English paper if our memory is not very much at fault.

While we do not in the slightest degree suspect the motives of the Builder and Wood Worker and think it an oversight on their part only, yet it is the duty of any journal to prevent injustice being done and also to watch their columns carefully to see that their readers are not served with a repast reheated and disguised that has graced the board months and years before. All of these drawings mentioned are not modifications of the originals but bear the evidence of being traced, as nearly as possible, in every particular and circumstance. It is unnecessary for us to comment upon the injustice done those architects who have spent thought and time over their work only to have them reproduced over another man's signature.

THERE is now a movement on hand among the residents and property owners along the Second Street Turnpike, and they have taken out a petition asking the Courts to vacate the said turnpike. Their arguments are valid. as it is a well-known fact that the road above Cambria street, at which point there is a toll-gate, is in a shocking condition. At any time when the weather is bad, it is almost impassable. It is therefore an imposition on the citizens of that section to allow the Turnpike Company to remain a detriment to the building interests. Improvements have been made to within a few yards of the toll-gate and there they stop, it being impossible to erect houses on a street where the grade runs as it does on this portion of the pike.

Another point is, that the population along the line of the road has increased, many years ago the southern portion was paved and improved by the then District of Kensington, and to that point the city improvements now extend, northward, as far as Cambria street. In 1877 proceedings were had in the Courts for freeing the whole of the Kensington and Oxford Turnpike Road from toll, and an examiner was appointed who reported that this road should be freed, and damages were assessed and paid whereby the northern portion was freed from toll. Five years prior to this date, the Turnpike Company had sold to the Philadelphia & Newtown R. R. Co., (now the P. N. & N. Y. R. R.), that part of the pike lying south of the south side of Rising Sun Lane. By an oversight the part of the road nearest to the built-up portion of the city was not included in the decree. As the matter now stands, it is neither a railroad nor a turnpike, only inasmuch as it takes toll from those who are unfortunate enough to be obliged to travel on it.

A large number of the prominent citizens and manufacturers in the northeastern portion of the city, have employed counsel, and a petition has been presented to the Court of Common Pleas, asking that the remaining part of the turnpike belonging to the railroad company be made a free road, and that a Jury of View and a master be appointed. It is to be hoped that their petition will be granted, and that the incubus to proper travel and the city's improvement, be done away with at once.

An Act of Assembly, approved the Second of June, 1887, says that "whenever twenty-five or more resident tax-payers of any county of this Commonwealth, shall petition the Court of Quarter Sessions of their county, representing that any turnpike road or highway heretofore or hereafter constructed upon which tolls are charged the traveling public under any general or special law, is located wholly or in part in their county, for such turnpike road or highway, or any part thereof, to become a public road free from tolls and toll-gates, it shall be the duty of such Court of Quarter Sessions to appoint a Jury of View, consisting of five reputable citizens of the petitioners' county, to view and condemn such turnpike road or highway, or part thereof, for public use free from tolls and toll-gates, and to assess the damages to which the owner thereof may be entitled therefor; provided, however, that notice of the intended application for the appointment of such jury of view, shall be published in two newspapers of general circulation in the petitioners' county, at least thirty days previous to the making the application," after which follow the directions for notifying the county commissioners of the same, and also appointing a master, explaining his duties, and also upon hearing witnesses.

OCTOBER bank clearings at thirty-eight cities show a net decline of $137,000,000 as compared with October 1886. The decline at New York City alone was $269,000,000 but this was partially offset by increases at interior points. There is a steady growth of business in the interior and a loss along the Atlantic Coast. The total bank clearing at thirty-eight cities this week show an increase of 7 3/4 per cent. A rather better movement of general trade has been observed throughout the interior. Money is in active demand and banks are discounting more freely. In the West bank loans are made at from 6 to 8 per cent. and in the East rates are more reasonable. All of the industries are in a very healthy condition. So far this year nearly 10,000 miles of railroad have been laid; a larger mileage than ever before known. The iron and steel makers are crowded with work. The bridge builders are preparing for a very active winter. The white pine and yellow pine manufacturers contemplate heavier logging and sawing operations this winter than ever. The manufacturers of machinery and of motive power, as well as of all kinds of iron and wood working tools have a heavier run of orders during the past sixty days than usual and from their own statements it is apparent they will be under very little, if any necessity, to solicit business. The New England industries are particularly active. Throughout the Middle States there is no complaint and labor strikes are exceptional. The builders are bringing their operations for the year to a close and the best posted among them state that their winter's work will be of larger volume than last winter. Urgent outside work has postponed a great deal of inside work, which will be undertaken.

Less Food.

While careful estimates show that the population of this country has increased nearly 22 per cent. since 1880, the census year, official figures show that the food supply of the United States is decreasing. There is not so much wheat and corn raised now as seven years ago. There are not so many hogs packed as in 1880. More cattle and sheep are brought to market now than seven years ago, but the increase is far from equal to the increase in population. As a whole, the food supply of the United States has been growing less for seven years, and this in spite of the fact that in each one of these years scores of thousands acres of fertile new land in the West have been turned into farms.

The last wheat crop, according to the figures of the Agricultural Bureau, was 457,218,000 bushels, against 459,483,137 bushels reported in the census year. In 1880 1,754,591,676 bushels of corn were produced, while the production of last year was but 1,665,441,000 bushels. The number of cows had increased from 12,443,120 in 1880 to 14,522,683 last January, but this was only a gain of 17 per cent., against 22 per cent. increase in population. The number of sheep has only increased from 42,192,074 to 44,759,314. In 1880 12,243,354 hogs were packed; last year but 12,083,012. And, in considering this general decrease in food products, it is all the more serious, it must be remembered, as there are 11,000,000 more mouths to feed than in 1880.

Economists have not accounted for the decrease, for the very good reason that they cannot. With more land under cultivation than ever before, more wealth per capita, and the methods of farming each year becoming more economical and scientific, it is seemingly impossible to offer any plausible explanation of the decrease in the great food staples of the United States.—Phila. Commercial List.

One of the simplest of barometers is a spider's web. When there is prospect of rain or wind the spiders shorten the filaments from which its web is suspended and leaves things in this state as long as the weather is variable. If the insect elongates its threads, it is a sign of fine, calm weather, the duration of which may be judged of by the length to which the threads are let out. If the spider remains inactive, it is a sign of rain; but if, on the contrary, it keeps at work during the rain, the latter will not last long, and will be followed by fine weather. Other observations have taught that the spider makes changes in its web every twenty-four hours, and that if such changes are made in the evening, just before sunset, the night will be clear and beautiful.—La Nature.

The New Soldiers' Home.

It will be remembered that at about the close of the Forty-ninth Congress, a bill introduced by Congressman General Negley was passed, appropriating $150,000 as the first installment of $850,000 to be appropriated for building a Soldiers' Home somewhere on the Pacific side of the continent. General Black, Commissioner of Pensions, General Hyde, of Maine, General W. B. Franklin, General Negley, ex-Senator Sewell, of N. J., Col. B. T. Brown, of Ohio, and Capt. Mitchell, of Milwaukee, members of the National Board of Soldiers Homes, are now on their way westward to select the site.

BUILDERS' ITEMS.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

Russell Thayer is looking for ground to build small houses at Chestnut Hill.

The Swarthmore Improvement Company have just started a frame house that place.

Harold R. Lewis & Co., will erect a large cordage factory next spring at Tacony.

At Fort Washington, fifty lots have just been sold to Charles Enau Johnson, who will improve the same; $6,000 was the price paid.

General H. P. Brinton, of Philadelphia, has bought from S. L. Uhler, of Norristown, a farm of 555 acres in Leesburg, Va., for $28,165.00.

At Tacony, Phila., Robert Welsh, a newspaper man, will build a $5000 residence, Romulo Vasquez, of Holmesburg, architect.

Rea & Riley, 627 Filbert street, will make an addition 40 x 80 for Morse, Williams & Co., Frankford Road and Wilsey street. The building will be fitted up with hard wood offices.

Henry Taylor, 922 Filbert street, is still at work on the Westtown School. Plans have been made for new arch entrances and bids are being received for the same.

John W. Galloway, the builder, real estate broker and agent, at Eleventh and Washington ave., has contracted to build a $5000 residence at Prospect Park, for a gentleman of this city.

The firm of Baldwin & Gore, real estate dealers, in conjunction with Clayton W. Peirson, have merged into West Philadelphia Real Estate Exchange. Their place of business is 3911 Lancaster avenue.

Samuel Green will build a three-story fourteen room stone house, at Swartmore, Pa. W. E. Steigelman has just started a stone and frame house same place. Both these improvements are on plot number one.

Parties are now looking at property at Gorgas Station, Germantown & Chestnut Hill R. R., with a view to purchasing the same in order to form a land association; as soon as $80,000 can be obtained the ground will be purchased.

Biern & Keller, Forty-fourth and Westminster avenue, will build sixty-two-story dwellings in the spring. The buildings to be located at Merion and Girard avenues. They also have started a summer residence for Mr. Prence a Lansdowne, Pa.

The old American Hotel and the property, 523 Chestnut street, will undergo some radical change, just what has not been decided upon, but if rumor is correct the buildings will be torn down and a handsome office building erected upon the site.

Henry St. John Brady, 132 S. Sixth street has purchased, for a syndicate who will use the ground for building purposes, lots on Fifty-seventh and Media, Fifty-fourth and Fifty-seventh and Paschall streets for $61,200, subject to a mortgage of $53,258.35. The purchase was made at Sheriff's sale and was formerly owned by John Hunter.

Another meeting has been held in the interest of the Lutherans in the northern part of the city. Efforts have been made from time to time to secure a church building for English speaking Lutherans within reach of Diamond, Nineteenth or Twentieth streets. Subscription papers will be placed in the hands of the church council and other interested parties. The Rev. Mr. Zimmerman, Columbia avenue above Twenty-fourth will give information.

A number of people have purchased lots in the neighborhood of Tacony, Twenty-third Ward. Among those who intend to build there may be mentioned, John Griffith, Austin B. Carter, William J. Gerhard, Peter E. Costello, all of Tacony. Frank L. Hand, of the Frankford Water Works, and Robert Bromley, of Frankford, and Lieutenant of Police Duncan, of Tacony, will build at Wissinoming. A rumor has been circulated that a hotel will be erected there also.

H. R. Shoch, 2025 Columbia avenue, who has built one hundred and forty-eight houses this fall on Colorado and Bouvier streets says that these houses were put under roof in forty days, that 100,000 bricks were laid on an average each day and 2400 perches of stone were laid in fifteen days taken from five quarries. Two sets of stone masons and three sets of cellar diggers were employed. Mr. Shoch says "James E. Dingee is the only man who had nerve enough to take the contract for furnishing the bricks; the others were afraid to touch it. 363 men were employed at one time." The new operation next year will be on the old Heyberger and Rush estates and 65,000 cubic yards of dirt will have to be removed in order to level it to street grade. The cost will be $18,000.

Architects' Notes.

George T. Pearson, 427 Walnut street, has completed the plans for a frame house, 31x61, for Mrs. Brock, at Jenkintown, Pa.

Addison Hutton, 400 Chestnut street, is at work upon the drawings for the Girard Trust Company's new building at the north-east corner of Broad and Chestnut streets. As yet the plans are only developing.

C. Henry Roney, 110 S. Fourth street, has finished the drawings for a brick and stone factory to be erected near Atlantic City, N. J., for the Pleasantville Manufacturing Company. The designs call for three stories and a tower. The building is to be 34x94, and will be started at once.

Romulo Vasquez, Holmesburg, is at work on a two-and-a-half-story frame house for Mr. Smith, of Tacony. The plans are not as yet completed. Work will go on in the spring. By the same, a frame house of similar construction to the last mentioned is under consideration and will be built in Holmesburg by a gentleman from Cheltenham.

John J. Deery, 328 Walnut street, has finished the drawings and some of the detail work for the new baseball grounds at Boston, Mass., which are to be something similar to those of the Philadelphia Ball Club of this city; only the grand stand is to be built in the shape of a quadrant. There has been a delay, from the fact that the cost is greater than was anticipated.

The properties, 719 and 721 Walnut street, will be altered into a very handsome office building. The entire first floor will be torn out. At present the front of the buildings as far as the second story will only be changed. It is expected at some future time to put in entire new fronts. NOTICE TO ARCHITECTS.

IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE PROVISIONS OF chapter 371 of the Laws of 1887, entitled "An Act to provide for the erection of a building for Criminal Courts and other purposes in the City of New York," the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund will receive plans and specifications until the first day of March, 1888, for the building provided for in the said act, to be erected in connection with the City Hall and the new Court house, in accordance with a general plan which has been approved by the said Commission, and which can be examined at the office of the Comptroller.

The plans submitted must give the elevation of the said building on all four sides and on the inner Court, and must be accompanied by floor plans and specifications for the construction of the said building in sufficient detail to enable the working drawings to be made therefrom. An estimate of the cost of the structure must accompany each plan in sufficient detail to enable the Commission to modify the plans if desired.

For the plan which may be adjudged by the Commission to be the best submitted, a premium of FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS will be paid; for the second best, a premium of FOUR THOUSAND DOLLARS; for the third best, a premium of THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS; for the fourth best, a premium of TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS; and for the fifth best, a premium of ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS. But no obligation shall rest upon the Commission to award premiums to any plan which shall not be regarded as meritorious.

The premiated plans shall become the property of the City, and may be used and combined in any manner which the Commission may approve. No obligation shall be created by the acceptance of any plan to employ the author thereof as the architect to construct the building, it being discretionary with the Commissioner of Public Works to determine in what manner the supervision of the building shall be provided for. Each plan submitted shall be marked with such assumed designation as the architect may select, provided there shall be filed with the Mayor a sealed envelope giving the real name of the author of the plan so designated, which will not be opened until after the award of the premium.

Lithograph copies of the general plan of the building, adopted by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund October 7, 1887, can be obtained by architects upon application at the Comptroller's Office, Stewart Building, No. 280 Broadway, in the City of New York, together with a pamphlet containing special instructions.

By order of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund.

ABRAM S. HEWITT,
Mayor and Chairman.

VOL. II.—No. 46.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1887.

PRICE 15 CENTS

COUNCILS want to know whether the Penn and Edison people are pooling their issues.

At Camden, N. J., 540 building permits have been issued from January 1st to November 16th for this year.

It would be very well to have a commission to investigate the system of municipal sewerage.

It is a singular episode in the history of the Bullitt bill that the very officials who were particularly selected to give strength to the rigid enforcement of its measures in every particular, should be the first to ignore one of its cardinal features; and it is even more singular that these officials should have taken refuge in justification of their arbitrary and unreasonable discharge of policemen behind a far fetched interpretation of a constitutional prerogative which would in itself vitiate the very purposes for which the bill was framed.

The present is no time for subterfuges. Evasions of any kind must be met with an unqualified protest from the people, and in this case the courts should be appealed to without delay to correct all errors on the part of officials whether intentional or otherwise.

THE Solicitors' Company will change their name to the Solicitors' Loan and Trust Company. The Philadelphia Trust and Safe Deposit Company has declared a semi-annual dividend of six per cent. The Guarantee Trust and Safe deposit Company's shares have advanced. American Life Insurance Company's shares are worth 70, par value, $50. The Pennsylvania Fire Insurance Company has purchased a property at 508 Walnut street, 25x108 feet, for $52,500.

Through New Jersey.

At Bound Brook, $20,000 is to be expended in new water works.

At Vineland, a new half-mile driving park will be built by next year.

At Riverton (P. O. town), Burlington Co., Jacob Schmidt will build a new residence on Elm avenue.

At Greenland, not a (P. O. town), Gloucester Co., Messrs. Albertson Bros., will erect a large barn. Greenland is on the P. & A. R. R.

At Pitman Grove (P. O. town), Gloucester county, the corner stone of the new Methodist church, before reported, has been laid.

At Clementon (P. O. town), Camden county, the Wilson Ice Company will build a large ice house on the Pond, near that place.

At Iron Hill, near Newark, N. J., efforts will be made to develop the iron ore; in such an event, large rolling mills will be built.

At Camden, the Church of the United Brethren, has bought a building site for a new church at Seventh street and Woodland avenue, and will build next spring.

At Little Silver (P. O. town), Monmouth Co., the New York and Long Branch Railroad Co. will build a new passenger station, to cost $8,000. Superintendent Blodgett has the matter in charge. Plans have been made.

At Egg Harbor, the Agricultural Society has been wound up and, a new organization formed called the Atlantic County Fair Association with $10,000 capital. A committee has been appointed to select and buy ground and to devise plans for the erection of a driving park and grand stand.

At Glassborough (P. O. town), Gloucester county, the First National Bank of that place, just organized, will erect a new bank building. Address Woodward Warwick, John P. Whitney, William Izard, Jacob Izard, Samuel Earwood, Joel Bodine, of Williamstown, Gloucester Co., N. J., or R. C. Clark, of Hurlville, Gloucester Co., N. J., all of whom have been elected directors.

At Atlantic City, the new race course association want bids for the erection of several buildings, a main grand stand, three stories high, 216 x 75 feet, with a seating capacity for nearly 16,000 people; another grand stand, 50x350 feet, to seat 5,000 people, besides which a superintendent's building, jockey's quarters, stables and carriage sheds are to be erected. $185,000 are to be expended. President Walton can give information.

At Camden, the members of the Young Men's Christian Association have inaugurated plans through which they hope to raise $50,000 to erect a new association building next year. Mr. George L. Barker, secretary of the association, can give information. At the same place, the Trinity Baptist church congregation have determined to reconstruct their present edifice. A resolution was passed at a church meeting, on 13th inst, authorizing the trustees to give the contract to contractor Joseph Haigh. Three of the walls of the present building will be used. It will be 75x90 feet. A boiler house annex, to contain steam heating apparatus, is to be erected. Sufficient money has already been subscribed to meet the expense of rebuilding.

MISCELLANEOUS.

At Tate Springs (P. O. town), Grainger Co., Tenn., a new hotel will be built by a Mr. Tomlinson.

At Norfolk, Va., G. W. Graffin, of Baltimore, Md., will build a warehouse at his Upshur Guano Works.

At Birmingham (P. O. town), Jefferson Co., Ala., a new church, to cost about $8,000, has been contracted for by Wood, Paget & Williams.

At Buckhannon (P. O. town), Upshur Co., West Va., the Rev. L. H. Jordan will give information as to a $20,000 seminary, to be built at that place.

At Montgomery (P. O. town), Montgomery county, Ala., the Montgomery Real Estate Co. wants bids for the erection of a new seven-story building.

At New York it is stated that Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett have been offered the joint management of a new theatre to be constructed for them.

At Washington, D. C., B. B. Moulton will erect three handsome dwellings on a $17,000 lot recently purchased from Oliver Cox, of that place.

At Washington, D. C., architect E. C. Gardner has made plans for a residence for a Western senator. It will be built of stone, and of English antique style. The same architect is erecting a house for Mrs. H. B. Glascock, on Twenty-first street, between R and S streets. At same place, Mrs. K. W. Smith will build a $25,000 stone and brick dwelling at 1709 Massachusetts avenue.

A number of Toronto, Ont. gentlemen connected with the city government are on a tour of inspection of municipal works in various cities in order that they may learn how best to expend a great deal of money which is to be appropriated for city improvements in Toronto. It is stated that $500,000 will be expended in paving the principal streets with granite blocks and in beautifying the parks. The party consists of William Carlisle, Chairman of the Board of Public Works; F. Johnson, Chairman of Board of Health; R. T. Coultz, Assistant Treasurer, and C. Sprout, City Engineer. Mayor Howland, with the rest of the party, went to Minneapolis, with the same object in view.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, NOV. 21, 1887.

THERE is no use mincing matters in handling the question of City Councils voting away street privileges, which should and could be made to yield our city hundreds of thousands of dollars yearly.

There is not a member of either board but thoroughly understands the public sentiment upon this question, but in face of this fact, they boldly sacrifice every privilege to the corporated molochs, without a penny of compensation.

The subtle influence is money; boodlism is rampant, and the dear people who vote for the return of the boodlers to their places in councils justly deserve the luxury of high taxes and neglected improvements; but the trouble is, those who would correct the evils our city is suffering from, are dragged down and are helpless in preventing it.

For the present, at least, the erection of a boys' high school, which was to cost $125,000, will not be prosecuted. A measure was introduced in Select Council to appropriate $40,000 for the completion of the Morris City schoolhouse.

—At Scranton, Pa., it is stated that President Roberts and other officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, having recently visited that town and enough was learned to justify the statement that the road will be continued to Carbondale through Scranton. Considerable excitement has been caused by the efforts of the agents of several roads to purchase property on Mifflin avenue.

—Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Commissioners of Whitley county, Ind., until December 7, 1887, for building a new Court House for Whitley county, and furnishing all the material therefor. Plans and specifications for said work are now on file in the Auditor's office of said county. Chauncey B. Mattoon, Auditor Whitley Co., Columbia City, Ind.

—At Reading, Pa., Joseph F. Kramer's new office building, to be erected on Court street near Fifth street, is to be three stories high, 37 by 60 feet; it is to be built of Printz' double-pressed brick with brown stone and ornamental brick trimmings. Mr. Edward K. Mull, of Reading is the architect, and Jacob Kline has the contract for the entire building which will be heated by steam.

—At Pittsburg, Pa., the county commissioners of Allegheny county, have decided on the furnishing of the new court house, and the architect is preparing plans and specifications which will be ready about Dec. 1st next. Red oak has been decided on so that the furniture will correspond with the wainscoting. The desks, benches, chairs and railings will be substantial but plain, this is in order to keep the cost within $150,000. Mr. Mercer, county commissioner, can give information as to bids and other particulars.

—At Conshohocken, (P. O. town), Montgomery Co., Pa., the Conshohocken electric light and power company—Westinghouse system—has leased the old Maxwell mill property, and will make extensive repairs. At same place, the citizens are indignant because councils awarded the contract for lighting the streets to the above company. They claim that the gas company was the lowest bidder, and it is negotiating with the Edison electric light company for privileges and will erect a building for its new plant, as soon possible. Both companies will go into operation.

—At Chrysty's Park near McKeesport (P. O. town), Allegheny Co., Pa., the large steel tubular car works and railroad supply manufactory before reported, is to be located. The Syndicate that will build and control the works is composed of New York and New England men, George B. Kendall and Charles A. Arne, of Boston, being among the number. The capital stock will be half a million of dollars, and about 1500 men will be constantly employed. Freight and passenger cars are to be the specialty.

—At Royer's Ford (P. O. town), Montgomery county, Pa., the new hall, which is being built by Samuel R. Latshaw, will be 40 feet wide by 125 feet in length. The first story of the building will contain two stores, the second offices and storage rooms, the third a hall for entertainments, and the fourth story lodge rooms. The building will be crowned with a tower, the top of which will be 91 feet from the pavement.

The building will be lighted with gas, and be supplied with water by a hot-air pumping engine placed over a well that has been bored 140 feet deep.

—At Harrington (P. O. town), Kent Co., Del., W. T. Sharp, William Sharp, J. C. Reed, Dr. B. L. Lenis and Robert H. Smith, are organizing a new bank, and will probably buy one or more burglar proof safes.

—At Swarthmore (P. O. town), Delaware Co., Pa., Samuel Green will build a fourteen room house; at same place, William E. Steigleman the lumber dealer, is building a handsome stone and frame house on plot No. 1.

—At Bethlehem, Pa., $56,000 has been offered for a tract of land of some 80 acres situated partly in the Eastern part of the borough and partly in Bethlehem township, by a syndicate who contemplated the erection of several hundred new dwellings, the price offered for the land was $800 per acre, which the Moravian church congregation who are the owners, cannot accept owing to the character of the organization which precludes the sale of land under section 11, for town lots for a less price than the price brought by unimproved city lots in Bethlehem, during the preceding year which was at the rate of $1400 per acre. The sale is off for the present.

—At Allegheny City, Pa., Observatory Hill has suddenly come into notice as a suburb of Allegheny, owing to a new electric street railway. Land is held as high as $7000 per acre, and hard to get at that. Many argue that a building boom is impossible with land at these figures, but many fine residences are promised for this section next spring, and the probability is that even higher prices will be maintained in order to make the Hill a fashionable suburb. At same place, the corner stone of the Green street Colored Baptist church has been laid at the corner of Gray and Perry's alley.

—At Reading, Pa., Selwyn Hall is to be enlarged. The present brick school building which is 85 feet by 35 feet is to have another story added to it and a new frame building is to be erected in the foreground to be used as a gymnasium. The beauty of the present gymnasium building is to be increased by a handsome stone tower, the improvements will cost about $6,500. A new omnibus to carry pupils to and from Reading will be bought. The handsome residences of Sam'l H. Fulmer and Calvin D. Moser, before reported, on the Mineral Spring Road are nearly completed. At same place —At Lebanon, Pa., considerable feeling is manifested because Governor Beaver has refused to charter the Electric Street Railway Company because he had already granted a charter to the Lebanon Street Railway Company. The City Council has appealed to the Governor in the interests of the Electric Company, and claim the right to choose between the two propositions. At same place, Joseph Focht is building a new house on Twenty-third street. At same place the Lebanon Stone Works are excavating for a building five stories high at the corner of Walnut street and Doe alley; it will 40 x 70 feet. Mr. Frederick Fertig is building two new houses on Twenty-second street.

work on the foundation for the extension of Rick Brothers, foundry on North Third street, has been commenced. The new building will be 45 feet long and the width and height of the present building, making the plant nearly a square long.

—At Wilkesbarre, Pa., great things are expected from the present rapid growth of the business connected with the manufacturing of John Dowling's patent self-closing hydrant, and it is intimated that a large factory building with the necessary machinery will soon be built in order that the great demand for this new and popular hydrant may be supplied. A limited company has been formed under the name and title of the Wilkesbarre Self-closing Hydrant Co., of which W. J. Smith, J. G. Wood, Mr. Mackin, and Mr. Levy are members. Mr. Dowling is superintendent of the present factory on North Canal street, but the facilities are inadequate to meet even the present demands. The hydrant is to be submitted to Philadelphia councils and will probably be adopted as it is said to positively prevent all wastage. The Charles Whitaker Manufacturing Company of Chicago, it is stated has ordered 500 of these hydrants, and it is probable that they will be adopted by the Chicago water department.

BUILDERS' ITEMS.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

A new system has gone into effect at the Real Estate Exchange in which daily "wants" and "offers" are introduced for the benefit of the members.

At Dunbarton, on the C. & A. R. R., there are several houses being built. Next spring on sections 13, 14, and 17 will be erected tasteful cottages, costing about $3000.

Dr. Harrison, who recently purchased the David Paxson property at Radnor, will tear down the old mill. A new house will be built by Dr. Harrison at some future time.

The Edison Electric Light Company will erect a six-story building 70x100 ft., on Sanson street above Ninth street, the new building will be used as an electric plant.

Dr. Charles Sajous, 1630 Chestnut street, has purchased from Annie Garrett, six acres of land at Devon, Pa., and will build a $12,000 house there. The work is under contract to Lewis Warner, of that place.

P. R. Weitzel, of Scranton, Pa., has purchased a lot at Lawnton, on the North Penn Railroad. The dimensions are 50x280 feet; $1316.57 was the price paid. The owner purchased with an idea of building.

Joseph Worrell, Radnorville, has cut up twenty acres of his farm into building lots from one-half to one acre in size; they range in price from $200 to $700. Three lots have been sold to purchasers who intend to build.

E. Randolph Maule has bought three acres at Radnor, which he will use as a building site for a handsome residence to cost about $12,000, including the land, which is worth $4,000. Charles F. Weadley, of Radnor is the contractor.

William J. Leshner, Walter Hood, and Mr. Hamilton, of Merion Square, Pa., have purchased forty-eight acres of land at Ardmore, Pa., for which they paid one thousand dollars per acre. The land will be cut up into building lots.

The roof of Girard College, which is of marble is decaying. Several opinions are ventured as to the cause. James H. Windram the architect says that moisture and leakage has caused the decay. The roof will be covered with boards and then tinned.

J. T. Jackson, 711 Walnut street, has sold the property No. 124 north Ninth street, which is a three-story brick store and dwelling on a lot 13x38 feet for $5100; also, 1333 north Fifteenth street, three-story brick dwelling, the lot is 54 by 155 ft. 8 in. $20,100.

The congregation of the Fourth Presbyterian church, Eighteenth and Filbert street, have under consideration the sale of their church and the erection of a new one; $30,000 will be needed, and the friends of the church and congregation will no doubt assist in raising the amount.

Several handsome houses will be built on the Solly Estate at Holmesburg: George Castor has now under way a very handsome house costing $40,000 (before reported). He has influenced several of his friends to build there also, but work will not probably be commenced until spring as nothing yet has been decided upon.

The planning mill recently occupied by the Fite & Arbello Company, at the northwest corner Broad and North streets, destroyed by fire on the Fourth of this month, has just commenced to be rebuilt by the Wister estate. The new mill will be of stone three stories high, with a frontage of 37 feet and a depth of 42 feet.

On Tuesday, November 15th, the joint Committee on the Central High school and Normal school and Manuel Training school met and decided to ask for $125,000 from Councils to build a Boys' High school building at Twenty-seventh and Jefferson streets. Our former report was for $300,000, but after considerable talk the sum asked for was reduced to the above stated amount.

Lippincott, Oggleve & Co., 617 Market street, will soon commence the erection of a handsome five-story building at 734 Market, now occupied by Cadmus & Co. The building on the present site will be entirely torn down and the new one placed in its stead will be of iron, with all the modern improvements, and will run back to Shoemaker street. Work will be commenced about the latter end of this month.

The town of Bridgeport, Montgomery Co., Pa., is growing. Several very pretty properties have been recently erected and now the horse railway is a certainty, the tracks being laid and nearly ready for travel. The great want of the place is small houses, not one of which can be had in the town. Many of the employees in the mills are obliged to live in Pottstown or Reading, as they can find no accommodations nearer than these places. This is a subject worthy of investigation by builders from this city.

The Pennsylvania Trust Company, 431 Chestnut street, contemplate the erection of large office building upon the present site of the American Hotel, Chestnut above Fifth street. The company have not as yet made any decided arrangements. President Lindley Smyth states that the property was bought by them so that it would not be sacrificed and it is impossible to state at present what will be done.

Louis T. Brooke has sold at Duffryn Mawr, Green Tree station, P. R. R., during the past year seventy-five lots, varying in price from $250 to $500 a lot. Two houses have been completed and one is now under way, and a number will be built in the spring, which will range in price from $2,000 upward. The company is building three thousand feet of Telford road, which together with the grading, will cost about $3,500. The King road running from Green Tree to Malvern, has been laid out forty-five feet wide and straightened, which removes it further away from the railroad.

On Friday, 18th inst., the general committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church Extension Society, held its annual meeting at the rooms of the Society, 1016 Arch street. The following applications were acted upon: A loan of $10,000 for the Peoples' church of Boston. This report was laid on the table. A loan of $500 was granted to the Butte City Montana Church. A favorable report was made in regard to loaning $1000 to the church at St. Augustine, Florida. The committee recommended that the church at South Chester be exempt from any rule which will disable them from applying to the board for assistance.

Architects' Notes.

Charles W. Bolton, 1510 Chestnut street is at work on a frame cottage, costing about $2,000 to be built at Prospect, Butler Co. Pa. No contracts have been let.

Furness, Evans & Co., are working on the plans for the Provident Life and Trust Companies new building, which will be erected at the Northwest corner of Fourth and Chestnut streets about next June.

Angus S. Wade, wishes to inform his friends that the partnership existing between Reed & Wane dissolved on the 17th of this month. Business will be carried on at the old office, 20 South Broad street by Mr. Wade, and all claims against the firm will be settled by him.

The majority of the architects are now finishing up this year's work. Very little new work has been received, that is nothing definite has been decided on, yet from the manner in which the architects talk they will begin to be busy in about a month or so, and quite a large amount of work is in contemplation.

E. F. Durang, 1200 Chestnut street, has finished the plans for the new hospital for the House of the Angel Guardian and Maternity Hospital, Woodland avenue, near Seventieth street, West Philadelphia. The hospital will be under the protection of the Roman Catholic church. Its height will be about sixty feet, divided as follows: first story 13 feet 10 inches, second and third stories the same, fourth story 12 feet, and a mansard roof. The frontage will be 133 feet, and the depth 66 feet. Stone will be used in the construction; special attention has been paid to the sanitary appliances. Work will be commenced at once.

The Little Sisters of the Poor are making large additions to their building at Germantown, near Wingochocking station. The improvements will consist of a stone chapel, 40x90, and a north wing 40x90, and a wing running east and west of the same dimensions. The building will be four-stories high and built of white stone. No contracts have been let, excepting for the cellars which are now under way. E. F. Durang 1200 Chestnut street, is the architect. SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE,

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 20, 1887.

ARCHITECTS ARE INVITED TO SUBMIT competition plans for six school buildings, for which $975 is offered in prizes. Time of competition limited to December 15, 1887. For further particulars, address, A. S. DRAPER,

State Superintendent,
Albany, N. Y.

NOTICE TO ARCHITECTS.

IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE PROVISIONS OF chapter 371 of the Laws of 1887, entitled "An Act to provide for the erection of a building for Criminal Courts and other purposes in the City of New York," the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund will receive plans and specifications until the first day of March, 1888, for the building provided for in the said act, to be erected in connection with the City Hall and the new Court house, in accordance with a general plan which has been approved by the said Commission, and which can be examined at the office of the Comptroller.

The plans submitted must give the elevation of the said building on all four sides and on the inner Court, and must be accompanied by floor plans and specifications for the construction of the said building in sufficient detail to enable the working drawings to be made therefrom. An estimate of the cost of the structure must accompany each plan in sufficient detail to enable the Commission to modify the plans if desired.

For the plan which may be adjudged by the Commission to be the best submitted, a premium of FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS will be paid; for the second best, a premium of FOUR THOUSAND DOLLARS; for the third best, a premium of THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS; for the fourth best, a premium of TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS; and for the fifth best, a premium of ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS. But no obligation shall rest upon the Commission to award premiums to any plan which shall not be regarded as meritorious.

The premiated plans shall become the property of the City, and may be used and combined in any manner which the Commission may approve. No obligation shall be created by the acceptance of any plan to employ the author thereof as the architect to construct the building, it being discretionary with the Commissioner of Public Works to determine in what manner the supervision of the building shall be provided for. Each plan submitted shall be marked with such assumed designation as the architect may select, provided there shall be filed with the Mayor a sealed envelope giving the real name of the author of the plan so designated, which will not be opened until after the award of the premium.

Lithograph copies of the general plan of the building, adopted by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund October 7, 1887, can be obtained by architects upon application at the Comptroller's Office, Stewart Building, No. 280 Broadway, in the City of New York, together with a pamphlet containing special instructions.

By order of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund.

ABRAM S. HEWITT,

PRICE 15 CENTS

THE activity in city and suburban properties is a very noticeable feature in the real estate market. Daily sales are now being held at the Exchange. A great deal of property, which has heretofore been held for high prices, is now being offered at figures which will likely find buyers. A great many vacant city lots have been bought for building purposes next year. Holders have about satisfied themselves that the present is as good a time as any to realize. Among the recent sales are a lot, 250x390, at Sixteenth and Clearfield, which sold for $25,000; another at Camac and Susquehanna avenue sold for $40,000. A twenty acre farm in Radnor township, two miles east of Bryn Mawr, sold for $17,500. These are simply samples of what is going on in the Upper section of the city and the suburbs. Eight acres of ground between Germantown and the Falls of the Schuylkill were sold for $30,000. Investors are looking about for opportunities of this character. Those who are the most active in this direction have the least to say, as they do not desire to put prices up on themselves until they have made their purchases. The possibility is not quite as remote as some might think it is, for a general advance in suburban real estate. One fact pointing in this direction is that there will be abundant facilities for rapid transit within the next three or four years, and the matter of an elevated railroad or an underground one has not been, as yet, permanently disposed of. If they are ever built, suburban real estate will become more valuable. That more rapid facilities for travel will be supplied in the near future, is a fact which the best informed accept. This movement to secure desirable real estate may be expected to continue just as long as there is a sharp demand for houses, for rental and buying.

AN agitation is being started by some of the leading capitalists of the country which will not die out until American shipping is once more an important factor in the world's commerce. Manufacturers are interested, both directly and indirectly, in the building up of our shipping. Foreign markets are increasing their demands upon us, but our exports are kept at the lowest possible limits, simply because of the lack of transportation facilities. When railroad companies have more traffic than their rolling stock allows them to handle, they order more cars. The same wise policy ought to be followed on the ocean. We cannot expect an ocean trade without ships, any more than we could expect an inland trade without cars. This country has reached a point where this departure is imperative.

Terms of Credit.

The following data regarding the terms of credit allowed in various countries are derived from reports of United States consuls published by the Government;

In Austria a credit of six months is generally given.

In France a four months' acceptance is required to be sent in settlement of the invoice.

In Italy but little credit business is done, and none without good security being given.

In Asia Minor a credit of but two or three weeks is in most cases all that is allowed.

In Cuba the time fixed for payment is generally from four to five months after delivery of the goods.

In the Bermudas accounts are settled but once a year. The 30th of June is the day usually fixed for the payments.

In England a payment of the price of the goods delivered is required at the end of three months, dating from the day of shipment.

In Austria it is scarcely possible to do business without allowing a very long credit, which is nearly always one of six months.

In Spain four-fifths of the transactions are done on a cash basis, while in Portugal great liberty is shown and quite a long credit is usually allowed.

In Turkey even objects of prime necessity are sold on credit, and in this country, as well as in Russia, the time allowed is in most cases twelve months.—Exchange.

What There is in Smoke.

The investigations of a society formed in London to abate the smoke nuisance afforded a rather startling idea of the wasteful extravagance of the present system of combustion. Here is a summary of a late report of the Smoke Abatement Institute: "The weight of the smoke cloud over the city is estimated at about 50 tons of solid carbon and 250 tons of hydro-carbon and carbonic oxide gases. From actual tests, the value of coal annually wasted through the obstinacy of the Cockneys is £2,257,500, or 42 per cent. of the amount expended for coal in London, that being the percentage of heat that escapes up chimney without warming anybody. This waste also causes a useless expenditure of £268,750 for carting coal, to say nothing of the wear and tear of streets, and of £43,000 more for carting away ashes. Altogether, about £2,500,000 is yearly thrown away in London. Add to this £2,000,000 f injury to property from the smoke-laden atmosphere, and there is shown a total of £4,500,000, which London annually loses because of its failure to burn coal under proper conditions." Nearly all this waste and smoke could be prevented by a general adoption of improved methods of constructing chimneys, fire places, furnaces and heaters.—Exchange.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, NOV. 28, 1887.

THE construction of a municipal subway for electrical purposes will probably be agreed upon at an early session of Councils.

ON January 1st the interest on the funded debt of the city, amounting to $1,720,732.50, will be paid.

THE city employees who are demanding higher salaries ought to strike, in order to see just how many would be glad to take their jobs at the same price.

THE city needs about 14,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily. The supply is about 10,000,000. The demand is steadily growing. A proposition is now before Councils looking to the supplying of the city with an illuminating gas of a candle power not less than 22 sperm candles at a price not to exceed one-half of the present cost of manufacturing gas by the city. The proposition is to put up buildings and machinery free of cost, and to erect a plant in the twenty-fifth ward. This matter is a most important one. The present facilities are inadequate and the necessity for a greater supply will grow every year.

SEVERAL architects have recently spoken of the increase in the number of fine suburban residences. Quite a number are now at work upon fine houses to be erected next year. Many of them are on the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad. A large number of houses will be built near the line of that road for rent and sale, which will cost from $5,000 to $8,000 apiece. They will have more ground, air and sunlight, than would be possible in the city, and in point of convenience, the disadvantage is greatly over-balanced by cheaper land, more room, and more comfortable living. Several eligible tracts of land have been purchased to be built upon, and there is a growing disposition among city residents to change their surroundings in favor of suburban surroundings.

As a rule, architects deprecate publicity to their business, claiming it to be non-professional and not in keeping with their professional dignity. Of course it is useless to chop logic with men who hold such ultra views, but it strikes us that an architect has a right to let the world know that his brains and skill are figuratively marketable commodities. The design for a magnificent structure is an outgrowth of ideality. It bears upon its face the tireless brain work of the man who conceived it. Every tracing of the pencil point expresses a thought, and the harmonious blending of his ideas expresses the poetry of his soul. The architect stamps more solid individuality into his work than does a member of any other profession. His genius takes tangible shape in the building constructed from his plans, and in too many instances, and frequently from a morbid delicacy and a mistaken sense of professional propriety, he fails to receive that lasting recognition of his abilities that justly belong to him. We do not hold that an architect would be justified in trumpeting his abilities as a merchant does his wares, but we do claim that he has the right to let the world know that it was his brain that conceived the massive structure that holds the waiting crowds in admiration, and that too without breaking any written or unwritten professional law upon the subject.

At present the gravest imposition is practised, and prints of beautiful structures purposely intended to deceive are scattered broadcast over the land by reputable journals who are also imposed on by a class of architects who hope to bolster up their own fortunes at the expense of their more capable brothers. This abuse will continue just so long as the present system exists. There is but one way to prevent it, and that is for architects to give publicity to their work, as an author does to his books. By this means the man who seeks to climb on the strength and genius of another will think twice before trying the present method of using cheap prints and gullible proprietors of building journals.

A GOOD many other cities besides Philadelphia are short of school room. A municipal election, hinged upon the point of supplying or not supplying more space for school purposes. In Boston a good deal of complaint is made about the cost of buildings. The Roxbury school, which was to cost $95,000, will cost according to the plans of the architect, $180,000. It is to be hoped the time will soon come when school houses can be made models of architectural beauty and sanitary completeness.

It is very seldom that fault is found with an architect for the defective character of his work. In a few isolated instances where fault is found, it is discovered that the architect has been hampered or restricted in one way or another by instructions which forced him to the adoption of material, or methods that his judgment does not approve. As a rule, however, architects stand upon their professional judgment and are not swayed by influences that jeopardize their reputation.

STAINED glass work is coming into very common use in our better class of houses. Philadelphia houses are gaining a reputation in New York City and elsewhere for the excellence of their work.

STATE OF NEW YORK,
DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION,
SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE,
ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 20, 1887.

ARCHITECTS ARE INVITED TO SUBMIT competition plans for six school buildings, for which $975 is offered in prizes. Time of competition limited to December 15, 1887. For further particulars, address, A. S. DRAVER,

State Superintendent,
Albany, N. Y.

IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE PROVISIONS OF chapter 371 of the Laws of 1887, entitled "An Act to provide for the erection of a building for Criminal Courts and other purposes in the City of New York," the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund will receive plans and specifications until the first day of March, 1888, for the building provided for in the said act, to be erected in connection with the City Hall and the new Court house, in accordance with a general plan which has been approved by the said Commission, and which can be examined at the office of the Comptroller.

The plans submitted must give the elevation of the said building on all four sides and on the inner Court, and must be accompanied by floor plans and specifications for the construction of the said building in sufficient detail to enable the working drawings to be made therefrom. An estimate of the cost of the structure must accompany each plan in sufficient detail to enable the Commission to modify the plans if desired.

For the plan which may be adjudged by the Commission to be the best submitted, a premium of FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS will be paid; for the second best, a premium of FOUR THOUSAND DOLLARS; for the third best, a premium of THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS; for the fourth best, a premium of TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS; and for the fifth best, a premium of ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS. But no obligation shall rest upon the Commission to award premiums to any plan which shall not be regarded as meritorious.

The premiated plans shall become the property of the City, and may be used and combined in any manner which the Commission may approve. No obligation shall be created by the acceptance of any plan to employ the author thereof as the architect to construct the building, it being discretionary with the Commissioner of Public Works to determine in what manner the supervision of the building shall be provided for. Each plan submitted shall be marked with such assumed designation as the architect may select, provided there shall be filed with the Mayor a sealed envelope giving the real name of the author of the plan so designated, which will not be opened until after the award of the premium.

Lithograph copies of the general plan of the building, adopted by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund October 7, 1887, can be obtained by architects upon application at the Comptroller's Office, Stewart Building, No. 280 Broadway, in the City of New York, together with a pamphlet containing special instructions.

By order of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund.

ABRAM S. HEWITT,

VOL. II.—No. 48.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1887.

PRICE 15 CENTS

Dissolution of Co-partnership.

On November 19th ultimo, the firm of Waite, Van Harlinger & Mactier, engineers and contractors, 308 Walnut street, was dissolved. George R. Waite and Martin Van Harlinger have organized a new firm under the name of Waite & Van Harlinger, and will continue business at the old stand.

A Correction.

We incorrectly stated in our issue of November 28th ultimo, that John C. Hoxie made the plans for the new passenger depot of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company at Harrisburg, Pa., we were not only in error but did great injustice to Mr. W. Bledlyn Powell, 3125 Powelton avenue, who designed the building and prepared the plans and specifications while engaged with that company. The building was constructed under the joint supervision of Mr. Powell and Mr. B. Boules. Its cost, Mr. Powell informs us, was about $25,000, and the work was done by Master Mechanic Andrew Brand. We cheerfully make this correction and state that we were deceived by our informant as to particulars given in our last issue. Mr. Powell has justly earned high praise for his conception of the above beautiful structure, and we cordially extend it to him.

A Good Place to Buy.

For nearly a quarter of a century the old house of A. J. Weidener, has been located at 36 south Second street. The stock embraces not only every novelty in the lamp trade, but also an endless variety of fancy goods, bronzes, useful and decorative articles, besides a full line of chandeliers and lamp fixtures for the lighting of churches, halls, seminaries, etc. This house does an extensive business with our citizens occupying suburban residences, besides which the merit of its ware is recognized by those living through the State, and even as far south as Georgia and Alabama, to which points frequent heavy shipments of private orders are made.

The fact is everything pertaining to the lighting of houses and public places—outside of gas and electricity—can be purchased from Weidener's at the lowest possible price, and those living at a distance can obtain a descriptive circular, and order by mail with the same confidence and security as they could by being present to make the selection themselves.

A Lath Test by Fire.

An interesting exhibition of what modern mechanical science has already accomplished in baffling the demon fire was recently made before a large number of architects, builders and business men at Cincinnati, the occasion being the regular Annual Convention of the Western Association of Architects, the members of which in attendance having been invited by Mr. R. T. Brown, of the New Jersey Wire Cloth Company, to attend a fire test of their Patent Stiffened fireproof wire lathing. The test was a practical one, inasmuch as the self-same materials used in the construction of an ordinary house, warehouse, mill or factory were included in the little ten by ten structure which was used as an objective point, the only difference being that the wooden floor joists were enclosed with the wire lathing covered with two coats of ordinary mortar, instead of the old fashioned wooden lath and mortar. The little building was filled with light wood, such as old lumber, wooden boxes, etc., and the whole mass set on fire. The fire, which was an unusually hot one, lasted for nearly two hours, and when the building had sufficiently cooled, the crowd entered to find the building scorched and singed, yet it was practically uninjured, for upon stripping the wire lathing from the wooden floor joists, it was found that they were not even scorched. The whole question in a nut shell, is to overcome possibilities. If fireproof buildings are to be made fireproof, the old system of lathing must be abandoned, and the sooner the better. And the man who would erect a building nowadays, of any considerable size, and lath it the old way, is stupidly paving the way for disaster, which may result in the wreck and ruin of innocent neighbors as well as himself. The new building now being erected for the American Life, at Fourth and Walnut, is to be lathed with the Patent Stiffened Lathing of the New Jersey Wire Cloth Company. It has been used in the Bullitt building, and many others in this city.

THE Gas Fixture Manufacturing firm of Cornelius and Hetherington has been dissolved. Messrs. John C. Cornelius, Charles C. Cornelius and George L. Rowland, succeeded the old firm under the name and title of Cornelius & Rowland.

DURING the week ending Nov. 21st last, $8,799,079 worth of real estate was transferred in Kansas City; a gain of 33⅓ per cent. over the same week of 1886.

On the 1st instant Mr. Nathaniel C. Janney, the popular real estate broker and conveyancer, commenced his duties as President of the Land Title and Trust Company of this city, to which position he was elected about a month ago.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, DEC. 5, 1887.

It is quite an encouraging feature to notice the large auction real estate sales that have been made recently. Builders are quite anxious to secure desirable sites in all sections of the city. In some cases prices have been fair for sites within a month or two which would not have been even as much as asked a year ago, but in general there is no advance in real estate. There are numerous exceptions to this sweeping statement, but it is safe to say, upon the authority of those who are well posted, that real estate in general can be purchased at about the figures of last year. As was predicted in these columns before the Real Estate Exchange took organized shape, a better understanding of real estate values has resulted. What a year or two ago was guess work is now reduced to certainty. Standards of rules are now being evolved by which something near the actual value of real estate can be arrived at. It used to be that where real estate experts were consulted as to the value of property by either buyers or sellers, they differed very widely in their estimates, so that it showed something was wrong or rather that there was lacking some basis upon which to act in forming conclusions. The interchange of views now so common among the members of the Exchange is enlightening the judgment and enabling both buyers and sellers to know something more about the actual values of properties changing hands.

WITHIN the past few days unexpected influences have resulted in a hardening of values in several staple commodities. In raw material, such as coal, iron, steel, lumber and petroleum, prices are generally firm. A little reaction was thought probable a short time ago by a great many consumers of such material, but as yet the weakness has not developed itself. The anxiety of a great many builders, manufacturers and others to secure fair supplies for the winter and early spring has led them to place orders, which has had the effect above named of hardening prices. For instance, the steel rail buyers bought heavily last week, and this week will no doubt extend their engagements. The bar mills throughout the United States are making all the iron they can sell at about two cents per pound. The nail makers are having a hard time of it, and over one-half of the nail-making capacity is now idle. Nails are selling at a good many mills at five to fifteen cents, so it is severely ascerted, below the cost of making. The active building season is now about over, and builders are not inclined to make heavy purchases of nails at any price. The only safety for the manufacturing interests, to all appearance at least, is to restrict production still further. The supply of lumber at this market is heavier than usual at this season. The receipts from the South run from one-third of a million to a million feet per day. No record is kept of the supply of hemlock or white pine, and hence it is impossible to give an intelligent trade review from these quarters. Rolling stock engaged in the lumber trade is constantly employed, and lumbermen have barely time to unload before cars are wanted again. White pine is low in price, and no attempt is made to advance it. Hemlock is scarce, and everything is promptly picked up. Large supplies are now controlled by two or three strong companies, and there are prospects, so the lumbermen say, of dearer stocks next year in consequence. Some little spruce is coming in, and a good deal of hard wood for interior finish. Wagon makers, carriage makers, house builders, car builders and the consumers and users of lumber of all kinds have been making liberal purchases, not only for current requirements but for winter use. It is, therefore, safe to say there will be very little weakness in lumber this winter. The loggers, both North and South, are preparing for a very active winter's cut.

A STUDY of the various lists of permits taken out in various cities of the country shows that the tendency is in the direction of the construction of finer and more costly houses as well as to the individuality of construction. It has often been said in these columns, that there is no reason why all houses should be built alike. Architectural talent is leading in this departure. Crowded surroundings prevent a display of much architectural ability or even architectural taste, but where each house stands alone, as each house ought to, there is abundant room for the talent of the architect and builder to shine forth. The alterations of fronts, going on in this city, show what a strong protest there is against the spirit of uniformity which has so long been dominant in this city. The rebellion ought to be encouraged.

Through New Jersey.

At Port Norris (P. O. town), Cumberland Co., a shoe factory is to be established.

At Pennsville (P. O. town), Salem Co., a large oil cloth works are to be erected.

A store house will be built on Lawrence street, Burlington, N. J., by William R. Schuyler. At Haddonfield, (P. O. town), Camden Co., Messrs. Clement & Giffin will erect a large Hall.

At Mount Ephraim (P. O. town), Camden Co., the Baptist mission is raising money for its building fund.

At Chiselhurst (not a P. O. town) on the Camden & Atlantic Railroad a new depot will be erected shortly.

At Camden, Cyrus Carmany will rebuild his dye house, recently destroyed by fire, at Eighth and Cherry streets.

Augustus Gimmins, of this city, has bought the John W. Lamb farm near Barnsborough, (P. O. town), Gloucester Co., for $3750.

At Pavonia, a suburb of Camden, the new car shops now being erected by the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., will be heated by steam.

At Trenton, the members of the Y. M. C. A. of that town will make an effort to secure the necessary funds to erect a new building next year.

At Cape May the Dining Park buildings will require half a million feet of lumber to build it.

It has been purchased from Williamsport, Pa., parties.

At Hammonton (P. O. town), Atlantic Co., a machine shop and hose factory is to be erected by Alfred Somersall, 4555 Lena st, Germantown, who has purchased five acres of land at the above place.

At Bordentown (P. O. town), Burlington Co., the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. will expend about $10,000 on new passenger and freight depots and other improvements. A new bridge will be built over Black's creek.

At Collingswood (P. O. town), Camden Co., N. J. it is extremely probable that the Baptist congregation at Westmont (not a P. O. town), will abandon their church and erect a new building at the former place.

At Pleasantville (P. O. town), Atlantic Co., the Independent Order of Red Men are talking about the erection of a new hall. At same place, Charles S. Adams will erect a new residence on the site of his present home next spring. At same place, it is reported that a new hotel will be erected.

The Garrigues property on Broad street, Woodbury, N. J. (P. O. town), has been sold to William H. Kemble, of Philadelphia. It is probable that the purchase was made by Mr. Kemble with the intention of presenting it to Methodist Episcopal church that place, as a site for their new building to be erected.

At Newark, Essex Co., ex-Mayor Peddie of that city has offered a subscription of $75,000 towards building a new church edifice for the First Baptist congregation of that place. In issue of October 17th, we reported that this congregation would make an effort to purchase a building site on Broad street, in that city.

At Woodbury (P. O. town), Gloucester Co., Mr. Wm. H. Kemble has bought the Garrigues Hall property on Broad street for $20,000, as a site for a new church edifice for the M. E. church congregation of that place. This is the same as before reported, and makes good Mr. Kemble's generous contribution toward the church building fund of this congregation.

At Princeton, (P. O. town), Mercer Co., Architect A. STATE OF NEW YORK,
DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION,
SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE,

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 20, 1887.

ARCHITECTS ARE INVITED TO SUBMIT competition plans for six school buildings, for which $375 is offered in prizes. Time of competition limited to December 15, 1887; For further particulars, address, A. S. DRAPER, State Superintendent, Albany, N. Y.

IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE PROVISIONS OF chapter 371 of the Laws of 1887, entitled "An Act to provide for the erection of a building for Criminal Courts and other purposes in the City of New York," the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund will receive plans and specifications until the first day of March, 1888, for the building provided for in the said act, to be erected in connection with the City Hall and the new Court house, in accordance with a general plan which has been approved by the said Commission, and which can be examined at the office of the Comptroller.

The plans submitted must give the elevation of the said building on all four sides and on the inner Court, and must be accompanied by floor plans and specifications for the construction of the said building in sufficient detail to enable the working drawings to be made therefrom. An estimate of the cost of the structure must accompany each plan in sufficient detail to enable the Commission to modify the plans if desired.

For the plan which may be adjudged by the Commission to be the best submitted, a premium of FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS will be paid; for the second best, a premium of FOUR THOUSAND DOLLARS; for the third best, a premium of THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS; for the fourth best, a premium of TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS; and for the fifth best, a premium of ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS. But no obligation shall rest upon the Commission to award premiums to any plan which shall not be regarded as meritorious.

The premiated plans shall become the property of the City, and may be used and combined in any manner which the Commission may approve. No obligation shall be created by the acceptance of any plan to employ the author thereof as the architect to construct the building, it being discretionary with the Commissioner of Public Works to determine in what manner the supervision of the building shall be provided for. Each plan submitted shall be marked with such assumed designation as the architect may select, provided there shall be filed with the Mayor a sealed envelope giving the real name of the author of the plan so designated, which will not be opened until after the award of the premium.

Lithograph copies of the general plan of the building, adopted by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund October 7, 1887, can be obtained by architects upon application at the Comptroller's Office, Stewart Building, No. 280 Broadway, in the City of New York, together with a pamphlet containing special instructions.

By order of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund.

VOL. II.—No. 49.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1887.

Municipal Doings.

The public takes a good deal more interest in what Council does now than it used to. Expenditures are very closely criticised. Councilmen evidently feel that they are being closely watched and they are approaching nearer to that standard of municipal statesmanship which all would like to see developed.

The Central Labor Union did a very good thing the other day by furnishing a list of forty buildings where from 300 to 500 hands were employed, and were not properly supplied with fire escapes. This is one good thing that organization has done and they have the approval of the public in their efforts to right this wrong. Whosoever business it is to see to this matter ought to be reprimanded if neglected.

A very important matter before Councils is that of supplying sufficient school facilities. The Board of Education is a little rapid in asking for $125,000 for a High School when we need so many low schools. The tendency is altogether too much in the high direction. If there is anything the people of Philadelphia would stand it is a five cents addition to their $1.85 tax, and let the extra five cents go into school houses. Several wards are calling for more schools and they ought to have them.

The Finance Committee has done a very sensible thing in passing an item of $10,000 for the establishment of a music pavilion in Old Fairmount Park.

Asphalt pavement is a good pavement. Why not try the experiment of expending $15,000 upon one of our down town streets, instead of putting that amount of money in repaving Diamond street, from Front to Germantown ave.

During the first eleven months of the year there were 32 permits less than for the same time last year and eight less operations. There were 30 more two-story dwellings and 72 more three-story dwellings.

Up in Tacony the builders do not wait for the city to lay streets but go on and build. Three hundred houses were erected there without a permit from the Board of Survey. The builders merely followed the natural grades.

The Finance Committee is one of the busiest committees in Council. It is having a good many knotty questions to consider, and its members are deserving of pay for their services if no other Committee is. The degree of familiarity with requirements and variety of matters is such as to make it unfair to ask men to serve on that committee to serve without compensation.

Philadelphia has taken up the harbor improvement question in earnest. The Advisory Board of the Harbor Commissioners began action looking to a proper presentation of the matter to the Government. The two islands in the river opposite to the city ought to be dug away and it is a wonder they have been allowed to stay there so long.

The estimated expenses of the Board of Education for next year is $12,264,561.25, an increase of $266,804.90 over this year.

The omission of Hazlehurst and Huckel's name in the description that appeared in The Press in its issue of last Saturday, of the Manufacturers' Club's new building may have been through inadvertence. For sweet charity's sake, let us think so at least, but we can't help thinking that when an architect generously gives his time to a journalist in search of news, that architect is certainly entitled to at least a mention of his name in some part of the article that appears for sweet decency's sake if for no other reason. Hazlehurst & Huckel designed the plans for the new building of the Manufacturers' Club and are the architects.

WOMEN certainly are entitled to more credit as the possessors of inventive and constructive genius than is generally given to them, for they can justly lay claim to 1935 inventions for which letters patent have been issued up to December 14th of last year.

Make a Note of It.

The popularity of the Excelsior Mortar Colors throughout the United States, having attracted the attention of the old Paint manufacturing firm of S. Bowen's Sons, proprietors of the Pencora Paint Works, 150 North Fourth street this city, that firm were induced to make a very liberal offer for the entire plant, recipes, and etc., of the Excelsior Color Works to the former proprietor, Mr. Daniel R. Allen, who accepted it. The entire plant, business and etc., has consequently been transferred to 150 North Fourth street, as will be seen by the advertisement in this journal. Our readers will do well to make a note of this change for it is a hard matter to find a proper substitute for the Excelsior Standard Mortar Colors.

BRIEAN'S BUILDING PLANS is a volume giving sketches of low cost houses. It is published by Brian & Godwin, architects and engineers, at 1413 Filbert street, this city; it is a valuable work of particular interest to the thousands of buyers of suburban lots, who intend building cottages of modest dimensions; it contains much valuable information besides many plates embracing many styles of houses suitable for seashore and country residences.

THE holiday number of Wide Awake, a monthly published by the D. Lothrop Company of Boston, Mass., justly merits the attention of readers; it is particularly adapted for young people, as it is full of wholesome reading which should interest them.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, DEC. 12, 1887.

It may seem singular, but it is nevertheless true, that notwithstanding the personal and collective wealth, intelligence and social standing of the large number of gentlemen who signed the address to Mayor Fitter, many of whom called upon him in person on Monday last, there is not one of them who could carry a delegate election, or even gain for him a delegate to a convention.

THERE is no sense in going into ecstasies over President Cleveland's very excellent message to Congress, for it is neither a comparison piece to Lincoln's Proclamation of Emancipation nor its more worthy prototype the Declaration of Independence, but as a State paper it certainly contains more common sense to the inch than any that has preceded it for years.

We might as well get down to the fact at once; the people have been bled through the ultra dogmas of protection about all they can stand, and they are beginning to realize it; the sophistries of politicians and the free trade scare-crow of the manufacturers to the contrary notwithstanding. Absolute free trade is impossible, but a thorough and practical revision of the tariff is inevitable, and the sooner made the better.

A VERY sensible way of arriving at the comparative durability of the different varieties of paving material has been adopted by the Street Committee of councils of the city of Erie, Pa. Instead of adopting the method of junketing trips to various sections of the country, the committee have decided upon the satisfactory plan of selecting one square to be repaved in a part of the city where travel is the heaviest, and then paving one part of the space from curb to curb with fire brick, another with asphaltum, another with slag brick, and the fourth with Belgian blocks. This method, besides being practical, is purely economical, but it is seldom that council committees of large cities exercise so much common sense, as there is not enough fun in the method to please the average councilmanic statesman.

THE remarkable activity in building during the past year or two has started an avalanche of architectural and building literature. It is now the proper caper for an architect who considers his reputation as worth anything to write a book or at least a paper on some branch of his business. It is not intended to reflect upon the excellent work that is being done, for most of it is certainly deserving of careful reading. The literary field is being rapidly covered but it is an immense one. The trouble soon will be to decide what to read and what to let alone. There is necessarily a great deal of repetition, and a young architect will do well to consult his instructor before attempting to enter upon the wilderness of written instruction. It is also true that a vast amount of the drawings published for architectural papers might as well remain unpublished and undrawn. Enterprise is very well, but matured judgment as to what to publish in the way of new designs is quite another thing. There is no rule to lay down to guide either architects or the publishers of architectural papers, and we must expect a vast amount of indifferent matter to be thrown before the public.

THERE is one thing deserving of mention just now which will affect the labor problem, and that is, the fever of organization has about run its course. In New England the Knights of Labor have lost a large percentage of their membership. In this city a large secession is probably due to discontent, but composed chiefly of the textile workers. In Chicago a secession movement is being worked up, and will probably take a considerable percentage from the Western membership. In nearly all cities and towns there is less interest felt in that great organization. Employers themselves could not desire to see its dismemberment, because organization of one kind, or another is a necessity, and the Knights have shown as much ability as any organization ever did to cope with the intricacies of the vexing labor problem. The only point to be made is, that with the subsidence of the fever of organization and with the administration of a good many thrashings by organized employers, labor is more conservative and inclined to think twice or three times before rushing away from forges, benches, furnaces and tools. The building trades are pretty well organized both among employers and workmen. The result will be to a better mutual understanding by which strikes can be avoided and injustice or unfairness, wherever it exists, remedied.

CHARTERS have been granted for the Blairsville Heat, Light, and Power Company, capital $20,000; the Lansdale Milk Condensing Company, of Philadelphia, capital $5,000; The Lebanon Electric Railway Company, capital $50,000.

Recent Decisions in Pennsylvania in Relation to Matters Concerning Real Estate and Commercial Law.

DECIDED BY THE SUPREME COURT.

BAILMENT.—A contract by which one "lets" to another a billiard table to be kept at a specified place for fifteen months for $465, to be paid $60 down and the balance by thirteen promissory notes of $30 each, falling due at monthly intervals, and one payment of $15, with a provision for recovery of possession upon default, and a covenant for the delivery of a bill of sale upon payment of the last installment, etc. constitutes a bailment and not a conditional sale, and may be enforced against the creditors of the bailee.

WERTZ vs. COLLENDER & Co.
May 2, 1887.

BILLS AND NOTES.—A note expressly an individual promise to pay for views of a school-house etc. in the absence of proof that its execution was legally authorized by the school board, binds the maker personally, although he has written after his signature the words "Principal School Board."

TORCEY vs. CALDWELL.
May 16, 1887.

CONTRACT.—An agreement "made by and between the subscribers" that "for good and sufficient considerations" in case "our effort" to set aside a certain will shall succeed, "each one of the said heirs who shall sign this paper," shall participate in a certain way in the distribution of the estate is binding upon the subscribers, although some of them are not heirs but devisees only. "Heirs" as used in the agreement is not restricted to its technical meaning, but signifies all subscribers interested in the alleged will. Without proof of consideration a contract "for value received" is insufficient to pass a contingent interest in a decedent's estate.

PATTERSON'S APPEAL.

April 11, 1887.

DEED.—Where a deed is presented to a man to sign, it is his duty to read it if he can read, and if he cannot, to ask to have it read and explained to him; and if he does neither, he is guilty of negligence, and the Court will not relieve him.

MCALARAY vs CONYRNHAM.

May 23, 1887.

HUSBAND AND WIFE.—A husband and wife acknowledged in writing that they had changed certain trust securities to amount of $3000—to which wife was entitled for life, and that they had in their hands the amount of these securities, the interest thereof to be retained by wife during life, and at her death the principal to be returned to trustee. The husband a private banker, died insolvent, but leaving a considerable estate for distribution. The wife died afterwards leaving no estate except that derived from insurance on her husband's life. The trust funds were recovered from wife's estate as for a tort. On distribution of husband's estate before an auditor, wife's representatives claimed a dividend on these trust funds. It was testified that two or three days before husband died he told his son to bring from the bank $3000, to pay a note he had given his wife. No such note was found and the money was not paid. There was no evidence that the wife had engaged in business, or had spent or lost the money. Held, the auditor should have allowed the claim. The facts and circumstances of the case established a relation of debtor and creditor between the husband and wife.

NAUMAN'S APPEAL.

June 1, 1887.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.—Where a city house is leased to a tenant for years, the act of the owner of the adjoining lot in condemning under the Act of May 20th, 1857, and removing a party wall, which forms one side of the house, for the purpose of erecting a suitable wall for a larger building, does not constitute a breach of the covenant, for quiet enjoyment implied in the lease. Every lease of land implies a covenant of quiet enjoyment, but that covenant extends only to act of the lessor himself, and to injuries inflicted under title paramount; it is not designed as an indemnity against any and all disturbance of the lessee's enjoyment of that land under the law.

"Robert H. Coleman, of Cornwall, and Edward, son of the late G. Dawson Coleman, have taken the preliminary steps to the erection of a steel plant at Lebanon, which it is expected will rival that of Steelton. Surveys were made for a system of sidings to connect it with the Cornwall & Lebanon Railroad, chiefly owned by Robert H. Coleman. The Philadelphia & Reading officials hearing of this move, General-Manager McLeod and Superintendent Sweigart came up. As a result of their visit a large force of men were put to work by the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company to build a siding from the old Cornwall Railroad up to Light's rolling mill, cutting across the proposed siding which had been laid out by the projectors of the new steel mill.

fourth and Lancaster avenue, recently destroyed by fire will be rebuilt.

Mrs. Mather will make an addition to her property at Fern Rock, on the North Penn Railroad. After completion it will be used as a summer hotel.

Strawbridge & Clothier will make an addition to their store by including the properties 22 and 24 north Eighth street. Work will not be commenced until next June.

William M. Singler will build a house at Twenty-second and York streets, for the use of the Police Patrol. The city will rent it. About $12,000 will be the cost of the improvement.

The Pennsylvania Rail Road will build a new station at Pennypack, Twenty-third Ward. The site selected is at Fuller's Lane, a short distance below the present station.

James S. Cross, of Paschalville, Philadelphia, has purchased three acres of land at Darby, near the French school, from Joseph Bunting, Jr. The ground will cut up into building lots.

J. W. Hampton is about to build two semi-detached houses next to his residence on Thirty-fourth street north of Arch. They will be constructed of brick, three stories high. About $18,000 will be the cost of the plan. Work will be commenced at once.

Thomas Kelsh, 339 South Second street, is about to build a large two-story factory at the North-east corner of Broad and South streets. The old buildings have been torn down, and work will go on at once. Edward Ward, 726 South Seventh street, has the contract. The building is 22x78.

Thomas Enoch, builder, of Collegeville, Philadelphia, will start four brick houses on Tulip street, Twenty-third Ward, in the spring. The houses will be of similar design to those now in course of erection by him at Wissinoming Station, Twenty-third Ward.

Allan Reed, and his brother, of the firm of Jacob Reed & Sons, have bought several lots at Fort Washington, Montgomery County, Pa. They are as yet undecided as to what kind of improvements will be made, but they will build such houses as the needs of this prosperous place demand.

Owing to the death of E. M. Davis, who held a large amount of property at Lawnton, on the North Penn road, negotiations have been stopped for the present between J. T. Jackson & Co., 711 Walnut street, and several parties who intend to purchase land at that place with the idea of erecting handsome houses. The estate will be in shape to proceed in the course of a few days.

The new Odd Fellows' hall, recently reported, in all probability will be located at the southwest corner of Tenth and Arch streets, as negotiations are now pending for the purchase of that site. The building committee have consulted several architects upon the plans for the building. The hall will cost $200,000.

At a special session of the Finance Committee of Councils, held on Wednesday last, to consider the distribution of the revenue surplus, after the ordinary appropriations had been made $250,000 was appropriated for new schools, lots and additions to schools; $15,000 for a police station at Manayunk, and $6,000 for a lot at the Falls of Schuylkill for a police station.

A syndicate has been formed to purchase property for building purposes. Up to the present time seven solid blocks of ground have been bought. These tracts lie on Paschal, Media, and Lansdowne avenues, between Fifty-fourth and Sixtieth streets.

Arrangements are now being made to erect a good class of houses of ornamental design not in solid blocks, but built in pairs with gardens in front. Work will be commenced this Winter if possible or in the Spring at the latest. H. St. John Brady, Sixth above Walnut street, made the purchase.

Messrs. Croft & Allen, the confectionery manufacturers at 1226 Market street, have purchased the property at the south-east corner of 33rd and Market streets, West Philadelphia, and will erect thereon a five story factory. The building will have a frontage of 236 feet on Market street and 208 feet on 33rd street. It will be five stories high, and will be built of brick with granite trimmings. There will be two or more elevators, and it will be lighted by electricity. A few sketches have been submitted, but plans have not been made, neither has an architect been engaged. Mr. Croft can be found at the firm's address and will give information.

C. G. Robeson, of Beverly, N. J., has purchased the property on the north-west corner of Sixth and South, and also the three adjoining properties on South street, namely 603-605-607. The frontage is 80 feet, while the depth is 90 feet. A large store will be erected on this site, but building will not begin until the spring or summer, as several of the tenants' leases do not expire until that time. D. E. Dallam, 514 Walnut street, has the matter in charge. He states that no definite plans have as yet been made, but he believes that large buildings are needed in the southern part of the city, especially in that neighborhood, and if a suitable site can be found south of South street and west of Tenth, that another large five-story factory will be erected for the purpose of utilizing the cheap foreign labor so abundant in that section of the city.

Later information regarding the building of the Odd Fellows' hall at Tenth and Arch streets, indicates that nothing definite has been decided upon. The Grand Encampment has favored the new building, and possibly the matter will be held over until the meeting of the Grand Lodge, which takes place in May. Although the Hall association can go on with the work if they see fit. Several of the leaders are not in favor of building until the means of payment for the same is assured. A large number of shares have been sold, par value being fifty dollars, which are now at a premium. The total cost is estimated at between four and five hundred thousand dollars; two hundred thousand for the building, two hundred thousand for the building site, which includes four properties on Arch street, beginning with the south-east corner and extending to the small street on the rear. Forty thousand dollars will be spent for furnishing.

Architects' Notes.

The Art Club will be open for members on or about the 27th of this month.

J. Elvin Jackson, 804 Walnut street, will soon place on the boards plans for a fire engine house and a suburban dwelling.

It is reported that James H. Windrem has submitted plans for the new Masonic Temple, at Pittsburg, Pa., recently reported in this paper. The cost is estimated at $200,000. Building will be deferred until this amount is assured.

Amos J. Boyden, 44 Walnut street, is the architect for the new building of W. V. Lippincott, to be built at 734 Market street. In our previous report we stated that the front would be of iron; this however has been changed and no conclusion reached as to what will be used. Stone is most likely to be the material.

Otto Wolf, 1026 Arch street, is now at work on the plans for the rebuilding of the stores 18 and 20 North Eighth street, to be occupied by H. Mosebach, confectioner. The entire buildings will be remodeled, and a handsome front built. Mr. Mosebach has taken the property on a ten years improvement lease. The plans are not in a condition to report particulars.

Smith & Pritchett, 1430 South Penn square have just finished the plans for an addition to be made to the West Philadelphia Boat Club's house on the Schuylkill river. The improvement will consist of a tower on the river drive, ladies' room and boat room. The porch will be English; large gables and a stairway on the exterior. The club has appropriated $4000 for this purpose.

P. A. Welsh, 429 Walnut street, has nearly finished the drawings for the alteration of a house in this city; a complete rearrangement will be made and the decorations of modern designs. The work will not go on until March. Also a bank building at Bellefonte, Pa., which is ready for estimates. The construction will be of stone and brick, four stories high. Electric light and steam heat will be used. The furniture will be of cherry; handsome tiling and frescoing will be used. The part of the building not used by the bank will be fitted up for offices and lodge rooms.

Culver & Rogers, North West corner Ninth and Walnut streets, have plans on the boards for a very handsome stable for Mr. Warren, at Devon station, on the P. R. R. The building will be of stone and earthen tiling. The inside finish will be of hard woods, with all the latest improvements in stable fixtures. On the second floor is to be located the billiard and smoking-room, which will contain an open fire place, and mantel of artistic design. The building is 50x40. No contracts are let. The same architects have also finished the plans for an old English house at Radnor, on the P. R. R., for Miss Martha M. Brown. The gables and sides will be pebble dashed, all of the ceilings will be low. The doors will also be low, with Tudor arches. The feature of the building will be that all of the windows on the first floor are to be boxed in to the depth of sixteen inches. Small diamond-shaped panes of glass will be used. The architects have introduced a new idea by extending the newel post from floor to ceiling, from which curtains are to be hung, preventing the hetafrom ascending. All of the rooms will contain open fire places handsomely tiled, and the designs for the interior of the house show skill and taste which have been allowed full scope to display themselves.

Hazlehurst & Huckel, 411 Walnut street, are at work on the plans for a new club house at Anglesea, N. J. The building is to be of frame construction, three-stories high. The first floor will be used for the boats, the second for dining and other rooms; and the third for sleeping apartments. No contracts have been let. The same firm state that they are now ready to receive bids for the manufacturers club, before reported. The Methodist Church to be built at Woodbury, N. J., of which mention was made last week, is under the supervision of these gentlemen. Nothing definite can be stated as yet except that the building will be of stone with a tower feature, and that steam will be used for heating purposes. The lot on which the church will stand is 80x300 feet. They have also a pair of two-a-half-story frame houses near Norfolk, Va. The Episcopal Church at Woodbury, N. J., is also being remodeled by them. Franklin Reynolds is the builder. Sketches are also being made by them for a brick church at Harrisburg, Pa. Nothing definite has been decided upon. The same architects are also making plans for two stone houses at Pasadena, Cal., 45x70 feet.

VOL. II.—No. 50.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1887.

PRICE 15 CENTS

AFTER a careful inquiry among the residents and property owners on Arch, Ninth and Market streets, nothing new can be unearthed regarding the immediate action of the Reading Railroad relating to their new depot. Wild statements have been made that properties had been purchased on Arch street by the company, and also that they have the refusal of a number of others in the same locality. We can find nothing to confirm these reports. Dr. Seth Pancoast, who has made this matter a special study, stated to us in a personal interview that, to his knowledge, the Reading Company had purchased no property in that neighborhood, but he believed that before two years will have elapsed that a new depot, costing several thousand dollars, will be erected on Arch street near Tenth. The cost of the road, he said, would be about five million dollars. At the present time the surplus in their treasury is between ten and twelve million dollars, and both Messrs. Corbin and Keim are in favor of the project, as are also most of the prominent officials of the road. This road must, of necessity, get its terminus nearer the central portion of the city, and the question is, what is the cheapest and best way. Dr. Pancoast suggests that the traffic be diverted from the main line over the Falls bridge on to the Germantown and Norristown branches. He proposes to begin to elevate at a point north-west of Broad street, then down Ninth to Parrish to Kessler street, which runs between Ninth and Tenth, then through Preston, Wagner, Linden, Wayne or Canton, Jane and Elwyn and also Fayette streets. All of these streets are small, and the properties being occupied by others than the owners, will cost considerably less than property on either side of Ninth street, and the consequential damages will amount to almost nothing. The estimated cost of property on streets running between Ninth and Tenth, from Willow to Arch streets, would be a million and a half dollars, which estimate includes two hundred feet on Arch street. If the road continued down Ninth, a million dollars more would hardly cover the additional cost, which does not cover the consequential damages.

$98,826,000 is the amount of losses by fire in the United States for the year up to December 1st, according to the latest statistics.

It would seem that the basement heater had reached the highest point of improvement. Some of the recent makes put upon the market are certainly very economic in the use of coal and the principles upon which they are worked are calculated to give a maximum of heat. There is also a marked improvement in office heaters, under a very heavy demand. The fire-place however still holds its own, and no amount of improvements in designs or appearance of heaters will ever eradicate this old-fashioned method of heating.

ACCORDING to statistics given by the German Bureau of Statistics at Berlin, the United States employs more horse-power in stationary steam engines than any other country; the amount being placed at 7,500,000. England comes next with 7,000,000. Germany employs 4,500,000 horse-power, while France has only 3,000,000. Australia uses but 1,500,000 horse-power. Four-fifths of the steam engines now in use throughout the world have been constructed during the last twenty-five years. The total amount of horse-power employed in the world is said to be 46,000,000, 3,000,000 of which is in locomotives.

THE Second Session of the National Association of Builders will be held in Cincinnati on the second Tuesday in next February. Among the questions to be considered, and for which careful preparation is being made, are, the united action of builders and architects where their interests demand it, a new method of dealing with labor. A permanent plan for arbitration is to be submitted for action. The third question to be discussed will be "Rules for the protection of builders in estimating work." The secretary has issued a blank to be filled up by the various building exchanges, to show the hours of labor in all branches of the building trades, pay in the spring per hour and pay per hour in the summer, with notes as to strikes, lockouts, etc.

MR. AUCHMUTY, who is deeply interested in New York Trade Schools, who has taught over one thousand young men in New York how to earn their living in trades, says, that no "proper plan" can be devised which will do to follow in the instruction of young men, but that daily practical experience is the only one to go by. Trade School boys now do excellent work in nearly all trades in that city. The Silversmiths' and Plumbers' trade schools are doing very well, and the success of these and the confidence in the general system all lead to the extension of the trades school system.

LEGAL proceedings were instituted sometime since to have Second street, from Cambria to Rising Sun lane, freed from tolls. The Philadelphia and Newtown and New York Railroad Company went into the court to have the citizens restrained from proceedings in the Quarter Sessions, but the Court of Common Pleas has refused to enjoin the proceedings and dismissed the railroad company's bill. The case will now go on regularly in the Quarter Sessions.

THE removal of Merchant & Co. to their new quarters was made the occasion, by a number of the employes, to present to the senior member of the firm a very artistic and beautifully executed brochure, as a souvenir of the event. This speaks well for the relationship existing between employer and employed, and "at once accounts for the harmony of interests, and the successful career of the house."

CONSIDERING the lateness of the season, there is a liberal amount of building being projected. Several plots of ground are being looked at with a view of purchasing on which to build next year. The Southern and Northwestern sections will monopolize the bulk of operations in the way of small houses. The builders of small houses in the Southern section of the city are quite pleased with the disposition of their properties so far.

ACTIVE steps are being taken to bring about a consolidation of the various architectural organizations of the United States.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, DEC. 19, 1887.

RETAILERS in nearly all branches of trade, while admitting that business is good, say collections are bad. This complaint seems to be well made. For some reason or other there is a scarcity of money among the people in retail channels, while among the banks and larger money loaning institutions there is a reported abundance at a low rate of interest. The reason for this condition of things is not apparent, although some explanations have been given which do not explain. There is no occasion for creating alarm in regard to business prospects for the coming year. If there are any vicious agencies at work, they are far beneath the surface. Railroad earnings are large and show a marked increase by the month, and for a series of months this year over the same month and series of months last year. The figures of 101 roads, which have been widely published, show that for eleven months this year, the increase in gross earnings has been over thirty-five million dollars in excess of the earnings of same time last year. Tables of traffic from railroads all over the country indicate a rapid and general increase. This shows that the industries are not suffering, and the limited number of failures show that the great bulk of business is being done at legitimate margins. The orders of machinery manufacturers and makers of material and products of all kinds show that the producing capacity of the country is still heavy, and that there are no present indications of a weakening tendency. At the same time, rumors are heard and predictions are made that 1888 will bring all this healthful prosperity to a sudden termination. Under some circumstances the position taken by the President of the United States, in regard to the tariff duties, would have a most serious effect upon trade, but the President's message was discounted in all trade and manufacturing circles within forty-eight hours after it was made public. Business is on even a stronger foundation now than then. If a reason was to be sought for, it might be found to be this, that the expressions of opinion from manufacturers and business men, as well as bankers and railroad men in all parts of the country, show, on the surface, at least, the confidence that there will be no material lessening of tariff duties, and very little, if any interference, with the fiscal or economic legislation. Congress may, however, have a mind of its own, and political and other considerations may drive it into legislation of a character that will not meet with the approval of the people. So far as expressions have been made they show that the people do not fear any reaction, and that the present conditions will continue for an indefinite time. The iron trade, which is a very good barometer, shows an increase in pig iron output within a year from 123,284 tons per week to 141,760 tons per week. The lumber manufacturers have sold nearly all their products South and North, and are preparing for a heavier cut in view of what they believe will prove to be a heavier demand next spring. The pipe makers are preparing for a very heavy output. The manufacturers of builders' hardware have closed the season with moderate stocks and they entertain bright prospects for the future. The coal trade East and West is strong and active, and no depression in prices is looked for except in the return of anthracite quotations to the normal level. The makers of machinery for steam, electric, hydraulic, mining and agricultural purposes have more work in their shops and on their books now than they have had perhaps for two years. This fact taken by itself means a great deal. It puts aside the assertion often made that we are once more rushing into over-production. Perhaps we are on that road, but the crisis is still a long way off. The building of railroads throughout the country within the past two or three years has opened up so much new and valuable territory that the people in the overcrowded East, if it is overcrowded, are finding more abundant opportunities and attractions in these new regions where their labor and capital are meeting with better returns. This scattering of the people is a strong feature. It shows that the great factors are equalizing themselves. Cereals have advanced in price, as all know. Cotton is strong and advancing. Cotton goods mills are quite busy, and prices have advanced several times since September first. The market for dry goods, boots and shoes, and clothing, and the market for all personal requirements has been steadily increasing month by month. This shows that people have money to buy, and have labor out of which to earn sufficient to keep the wheels of trade moving slowly.

There may be troubles in store for us in regard to our fiscal system; there may be severe tariff reductions made; a scarcity of money may develop itself in consequence of the extraordinary investments of capital during the past year or two. A dozen unknown evils will possibly raise their heads to frighten enterprise, but if these evils are being forged to strike us, the evidence of their existence is not apparent to the most careful observers and thinkers.

A LARGER amount of brick will be made in this city than usual. The output next year will probably be increased ten per cent., or, at least, facilities will be provided to do so. As to the probable prices for the coming year, it is a little too soon to say; builders will soon negotiate, some have done so already. At present writing, it does not seem very likely that lower rates will be named. The brick workmen have not as yet indicated the policy they will likely pursue, but manufacturers think there will be no serious trouble. The builders throughout the city are preparing for an active year, and it is not likely they are walking in the dark. The renting and selling of houses this year has been very satisfactory to investing interests. There are fewer empty houses at this time than usual. The street car companies have been very prompt in extending facilities to outlying traffic. The city authorities have been prompt to grade and pave streets in the suburbs, and this has had a good deal of weight in inducing builders to purchase land and extend operations. The possibility of utilizing electricity as a car motor is near at hand. Improved methods of travel will no doubt force their way.

TAKING a bird's eye view of the present conditions throughout the United States, there is every reason for satisfaction. Builders in both Eastern and Western cities are preparing for heavy work. There is an abundance of capital seeking investment in bricks and mortar, and, so far as the supply is concerned, there will be no delay. The country is in a healthy and vigorous condition. Business is abundant, work is constant, prosperity is general, and apparently it is safe to say that building will be undertaken next year upon as large a scale as it was undertaken last year.

The following letters have been sent to us in relation to our comment upon the omission of the architects Hazlehurst & Huckel's name to an article that appeared in The Press, on December 10th, describing the Manufacturers' Club's new building:

Office of GEORGE T. PEARSON,
427 Walnut Street,
PHILADELPHIA, December 16th, 1887.
JOHN N. GALLAGHER, Esq.,
Real Estate Record and Builders' Guide,
727 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

DEAR SIR:

I notice in your last issue an item as to the unfair treatment received by a firm of Architects in connection with a description and cut of a building furnished the "Press."

I think your remarks on the subject express a comment which should be very well made on the omission to duly credit such favors as the preparation of this matter, and I would also say that I have been treated the same way myself after taking pains to make sketch and write description, and then be very unceremoniously dismissed without even mention.

I think it would be a good plan for Architects to refuse to submit any information to this paper, as I have been doing and shall continue to do. I do not think any Architect who can attain a greatness sufficient to have their works mentioned in The Press, need depend upon what apparent advertising would be done by the mention of their names, but it seems to me only a just courtesy to extend for the giving of what is to the busy Architect, an article which requires time and thought in the preparation.

Yours etc.,

GEORGE T. PEARSON,
Architect.

MR. JOHN N. GALLAGHER,
Real Estate Record and Builders' Guide,
727 Walnut St., Philadelphia.

DEAR SIR:

Having noticed in the Press of December 10th, a description of the Manufacturers' Club without referring in any way to the firm of architects, who I am sure gave the same to the above papers; would say that I was pleased to see that your paper noticed the omission and think, as I do that an architect's name should be mentioned in connection with a description of any building on which he has given time and thought in preparing. It is, however, the treatment received by many architects from the Press. It is not just; we have submitted to it long enough; until they consent to respect our rights. I think it would be well for architects to refuse giving any points regarding their work to any journalist connected with that paper. Thanking you for the interest you have taken in this matter, I am

Yours truly,

HARRISON ALBRIGHT,
Architect.

PHILADELPHIA, December 17th, 1887.

EDITOR REAL ESTATE RECORD.

DEAR SIR:

We are very glad to notice that, in your issue of December 12, you call attention to a not at all common neglect on the part of the daily press in treating of building matters. Over and over again we have hunted through descriptions of new and important buildings that appear from time to time in the newspapers; and though the contractor, the bricklayer and the stonemason may be mentioned, never, unless by some unlooked-for accident, have we discovered the name of the architect. And even though the article may contain a cut, furnished doubtless by the courtesy of the "Knight of the T Square," the name of the designer is carefully suppressed. On any one wonder then, that knowing the manner in which they will be treated, architects are not more willing to give information to newspaper men than they at present seem to be.

Hoping you may push this matter until justice is done as a rule, and not as an exception,

We are,

Yours respectfully,

BROWN & DAY.

EDITOR OF THE REAL ESTATE RECORD.

DEAR SIR:

In your issue of December 12th you refer to the omission of Architects' names in articles written by them for the newspapers.

I endorse your sentiments. Repeatedly have I been interviewed by representatives of the several papers in this city, have taken time and pains to give them a clear account of different structures under my charge. When the article was published all mention of the Architect was omitted. Trusting that you will continue promulgation of like sentiments, I am yours,

ANGUS S. WADE.

DEAR SIR:

I notice in your last issue an editorial referring to the Press article which did not give certain architects credit for the design of a special article which that paper reported. In my opinion it is but fair to give credit to any architect whose plans or designs may be thus described, and he should be credited with the same, whether the plans or buildings be good or bad.

E. N. THORNE.

DEAR SIR:

THE REAL ESTATE RECORD seems to have entered on a long neglected field, in regard to the omitting of architects' names, in publishing accounts of Building Operations in our daily papers. It is of vital importance that the public should become familiar with the characteristic work of our architects, whether they be worthy of copy or not.

BUILDERS' ITEMS.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

H. C. Himes, the grocer, on Main street, Germantown, will alter and improve his dwelling and erect a new stable shortly.

The barrel factory of W. G. Pennypacker, twenty-third and Washington avenue, recently destroyed by fire, will be rebuilt at once.

A fund is being raised for the purpose of securing a suitable steam heating apparatus for St. Theresa's Catholic Church, at Broad and Catharine streets.

J. W. Carson has purchased a quantity of ground at the eastern end of South street bridge for $35,000, the entire plot will be built upon in the spring.

The committee on plans and improvements of the Park Commission have approved the plans and specifications for a building for public comfort, to be erected on Elm, near Belmont avenue.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company have purchased the properties 16 North Seventeenth street for $45,000; 2203 Filbert street, $2,200; 2109 Filbert street for $2,500; and 1721 Market street for $30,000.

William H. Bruner, Adams and Duval streets, Germantown, has the contract for the parsonage of Zion Evangelical Church, to be built Rittenhouse near Green street, that place. The cost will be about $3,000.

W. G. Serrill has purchased from Mrs. Elizabeth Shaffer an irregular-shaped piece of ground at Seventeenth and Susquehanna avenue. This is the second large purchase made by this builder this week.

There is some talk of establishing a bank and saving fund institution at Tacony. It is a wonder that the scheme was not suggested long ago, for notwithstanding the large business interests, there has never been a bank of any kind in this place.

The German Evangelical Reformed Emanuel Church of Bridesburg, has purchased a piece of ground on the North side of Wiser street North-west of Thompson, from A Schroder and others for a nominal consideration, the lot is 16x 119 feet.

John S. Serrill has purchased from Holstein DeHaven, 617 Walnut street, a lot of ground on the north side of Dauphin street, between Bodine and Third streets. The dimensions are 114 feet 3 inches by 150 feet. Mr. Serrill will build there.

At Chestnut Hill, Mr. A. N. Elliott doing business at 526 and 528 North street, between Market and Arch streets this city, will erect a handsome cottage residence on Chestnut Avenue. The lot is 100 x 185 feet. No plans have been submitted yet, though Mr. J. C. Worthington, architect, has been invited to prepare them.

J. Gibson McIlvain, 3401 Market street, has two houses nearly completed at Angora. The tract on which these houses are being built contains thirty-seven acres and in the spring a large number of houses will be erected upon it. They will be unique and tasteful costing about $5,000. The lot is located at Fifty-seventh and Baltimore avenue.

W. S. P. Shields, whose office is in the Ledger Building, is about to break ground for a large number of houses to be built on Woodland avenue, between Forty-sixth street and the P. W. & B. Railroad, and also on Forty-sixth street. The lots will be 25x85 and 16x60. The tract comprises four acres, and was purchased from Edward Shippen and W. B. Roberts. The price paid was $36,000. Mr. Shields intends building very ornamental brick houses, with stone trimmings and all modern improvements.

Thomas Aikens, of Berwyn, Pa., has sold to Charles Jones, of Paoli, a tract of land, containing about three acres, at the former place. After the agreement had been signed, it was discovered that Mr. Jones was only the agent for the Roman Catholic Church at Villanova, who are going to establish a branch church at Berwyn. It is supposed that a handsome stone edifice will be erected, together with a parochial residence. No decided statement can be made for a time, as there may be legal proceedings taken to recover the property, as the former owners say that the agent stated that the ground was wanted for two residences. Their chief objection to having the church is that a cemetery will be laid out, and this they fear will depreciate the value of adjoining land.

Architects' Notes.

William Burns, architect and contractor, residing at Berwyn, will build a frame house for Samuel Kromer, station agent at that place; also a new house near Glasby's School-house.

William Gette, 404 Crown street, has finished the plans for the German Society's building at the Northwest corner of Marshall and Spring Garden streets, (before reported). It will be two stories high, of stone, surmounted by a cupola.

Frank R. Watson, 518 Walnut street, is working on the plans for the new school-house for St. Stephen's Roman Catholic Church at Nicetown. The school will be situated on a lot next to the pastoral residence. Plans are in a too immature state to make further report.

Charles N. Thorpe president of the Keystone Watch Case Company, Nineteenth and Brown streets, will build several houses between Devon and Berwyn stations, on the P. R. R., in the spring. Probably Mr. Thorpe will also build the residence designed by Culver & Rogers, Ninth and Walnut streets, in the early part of this year.

Brian & Godwin, 1413 Filbert street, are working on the plans for the alteration of the building 626 Market street, to be occupied by the Philadelphia Cloak and Suit Company. The alterations are to be extensive. A new system of steam heating, as well as an extensive electric lighting system, will be introduced. The same architects will put up in the spring a number of two-story ornamental dwellings in West Philadelphia, the cost to be in the neighborhood of $2,500. The houses will have a frontage of 14 feet. The lot is 190 feet on the front. They have in contemplation thirty-two two-story dwellings, of about the same construction, to be built in Kensington some time in the early part of next year.

John J. Deery, 328 Walnut street, has nearly completed the Cemetery of the Most Holy Redeemer, in Richmond, this city. Slag walks, cement pavements and McAdamized roads have been made, the lots are all divided by narrow and low curbs, and each lot is separated and the numbers stamped upon them. No railings or other copings will be allowed, though lot-holders may erect any monument they may choose. These precautions will give the place the appearance of a park. All of the buildings are of stone, low set, and treated in modern Romanesque architecture. The cost will be over $100,000. Mr. Deery is also about completing the school-house at Bristol, Pa., which will be ready for occupancy about January 1st. The cost is estimated at $30,000. St. Michael's Church (before reported), at Second and Jefferson, is receiving the interior finish, and will be completed about Easter. Cost, $40,000.

Moses & King, 226 Walnut street, are working on the drawings for the alteration of Dr. J. S. Snitcher's dwelling at 315 Broadway, Camden, N. J. The cost will be about $3000. Work will go on in the spring. The competition for the Baltimore Storage and Warehouse Company's new building, to be erected in Baltimore, was awarded to this firm. The plans call for a ten-story building, built of Baltimore grey stone to the height of the second story, the balance of the structure to be National brick with terra-cotta wings. The frontage will be 52 feet, the depth, 260 feet, and the height, 132 feet to the top of the finial. The front of the building will be used for offices, and the rear for storage purposes. The same gentlemen have on the boards a house for C. P. Spangler, at Merchantville, N. J., to cost $5000. This house will be held over until early next year. The pavilion for the Boston Base Ball Club is well under way. The mason work is nearing completion and is ready for the iron superstructure and rafters. The interior will be finished with natural woods. About May 1st will see the entire operation complete.

THE PHILADELPHIA Real Estate Record AND BUILDERS' GUIDE.

[ENTERED AT THE PHILADELPHIA POST OFFICE AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.]

VOL. II.—No. 51.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1887.

The Real Estate Exchange.

The first annual meeting of the stockholders of the Real Estate Exchange took place on Monday, December the 19th instant. The President, Mr. George W. Hancock, presented the first annual report of the Board of Directors for the fiscal year ending November 30th. The report was a lengthy one and contained much interesting and valuable information.

Limited space will not admit of its presentation in full but the following points will be of interest to our readers.

The Exchange was formally opened for the transaction of business at 435 Chestnut street, on the 14th day of April, 1887, and the event was made enjoyable by the presence of many of Philadelphia's most distinguished citizens; the opening was hailed in general tones of welcome, and hearty and earnest wishes for its success by both the Press and Public.

The first public sale of real estate, stocks, bonds, etc., took place on the 25th of the same month. And this event clearly demonstrated the capability of the men at the head of the institution and their business energy in placing its benefits quickly before the public without delay or circumlocution. Sales since that time have been held almost uninterruptedly on every Monday on each week. More than two-and-one-quarter millions of dollars worth of property has been offered at these sales, a large proportion of which was sold; but the strong feature of these sales was the bringing together, through the instrumentality of the Exchange, of the owners and subsequent purchasers of a large number of properties which would, doubtless have remained unsold had it not been for the kindly interest of the members; and it is this feature which practically makes of the Real Estate and business interests of this city, but it expresses the wealth of influence and power such an institution can possess where its membership is earnestly acting in harmony to the benefit and interest of both owner and purchaser.

On November 1st, the Exchange removed to its new quarters, 531 Chestnut street, thereby obtaining even more advantages at a greatly reduced yearly rental.

The acquisition to the Exchange of the services of Mr. F. A. Pennington as Superintendent infused even more life into the institution, and it was not long before his experienced mind and practical business methods made themselves felt in all the ramifications of its business interests, and to its greater popularity and pecuniary benefit; and the compliment paid Mr. Pennington by the Board of Directors in its report was justly earned through his tireless energy and faithful services.

As a daily rendezvous for real estate men the rooms of the Exchange have become very popular and its patronage is not confined to members alone, for a most cordial welcome is extended to all the members of the craft, many of whom after enjoying the advantages the rooms offer in the shape of maps, charts and information difficult to obtain elsewhere soon become impressed with the value of a membership in such an institution and ask to be enrolled as members.

The report very sensibly touches upon the future usefulness of the Exchange in shaping legislation upon both municipal and State matters, the development of municipal improvements, the equalization of taxes, and in making itself felt through its influence and the experience of its members in promoting the interests of the general public.

The introduction of a system of daily bulletins of wants and offers, to rent, and for sale, has already been of incalculable value to the public, and must command even a larger share of patronage as soon as it becomes generally known that this bulletin represents an aggregation of information of this nature, taken from the books of over a hundred reputable and responsible real estate brokers and agents having their offices in different parts of the city, a perusal of which being equal to a visit to each office to the great saving in time, labor and trouble to those in quest of houses either for rent or for sale.

Thus it will be seen that in a single year the Real Estate Exchange has not only been permanently established, but its influences have been felt in promoting harmony and usefulness in a business interest involving many billions of dollars in a single city. The following gentlemen were elected officers and directors for the ensuing year: President, George W. Hancock; First Vice President, Samuel T. Fox; Second Vice President, James H. Stevenson; Treasurer, R. M. Hartley; Secretary, James L. Stevenson; Superintendent, F. A. Pennington; Directors, George W. Hancock, Samuel T. Fox, James H. Stevenson, Elwood Becker, Benjamin F. Refers with permission to William M. Slingerly,
Proprietor of Phila. "Record."

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, DEC. 26, 1887.

Our leading architects are giving a favorable account of next spring's building prospects.

Our Building and Loan Associations are still holding their own, and in the west they are steadily increasing in number and importance.

DIRECTOR WAGNER's order increasing the price of coke, like its counterpart, Director Stokely's order regulating the display and sale of Christmas trees, have lessened the Christmas joys of many and cast a chilly blight upon many a humble home.

It is probable that a great deal of alteration and new building will be done in some of our old streets between Fourth and Broad. Allan H. Reed proposes to make a start on Pine street, between Seventeenth and Eighteenth. The alteration of fronts ought to go on. Property could be greatly increased in value on Locust, Spruce and Pine. With all that is to be said in favor of rural residence, these streets have advantages which cannot be found in any other sections of the city or suburbs. Property in this locality has been at a standstill for some time. Beyond Broad it is improving, but will soon reach its limit.

ARCHITECTS are recognizing the fact that too many large buildings are filled up with huge masses of material that serve no very good purpose. There is too much following of old precedents and customs even yet. Useless masses of material shut out light and air and take up valuable room. Many of our office buildings are constructed under the idea that the next door neighbors are burglars who must be guarded against by thick brick or stone walls. There is a vast waste of material that would be far better in the clay bank or stone quarry. If it must be dug out and used, it should be used to better purpose than to fill up valuable space in the centres of our cities where space is so scarce.

AN eminent architect of this city very recently asserted that the members of his profession were becoming more unwilling to make sketches and designs for churches and church buildings. Investigation proves that this feeling very largely exists among the profession at the present time. It arises from the unbusiness-like treatment, the average architect anticipates when he enters into the work of churches. First, the minister must be satisfied, then the building committee must be wrestled with, then the congregation collectively, and the congregation individually, then the principal contributors must have a sitting or two, in fact the whole institution must be hob-nobbed to from the parson to the sexton. This herculean task accomplished, and the work commenced, stoppages are next in order, and occur with stereotyped regularity, owing to a depleted condition of the building fund, the work completed, the bill presented, he is coolly asked to contribute all or part of his well-earned fee to help the church, and very frequently he is given to understand that his liberality will insure the continued patronage and influence of the congregation. The first of these difficulties cannot be easily overcome, but there is no justice after the work is completed, either in expecting or compelling an architect to contribute his time and skill and services. The methods adopted in some cases are very little short of a mild form of blackmail. Cases have been presented to us where builders themselves have been compelled to pay the cost of erection, and others where the architect has never received a penny of compensation. The sooner church building committees learn to adopt common business principles and live up to them, the better it will be for the cause of the Christian religion and its growth and prosperity.

THOSE who are familiar with real estate operations in a dozen or more towns within thirty to forty miles of Philadelphia, remark the greater activity of real estate, for both building and manufacturing purposes, this year. Operations of considerable magnitude are now in hand, and, if everything goes right—that is, if there is no stringency in money, no general falling off in demand, or no depression to shake confidence in a permanent industrial activity—there will be some large sales of property made for manufacturing concerns connected with Philadelphia industries. A good many sites have been looked at in the Schuylkill Valley. If some Delaware river obstructions could be removed, a number of manufacturing sites would be picked up along the Delaware river between here and Marcus Hook. Real estate dealers consider the prices at which properties in these localities are held are quite reasonable. The reason for this is that a large number of offerings are made, and this fact stimulates a healthy competition. Quite a number of sites have been recently looked at along the upper Delaware, and present probabilities are that by the opening of spring a good deal of ground will be broken for manufacturing enterprises not yet known to the general public. The two factors to be chiefly considered are fuel and freights. Another offsetting factor to some otherwise desirable localities is the absence of permanent houses, or small houses.

In certain places land can be had at a reasonable price. The railroads are willing to put in sidings, obtained cheaply, and other improvements, but there are no house-builders, and manufacturers do not undertake to build houses for them. Then there are a great many workmen who prefer to accept lower wages and pay higher rents in the city. A good many small manufacturers would get out at once, and would have done so long ago, if the way had been opened or was opened to them. As it is, there are scores upon scores of them paying high rent in Kensington, and in other sections through the city, in second, third and fourth stories, who could do better if they were five miles farther out, but the getting there is the problem. This is a matter which might occupy some attention of men of money who do not see good opportunities at present for investment. There are hundreds of little manufacturers who would gladly remove if they could buy space, power, coal, and house room for employees within five to ten miles of the city.

THE appropriations for 1888 call for $14,794,177, an increase of $1,462,621, exclusive of street cleaning which item calls for $428,000. The item of fire and fire escapes will take $643,455; gas, $3,319,156; water, $1,131,588; education, $2,328,722; public buildings, $525,000. It is proposed to expend $250,000 next year in school houses and lots.

We are indebted to Messrs. Merchant & Co., of 517 Arch street, for their calendar for 1888. It is a happy combination of warm colors, expressing the leading articles of merchandise the house deals in, a specimen of each being grouped with artistic care on a full sized box of "Gilbertson's Old Method," with the weight and guarantee stamped in plain figures and letters just as every box of their celebrated roofing plates are stamped. Every feature of the calendar expresses the solidity of the house and its reliability for calendars as well as roofing plates.

—At Harrisburg, Pa., as a result of the passage of Councils' bill to tear down the old market sheds, Messrs. Augustus Gohl, George Bell, Michael McCloskey, William A. Croft, Edward Boyer, Charles S. Sögelbahn and others have formed a stock company to erect a large new market house.

—At Wilmington, Del., the trustees of the Olivet Presbyterian church, Chestnut and Adams streets, have purchased the lot at the southwest corner of Fourth and Broome streets, for a church site. The lot is 80 by 140 feet. A new church will be erected when sufficient funds are secured for the purpose. Rev. E. D. Newberry, the pastor, can give information.

—At Titusville (P. O. town), Crawford Co., Pa., a meeting was recently held in regard to the proposed new High School building before reported. Strong opposition has expressed itself as against a new high school building, but favoring important improvements to the present old building and the erection of several branch school buildings. A popular vote was taken several months ago upon the question of a new High School building, when it was decided to erect one and with that aim bonds were to be issued. Mr. H. S. Bates, who opposes the new building, can give information.

—At Pittsburg, Pa., the question of making the new B. & O. R. R. Depot now being erected a union depot is talked of, while on the other hand it is stated that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will certainly build a depot at Grant and Seventh avenues, and that the plans and details have been made and await the approval of the Company. The work of extending the present depot—before reported—has been commenced. Work on the new B. & O. depot has been suspended for the winter. At same place Harry Williams has recently interviewed Architect McElfatrick, the theatrical architect of Chicago, as to plans and details for a new theatre which Williams says he intends to erect in Pittsburg next year.

—At Wilkesbarre, Pa., the plans and specifications submitted by Contractor W. H. Shepherd for the Historical Society's new building have been accepted; the following committee have been appointed, with full power to act in the erection of the building: A. T. McClintock, R. D. Lacey, Major C. R. Conyngham, Dr. C. F. Ingham. The new building will not be started until spring. At same place the Board of Trade has appointed a committee to petition Congress for an appropriation sufficient to erect a suitable government building in that city. At same place Messrs. Dow & Young, owners of the Star Laundry, are building an extension to their present building, and will, as soon as it is completed, erect a new front brick building. Kipp & Podmore, Wilkesbarre, are the architects.

—At Pittsburg, Pa., Dr. Hostetter has just purchased a plot of land at the south side, having a frontage of 80 feet on Carson street and extending back 1000 feet to the river. The price paid was $80,000. This last purchase, together with a previous purchase, gives Dr. Hostetter the control of the entire block. It is claimed that the purchase was made in the interest of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie Railroad Company, for increased terminal facilities. Nothing has yet developed that would indicate what buildings are to be erected on this land. At all events, nothing will be done this winter except deciding upon plans for the future. The new depot for this road (before reported) has not been decided upon, yet it is intimated that the structure will be a very handsome one, if built. At same place the question of improving the Diamond Markets is still being discussed. The proposition now is to throw an immense glass and iron arched roof over the street and connect the second stories of the two markets with a bridge.

BUILDERS' ITEMS.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

Dr. Agnew will build several very ornamental houses at Bryn Mawr, next spring.

At Holmesburg the new Episcopal rectory will be built at the corner of Main and Decatur streets.

C. C. Harrison, with a syndicate, has purchased the Mariners' Bethel on Bainbridge street, East of Penn, for $10,000.

Simon J. Kohn, of the firm of Kohn, Adler & Co., has purchased the property, 1523 North Eighth street, for $10,500. The house will undergo extensive alterations.

A plan will be submitted to the building committee of the University of Pennsylvania for the addition of a dormitory to that institution. The idea is approved by Dean Kendall.

The old brew house formerly owned by Nelson V. Brewer, at Twenty-ninth and Thompson streets has been purchased by Charles Theis, who will convert it into an extensive malt house, costing $100,000.

The lots 1721 and 1723 Pine streets have been purchased by Alan H. Reed, of the firm of Jacob Reed's Sons. Mr. Reed intends to erect two very handsome houses in the spring. The ground cost $17,000.

The Merchant Club intends to erect a new building, to cost in the neighborhood of $200,000 dollars. The present quarters of the club are on Seventh street, below Poplar. Benjamin F. Teller is the secretary.

The lot on Little Tacony Creek, near Church and Oxford streets, Twenty-third ward, has been sold to the Berkshire Manufacturing Company, who intend to erect a mill on that site. The ground contains about two and one-half acres, and cost $18,000, subject to a $30,000 mortgage.

It is rumored that C. A. Furbush, a member of the firm of M. A. Furbush & Son, Second and Markets streets, contemplates the erection of a six-story factory in the neighborhood of Eighth and Tasker streets, for the manufacture of a fine line of woolen dress goods. Work will not be commenced until about March 1st of next year.

The Northern Saving Fund, at Sixth and Spring Garden streets has purchased the adjoining property on Sixth street from Dr. A. C. Bournonville for $25,000. It is the intention of the bank to use this new purchase to make a much-needed addition to their present building, as their constantly increasing business makes the banking facilities inadequate.

At Wisnominig a new hall is to be erected, lot 177 having been donated by the Wisnominig Land and Improvement Association for that purpose. An association, to be known as the Wisnominig Hall Association, has been organized. Henry J. John, president; A. L. Sanen, secretary. A schoolhouse is to be erected by the same parties.

F. J. Firth has purchased the Union Methodist church property on the West side of Fourth street, below Arch. The price paid was $40,000. It is the intention of the purchaser to erect a five-story building there. In the purchase was included a four-story store fronting on Fourth street, and a small building in the rear. The frontage is 47 feet and the depth 200 feet, the width of the rear end of the lot is 68 feet.

Wendell & Smith report that the Haverford College operation on Lancaster pike, near the station, is all finished except the work required in seeding and fixing walks. They have built fifteen houses, ranging in price from $6,800 to $75,00, all of which have been sold except one. The bored well and pumping apparatus is a success. They have started thirteen houses on land bought from Drexel & Childs, at Wayne, and have sold seven. As an instance showing their rapidity of building, the occupant was living in his house within one hundred days from the time the surveyor went on the ground.

Edward J. Paxton, 735 Walnut street, who negotiated the sale of the Union M. E. church on Fourth, below Arch street, reports that the purchaser, F. A. Firth, intends fitting up the basement of the church building for the use of the Novelty Electric Co., now at Fifth and Locust streets, and extensive alterations will be made. This sale will enable the church to go ahead in the spring with their projected new church building at Woodstock and Diamond streets, where they own a lot having a frontage of 120 feet on Diamond street and a depth of 108 on Woodstock and Lambert streets.

Architects' Notes.

John J. Deery was the architect for the pavilion for the base ball club of Boston. By an error in the make-up of the paper last week appeared otherwise.

Enos Williamson, of Cape May, has submitted plans for the new hotel to be built at that place by the Mount Vernon Land Association. The hotel is to cost $10,000, and will be ready for next season's business. No plans have been accepted as the company are anxious to secure the best plans obtainable.

E. F. Bertolette, 20 South Broad street, has made preliminary sketches for a two-story police station. The construction will be of brick with rock face finish base. The interior will be fitted up for a council chamber and clerk's offices. Definite information will be given later.

J. H. Windrim, 132 S. Third street, reports that they have a large amount of work on hand for next year and that the season will be excellent. Much of their work is not in condition to report. Two very handsome houses will go from their office to be built on Pine street, near Seventeenth. The fronts will be twenty-one feet and be built of brick, terra cotta and stone. The cost will be about $20,000 each.

August S. Wade, 20 South Broad street has made the plans for the alteration of William L. Elkin's house, at Old York Road Station, on the North Penn Railroad. The house was formerly owned by William Mitchiner. The interior will be completely remodelled. New bath rooms, with all the latest appliances and dressing rooms will be added. In the rear a new story will be built for the use of the servants. The old roof will be removed and a new one with projecting gables, oriel windows, balconies, ventilators, &c., will be substituted. A portion of the gables will be shingled, the balance of open timber work. New stone chimneys and a new stone porte-cochère will be built. Besides these improvements the rooms will be handsomely decorated.

The Grace Baptist Church will probably commence work on their new building in the spring. The plans submitted by Thomas P. Lonsdale, 429 Walnut street, have been accepted. The fair recently held by them has netted a considerable sum of money, and together with what they have received from other sources practically solves the building question. The plans call for a structure 107 by 150 feet, the fronts on Broad and Berks streets to be of brown stone. There will be four entrances on the former street, and three on the latter. The auditorium will be of the amphitheatre style, sloping down from the front to the rear of the building where the pulpit will be located. Side galleries will be twenty-four feet deep and a rear gallery sixty feet in depth. The entire seating capacity will be four thousand two hundred, and the estimated cost of the house is $100,000. In the main Sunday-school-room, there is to be accommodation for about one thousand persons, and in the infant department provision is made for five hundred children. Apartments for social purposes are to be provided, including a ladies' parlor, a gentlemen's parlor, a large entertainment room, and a dining room one hundred feet long, besides a kitchen and smaller rooms.

T. Frank Miller, 615 Walnut street, has under his charge most of the architectural work done at Fort Washington, Pa. He predicts that much building will be done in the Spring. Two stables are to be built at the rear of the houses now in course of construction at that place for Charles Eneu Johnson, before reported. These stables will be frame, highly ornamented. Walter's cut tin shingles will be used. Mr. Miller has also a large amount of work at Jenkintown, Pa. W. E. Weber purchased the walls of an incomplete house at that place which is being finished from designs furnished by Mr. Miller. The house will be fitted up with all modern improvements such as porcelain bath tubs, tiled fire places, and tiled wainscoting in the vestibule and bath room, hard wood finish, and electric bells. PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, JANUARY 2, 1888.

PRICE 15 CENTS

Real Estate Men on a Lark—An Auction Sale That Caused a Great Deal of Merriment—Ellwood Becker in the Role of an Auctioneer.

The following announcement brought together at the rooms of the Real Estate Exchange a large number of invited guests, besides the members of the exchange, to witness perhaps the most unique sale of real (?) property ever offered in this city.

recent survey made thereof by the Committee

don't-ye-know-me's will be received.

No policy will be issued, as Stokley says—
"No Policy."

for the purchaser's account. All Liens, Mortgages, Decedent's Debts, Ground Rents, Gas Bills, Board of Health and other Sewerage and Mechanics' Claims will be swiped out by Daddy Time, with receipt in full.

For account of all Real Estate Men who have failed to make expenses during the past year, from whom further particulars can be obtained.

The proceedings were commenced by a pathetic dirge played by the Real Estate Exchange Band, with considerable vigor and little music, on instruments made of tin, celluloid, paper maché, etc., including three Italian artists with hand organs and monkeys. For fireworks, pop corn balls and oranges filled the air, to the sad dismay of a REAL ESTATE RECORD reporter, whose new Christmas tile presented the appearance of a Kansas tile after a cyclone, and to add still greater eclat to the occasion, one of the members swore out a warrant against the auctioneer, and Mr. Becker was accordingly arrested for officiating as an auctioneer without having procured a license.

The different lots were not sold for keeps, and the unlucky purchaser in each case was vigorously raided and compelled to disgorge.

LOT No. 1. A tray of Boutounieres was secured by the President, Mr. Geo W.
Hancock; it was labeled take one, and they were unceremoniously taken.

LOT No. 2. A box of toy balloons was knocked down to Mr. Joseph Teller, who unthinkingly cut their fastenings, when he was suddenly lifted to the ceiling;
he was with great difficulty rescued.

LOT No. 3. A box of tin horns was secured by Lewis T. Brooke.

LOT No. 4. A box of peanuts was purchased by Mr. Wood.

LOT No. 5. A live rabbit was bought by Messrs. Barr & Son,

LOT No. 6. A box of sour balls; Mr.
H. R. Lukens of the firm of Lukens &
Montgomery, was the happy purchaser.

LOT No. 7. A baby's outfit was bought by Wm. Albertson.

LOT No. 8. A live lame duck, by W.
H. James.

LOT No. 9. A box of Dutch smoked sausages was sold to Louis Wanner, the Sixth street plumber.

LOT No. 10. A box of torpedoes to Massey & Son.

LOT No. 11. A barrel of popcorn to
F. Craven.

LOT No. 12. A live Jack-rabbit to
Jas. H. Stevenson & Son.

LOT No. 13. A watch and chain, watch 21 inches in diameter, and the chain proportionately large, to A. G. Clay, the lawyer.

LOT No. 14. A Shanghai chicken to
G. W. Wagner.

LOT No. 15. A Tom Cat, was purchased by Mr. J. Murphy.

LOT No. 16. A live pig, went to the auctioneer, Mr. Becker.

The best of good feeling prevailed, and the members vied with each other to make the most out of the opportunity.
After the sale all were invited to an elaborate lunch, partaking of which and a happy New Year all around the assemblage separated, vowing that the festi-ties should be again repeated on a lar-scale at the end of 1888.

FIRE-proof building material is comin in quite general use in the larger and fine class of buildings in our larger cities. Fire ruins show that porous terra-cotta bricks and blocks best resist fire, water and frost; next to these in the order of fire resisting qualities come concretes and burned clay work. In the best work done, the iron work is encased in porous terra-cotta, tile or brick work in roof, floor and tile construction. The hollow tiles are faced with vitreous tile, slate or any good weather proof coating, or with a single thickness of brick. Iron and steel frame work encased in fire-proof materials gives the best possible results. There is a growing preference for light porous walls of hollow material protecting an iron or wooden frame work. Massive and heavy walls of brick or stone will do for architecture, but they are not as much of a mechanical necessity as they were regarded a few years ago.

THIS number completes the second volume of the REAL ESTATE RECORD. Parties desiring Volume No. 1 or Volume No. 2, can procure the same at this office at the regular price.

A few men of the Lee stripe in labor management will in a few days do more to destroy the power and usefulness of labor organizations than was accomplished by years of faithful toil by men like Stevens, Sylvis and Siney.

A perusal of the building permits granted throughout the country shows a steady increase even at this time of year in houses, stores, small mills and factories, grist and flour mills, besides ware-houses, banks and educational institutions. If we shut our eyes to newspaper predictions and read the permit lists we will have more confidence in next year's building activity.

It is rather strange to the non-architect that iron is not more generally used in building than it is. Of course iron columns in case of fire bring destruction to a building, and that may account for the prejudice or dislike against it. The answer which is made is that when fire comes all kinds of walls go. Some few architects are using iron much more liberally than heretofore, and it would not be surprising to see a departure from the heavy brick walls to the lighter walls which iron framework encased in concrete of some kind makes possible.

A 17x18 feet and 7 inches thick block of marble is to be used as a step in the new Drexel building.

LAST week's business, taking the aggregate of thirty-eight cities in the United States, was seventeen per cent. less than for the same week last year. Railroad earnings from one hundred and eighteen railroads for November, show an increase in gross earnings of twelve and six-tenths per cent. over November last year, and twenty and eight-tenths per cent. over November, 1885. The receipts of iron and steel from Great Britain for the past eleven months foot up one million two hundred and eleven thousand tons against seven hundred and twenty-five thousand tons for the same time last year, an increase of sixty-seven per cent. The number of failures last week was two hundred and sixty-four against three hundred and twelve for the same week last year. The total number so far this year is nine thousand four hundred and ninety-four, against ten thousand two hundred and thirteen for same time last year. Money is in good demand at all financial centres, and mercantile paper is scarce and difficult to place. The tonnage on trunk lines east of Chicago for the past week was sixty-eight thousand six hundred and five tons, an increase of five thousand six hundred and seventy-nine tons over the previous week. Facts like these show more clearly the strength and weakness of the commercial situation than any amount of commenting. The general trade conditions are fully as good at this time of year as they have been within recollection, even though there is a falling off in actual sales. This is explained by the fact that a great many dealers and traders have been buying liberally during the past sixty days, and are now pretty well loaded up with supplies that will last them from thirty to sixty days to come. There is a great degree of confidence in the permanency of prices for nearly all kinds of raw material and manufactured products. The country will have time to inform itself upon the relative merits of the proposed tariff reduction policy. Manufacturers, exporters, railroad managers, land owners and land speculators, and builders of houses and mills, will have plenty of time between this and next summer to study the most important question which has ever been presented to the American people in business matters. It is not likely that any mistake will be made. The coming question is not a political one although just at this time the political leaders are inclined to make it one. The business interest of the country will view the matter entirely from the dollar standpoint. It certainly costs too much to live in this country, and if wages are higher here, as they are, the increase is very largely due to the fact that the efficiency of American labor is so much greater than in foreign countries. The reformers in this field say that the cost of living can be reduced by cheaper raw material without doing any real harm to labor or laborers. This is the question, and it will receive more intelligent consideration than it has ever yet received. The working men of the country will be called upon to consider it from the bread and butter standpoint.

Nothing has as yet occurred to call for any modification of opinions heretofore expressed or conclusions arrived at. An immense amount of enterprise is formulating methods of activity for 1888. A vast amount of building will be done covering railroad, house, mill, shop and boat building. River and lake craft will probably be doubled during the next twelve months. There is an urgent demand for more coastwise tonnage, and so far as can be learned every shop from Bath to the Virginia boat-yards have contract work in hand for the coming three or four months. Our own Delaware river ship yards are certainly well supplied with work.

THE forestry people are constantly bewailing the disappearance of our forests, and yet hundreds of square miles of standing pine are found within twenty-four hours' ride of Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati and other cities. Builders need not begin to buy up lumber with a view of a scarcity of supply. The manufacturers of lumber, both north and south, are forming trade organizations in order to prevent an overstocking of the market. The supply of all kinds of lumber is larger now than it ever has been, and prices are likely to be as low as business existence will admit.

It would be interesting to know just how much effort our Philadelphia material men are making to obtain a share of the immense patronage almost all of the Southern States are now bestowing in the purchase of building material. Of course lumber, brick, and the cheap and heavy commodities can be secured nearer at home, but in hardware, elevators, ventilators, and hundreds of other articles, Philadelphia should supply a share at least. Northern money is now building up the Southern States, and there is no good reason why a large portion of it should not be reached by Philadelphia enterprise. Cheap transportation by sea to all of the southern coast towns gives our merchants an equal chance, at least, with those of western towns, and their influence and wares should be felt and seen from Texas to Maryland.

THERE seems to be a growing sentiment in favor of coast fortifications upon a large scale. A policy of this kind would certainly create an enormous demand for a large amount of construction and building material, as well as employ thousands of laborers who would otherwise remain idle.

Congressman Isaac Stevenson, of Wisconsin, is responsible for the statement that Secretary Vilas will recommend to Congress the erection of Government public buildings in all towns in the United States where the postal receipts are $3,000 a year, and good fire-proof brick buildings in towns of six thousand inhabitants, costing $8,000 each.

THE conditions under which electric lighting apparatus can be safely used ought to be familiar to all users of that form of lighting. The Boston insurers have investigated this question, and have issued a circular giving a great deal of valuable information upon that point. It enumerates about one hundred descriptions which should be familiar to at least those engaged in the business of electric lighting.

A new hydraulic cement, or rather substitute for it, bears a pressure of 15 pounds per square inch on a block one-half inch thick, after being soaked four months. It is made from hard burned, finely pulverised bricks, mixed with common lime and sand. It is good for culverts, drains, tanks and cisterns.

RURAL architecture is improving. The mere building of a house is only one-half of the work nowadays. The younger architects are giving a great deal of enthusiastic study to the production of as fine work as possible in rural and suburban house building, and they are being encouraged in their good work by liberality on the part of builders.

THE Municipal Government of New York is troubled with a question which happily does not assume serious proportions in Philadelphia, that of tenement house building. The Health Department of New York has an ugly and chronic problem on its hands, in the enforcement of a hygienic legislation and Board of Health rules. It is alleged that builders and speculators take a most unfair advantage of the inability of the Health Department to do their part in the enforcement of laws relating to tenements.

INTEREST in manual training schools is increasing. British manufacturers are recognizing the fact that the lack of technical education along with diminished hours of daily labor in factories, has been steadily depriving them of the advantages they have heretofore enjoyed in foreign markets. American manufacturing interests will see in this tendency an opening for an enlarging demand for American products in foreign markets. Anything which will develop our export trade in manufactured products cannot help but react favorably upon the multitude of little industries which draw their main support from the heavy construction requirements of this country.

THE fire demon has faithfully kept at work this year, and his showing for November is simply appalling. According to the New York Commercial Bulletin the fire loss for November of this year reached $16,003,975, or $6,000,000 more than for the same month of 1886. This is, with one exception, the heaviest loss for that month on record. It is calculated that the fire loss for 1887 will foot up the enormous sum of $130,000,000. Surely some effort ought to be made to stop this enormous waste.

A Wall street paper is authority for the statement that already enough buildings have been projected for the current year in New York City to cost $66,000,000, or $9,000,000 more than was spent during the year just closed. The best indications in Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis and some other cities are that extensive purchases have been made of real estate for building purposes and a number of extensive contracts have already been made for building material and supplies.

SOME foreign writer who is not very far astray recommends that architects should take a hand in the decorative art and in that way widen their field. The carrying out of this suggestion necessarily involves the formation of art schools. If this one step is taken, other steps naturally follow, such as education in structure. There is a demand for interior decoration which the planing mill manager and painter with his paint-pot can not satisfy. The growth of wealth in this country is steadily widening the field for finer and broader architectural skill.

If Vice-president Oakes of the Northern Pacific Railroad is reported correctly, he thinks that the north-west will not experience next year the same general prosperity in railroad building it has enjoyed during the present year, but he believes that general activity will be experienced throughout almost the entire South, as the rapid development of that part of the country, together with its wonderful resources and business enterprise, will necessitate increased railroad facilities, besides which the cheapness of steel rails will stimulate track laying in that section.

INSURANCE people talk a great deal about the growing necessity of checking the enormous fire wastes. The total waste of fire for 1887 is put at $130,156,400, against $116,600,000 for 1886. The necessity is certainly urgent. Architects are doing all they can in the utilization of every fire-preventing material that can be economically employed. It is to be noticed that the losses from fire do not include as large a percentage of our fire-proof buildings. The statistics of insurance companies show that the degree of risk is smaller, and the figures of our New England Insurance Company show on certain lines of building a decline in losses, but in others an increase in losses. The moral to be drawn is that fire-proof material must be used where it is not now used, and that it is a questionable economy to save a little money in a large class of buildings by constructing them regardless of fire-preventing requirements.

MR. P. M. BRUNER, a St. Louis engineer, says that the addition of salt to a concrete mixture would lower the freezing point one degree for one per cent. addition up to the point of saturation, and that it would also increase the tensile strength.

MR. LAWRENCE ought to push on in the good work of reducing the cost of electric lighting in the city from fifty-five cents to twenty-two cents. The Electric Lighting Companies ought to be satisfied with something less than one hundred and fifty per cent. profit. We will want a new Mayor some of these days, and the people will tip their hat to the man who looks out for their pockets.

It is surprising to see how careful some Councilmen are of the interests of Electric Light Companies. One would almost imagine that their grandmother's aunt had some stock in these companies. The Chief of the Electrical Bureau stated some of these men to their feet when he started through the President of Select Council that a $400,000 plant could furnish one thousand five hundred lights at the same price that the city now pays for five hundred. It costs Rochester 28 cents, Lancaster 35 cents, Columbia 19 cents and York 16 cents per electric light, but Philadelphia pays 55 cents and a lot of its Councilmen tear their hair when it is proposed to reduce the cost below that figure.

It is reported that a bill has been prepared by Congressman William Walter Phelps of New Jersey, for the reduction of the present rate of letter postage to one cent. This is not only a move in the right direction, but it is absolutely needed by the business interests of the country. Any fears as to a deficit arising, from such a reduction are of very little importance, for if such should be the case the amount, no matter how large, could well be spared for the present enormous revenue of the country, but the probabilities are that no deficit would exist, as the reduction would increase rather than diminish the postal revenue, notwithstanding the present deficit under the two cent rate.

THE German government has a laboratory for the testing of building materials. We have nothing of the kind, excepting two or three very powerful machines for testing iron and steel of large shapes. The Germans have brought out a new iron brick for paving purposes, composed of slate and clay finely ground, mixed with a little iron ore and moistened in its manufacture with 25 per cent. sulphate of iron. After it is pressed and dried in brick shape, it is dipped in a solution of sulphate of iron and iron ore, and then baked in an oven for forty-eight hours in an oxidizing flame and twenty-four hours in a reducing flame. So far, the work done is of an experimental character. If the brick answers the anticipated requirements it will create virtually a great German industry. If it works well there, it ought to be tried here, where we are following the primitive and crude methods of our ancestors.

Recent Decisions in Relation to Real Estate and Commercial Law.

DECIDED BY THE SUPREME COURT OF PENNSYLVANIA.

ACCOUNT:—In calculating interest in mutual accounts the interest is to be found to the date when the aggregate amount of repayments exceeded the interest, and the balance struck as the basis for the next calculation of interest, and so on.

MARR vs. MARR,
May 9, 1887.

DECEDENTS' ESTATES:—Under a gift in terms absolute of all the testators' estate, real, personal and mixed, to his wife, "to her sole and separate use, behoof and control forever," followed by the clause "It is also my desire and wish, after my wife's death, that my house and lot," describing the property, "shall go to my daughter," naming her, "for her sole and separate use during her natural life; and after her death the above said house and lot of ground shall revert and go to my son," naming him, "his heirs and assigns forever." The wife takes an estate for life, remainder to the daughter for life, remainder to the son in fee.

TAYLOR vs. MARTIN,
April 11, 1887.

A devise to T, without words of limitation, "and if he should die, leaving no lawful heirs, the whole to descend to his brothers and sisters, share and share alike, or to their legal representatives," vests a fee tail in T.

A tenant in tail who in due form executes, acknowledges, and on motion in open court, records, under the Act of January 16, 1799, a deed to bar the entail may by reconveyance from his grantee acquire the land in fee simple.

TITZELL vs. COCHRAN,
May 23, 1887.

INSURANCE:—If assessments are not much in excess of the amount actually required for payment of losses, the presumption is that the gross sum was properly laid, in view of the costs attending the collection of numerous small amounts, and the probable insolvency of the makers of some of the notes.

In such cases the burden of showing the assessments to be excessive is on the alleging party.

The assessment, however, may be so much in excess as to change the burden of proof.

The assured and the Directors are bound by the assessments made by them unless he can show fraud or gross mistake.

The liability of a member of a mutual company on his promissory note left as a deposit on the basis of an assessment depends upon the contingency of the happening of losses.

LEHIGH VALLEY INS. CO., vs. DRYFOOS,
April 25, 1887.

LANDLORD AND TENANT:—A clause in a lease—that in case of removal on the part of the lessee during the continuance of the lease, the whole rent unpaid shall "become due at once and payable and collectible, by distress or otherwise, at the option of the lessor"—does not in the absence of proof of fraudulent or clandestine removal of distrainable goods, authorize a distress of the lessee's goods off the premises.

OWENS vs. SHOVLIN,
May 16, 1887.

MORTGAGE:—An assignee of a mortgage for valuable consideration, without notice that the assignment from the mortgagee to the assignor was without consideration, being in settlement of oil margins is not affected by the defect.

A mortgagee, who upon sale of the property satisfies his mortgage in consideration of an assignment of an equal amount "out of the first moneys to become due and payable according to the terms of" the mortgage for a larger amount given for purchase money, is entitled to priority of payment under the residue of the sum secured by the mortgage.

THAYER'S APPEAL,
May 9, 1887.

All above cases can be found in 8, Ct. R.

F. R. SHATTUCK,
Attorney at Law,
58 S. Third street.

DURING the months of November and December permits were taken out for the following buildings:

Store and ware houses	11
Stables	27
Offices	5
Shops	12
Stores	18
Factories	7
Dye-houses	2
Two-story houses	382
Three-story houses	71
Alterations	132

One each of the following: Vat shed, hospital, brewery, church, engine and boiler house, and gas house.

This, together with our previous report, gives an aggregate for the whole year of 4,951 two-story houses, and 1,700 three-story houses. The total number of operations during the year was 9,004.

LOT BUYERS.

NOTE.—Many of these lots have been purchased for building purposes and it might pay to correspond with the purchasers.

Charles Kelly, of Chester, Pa., lot 46x120 feet, in Chester, Pa., $1,300.

J. J. Ryan, of South Chester, Pa., lot 40x140 feet on the corner Third and Lamokin streets, South Chester, $1,000.

Isaac F. Henderson, of Lower Chichester, lot 49x140 feet, in Lower Chichester, $200.

Isaac W. Stevens, a lot from the Sharon Hill Association, at Sharon Hill, $132.

Josephine C. Miller and Helen C. Bunting, of Philadelphia, lot in Bethel township, twenty acres, $20,000.

Annie E. Eachus, of Media, Pa., lot 20x140 feet on south side Washington street, same place, $560.

It is probable that Portland cement will be placed on the free list.

ACCORDING to the annual report (second part), of the Pennsylvania Geological Survey, the total production of oil in the Pennsylvania and New York oil fields down to the close of 1886, amounts to 310,218,505 barrels. It is estimated that 55,000 holes have been drilled in the two states.

WE are indebted to Mr. L. B. Ulmer, manager and superintendent of the Lawrence Cement Company, 715 N. Delaware avenue, for a very beautiful calendar for 1888. The engraving is a hunting scene, supported by two large handsome setter dogs reclining on a mound covered with straw. The work is beautifully executed, and is even a better Christmas present than the company's calendar of last year. Mr. Ulmer has our warmest thanks and best wishes for his kind thoughtfulness.

Messrs. Haines, Jones and Cadbury, with the view of increasing the efficiency of their employees, have adopted a method of co-operation between the firm and its working men which merits the consideration of other large establishments. A dividend of 7½ per cent. was on Saturday last declared to be due to each employee upon the sum total of his yearly wages. This sum in the aggregate amounted to $9,375, certainly a munificent gift, when it is considered that the workmen have not a dollar invested in the concern.

The restless energy of Merchant & Co., the importers of Gilbertson's old method and the Camaret brands of roofing plates, again expresses itself in another new departure. Far from being contented with their former guarantee of weight and quality, they now announce that their whole list of plates, including "Gilbertson's old Method," "Camaret," Merchant's Dipped Bright and Edgewater Bright, shall have, hereafter, the actual net weight branded on every particular box. This is driving the nail and clinching it, and practically makes deception and imposition impossible. It is only a fair proposition after all, and places the responsibility for false weight just where it belongs. No architect, nor builder, nor roofer, wants to be the innocent advocate of roofing plates of any kind that are intended to deceive, and Merchant & Co. will receive the endorsement of every reputable house dealing in roofing plates in this county.

A Bridge Over the English Channel.

The London Times states that a scheme for the erection of a bridge over the English Channel is in active consideration among French capitalists and engineers. The projected bridge would be 22 miles long, resting on piers of concrete and masonry 160 feet long by 100 broad, placed at intervals of 550 yards. The causeway of the bridge would be 160 feet above the sea level, to permit the passage of ships, and would be 100 feet wide. The estimated cost is $200,000,000. It appears that the channel is not so deep as it is generally supposed. There are shallows out from Folkestone not over twenty feet from the surface, the depth from these shallows to the shore on either side varying from 100 to 160 feet.

At Madison (P. O. town), Dane county, Wis., a new Catholic church, to cost $12,000, will be built next spring. Capt. John Naden, architect, has the matter in charge. He has also prepared plans for the St. Antonius Hospital building, to cost $25,000.

MISCELLANEOUS.

At Old Fort (P. O. town), McDowell Co., N. C., a new flour mill will be erected by J. Kelly.

At Albany (P. O. town), Dougherty Co., Ga., Mrs. T. T. May will build a brick hotel.

At Toledo, Ohio, the Glendon Iron Wheel Company is now building a $200,000 factory.

At Jackson (P. O. town), Jackson Co., Ohio, a new rail mill 330x100 feet is to be erected, and the foundations are now being laid.

At Tallapoosa (P. O. town), Haralson Co., Ga., a broom factory will be built by Baker & Leech.

At Neunan (P. O. town), Coneta Co., Ga., Parks & Arnold will erect a large carriage factory.

At Talladega (P. O. town), Talladega Co., Ala., write Pittenger & Crane, who will start a new cigar factory.

At Atlanta, J. W. Wooten and J. B. Wooten, of Cincinnati, Ohio, will, it is said, build a brewery to cost $250,000.

At Macon, Ga., the South Baptist Macon church congregation will build; J. L. Thigpen can give information.

At Decatur (P. O. town), Morgan Co., Ala., S. H. Gruber will erect a three-story brick building 50x100 feet.

At Columbus (P. O. town), Muskagee Co., Ga., the Columbus & Western Railroad Company will erect a freight depot.

At Augusta, Ga., write the Hon. Patrick Welsh, who is editor and proprietor of the Augusta Chronicle, as to new building (before reported) that he will erect there.

At Gadsden (P. O. town), Etowah Co., Ala., L. Smith and E. Smith, of Goodwater (P. O. town), Coosa Co., Ala., will erect a two-story building 50x125 feet.

At Pineville (P. O. town), Bell Co., Ky., J. Gibson will receive proposals for new Court House, Jail and Jailer's residence until January 25th.

At Warrior Station (P. O. town), Jefferson Co., Ala., J. M. Faust, of Blount Springs (P. O. town), Blount Co., Ala., will erect a bank building.

At Fort Smith (P. O. town), Sebastian Co., Arkansas, Architects Lee & Roth have made designs for a new Cumberland Presbyterian Church to cost about $10,000.

At Milwaukee, Wis., Messrs. Kieckhefer Bros. & Co., will build a large warehouse and factory on Fowler street, between Ninth and Tenth streets, next spring.

At Birmingham (P. O. town), Jefferson Co., Ala., the Powell school building will cost about $35,000, contracts not let. S. J. Hall can give information.

At Washington, D. C., Francis Mejasky will erect three brick dwellings on lots 1534 to 1538 Blake street. At same place J. B. Johnson will build a frame chapel for the Howard University to cost $900.

At Denver, Colorado, architect Wm. Quayle has made plans for the Green Lake hotel to be erected next spring. It is to be 230x190 feet, three stories high. The plans have been accepted.

At Akron (P. O. town), Weld Co., Colorado, architect Wm. Lang has made plans for a new school house. He is now engaged on plans for a new block of stores 70x125 feet. Pressed brick and stone will be used.

At Macon (P. O. town), Bibb Co., Ga., the Atlantic, Birmingham & Kansas City Railroad Company will erect machine shops. Hon. Henry D. Capers, of Adairsville (P. O. town), Bartow Co., Ga., can give information.

At Bessemer, Ala., Messrs. McCrossin Bros and Thomas, builders, have contracted with the Carolina Real Estate Company to erect a 4-story brick and terra cotta building 300x80 feet, for $125,000; also a 2-story brick and terra cotta building for a syndicate, 300x75 feet, to cost $45,000.

At Norwich (P. O. town), New London county, Conn., the Baltic Cotton Mills, destroyed by fire in October last, have been bought by Wm. A. Slater, of Norwich, who, with a son of ex-Gov. Sprague, will rebuild the mill of granite. The old mill was 800 feet long and supported a village of 5000 people, and was the second largest cotton factory in the world.

At Atlanta, Ga., C. K. Maddox and C. E. Lucas are agitating the question of new car works for that city, and have recently presented some very strong arguments in its interest in the Atlanta Constitution. This is a great opening for Philadelphia capital, and these gentlemen will cheerfully furnish information. At same place, it is stated that the new $100,000 opera house, which T. G. Healy proposes to build, is a sure thing for 1888.

At Milwaukee, Wis., the Chicago and North Western Railroad Company will erect a new depot on Wisconsin street, the principal entrance will be on that street, and will have a tower 170 feet high; the material to be used will probably be brick and brown stone with red tile roof. PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, JAN. 9, 1888.

PHILADELPHIA and Camden together ought to be enterprising enough to build a bridge across the Delaware River.

CHICAGO claims to have built during 1887 over seventeen miles of building fronts, not including school houses and churches.

It looks as though the surplus is to be utilized in the erection of government buildings, bills having been presented for the erection of such structures in Wilkesbarre, Allegheny, Chester, Lancaster, York and Altoona.

With this number the Real Estate Record and Builders' Guide, enters into the third year of its existence with a goodly number of readers in this city and State, and adjoining States it feels assured of its place in the business world, and looks forward to a bright and prosperous future.

The improving construction in large buildings is shown in a declining fire loss. During the past three years the number of fires was 3,361, involving a total loss of $5,490,422. In 1885 the fire losses numbered 1171; in 1886, 1102; in 1887, 1088. The figures for 1887, for losses, were fifty per cent. less than 1886. This improvement can be kept up, and architects, builders and business men are contributing everything in their power to reduce the percentage.

NEARLY all of our Philadelphia builders are in the field, so to speak, for action. Mr. Shoch has on his war paint and will build more houses this year than last. Mr. Matchett has extensive operations in view in the southern section of the city. The builders in West Philadelphia are preparing to carry the war into Africa. Houses have rented and sold remarkably well. John Mundell has a lot on Forty-first street and is credited with the intention of building quite extensively this year.

THERE is certainly something wrong with the management of the gas works. That institution, through the rigid economy of Director Wagner, may be making some money, but at too great a cost to the comfort and safety of our citizens: for at times some of our streets are quite as dark as if the street lamp had never been introduced. As to houses, many families have been compelled to purchase oil lamps to help them out. The gas, under the worst phases of the old trust rule, was never so bad as it is now, and the fact is, we have gone from bad to worse. Of course, the increased demand would make some difference, but the present management is not equal to the necessities of the case. Under the old trust, the present condition of our gas supply, in both quality and quantity, would have raised a howl from both press and public; now there is hardly a whimper.

THERE is but one way to prevent the misery and shame that falls upon those unfortunate persons who, although innocent of any wrong themselves, must suffer from the weakness and dishonesty caused by the defalcation of relatives, who, as trusted employees of financial and business concerns, fall through the wicked and culpable want of a proper espionage. That way, simple and inexpensive as it is, seems to have escaped the lynx-eyed officers of our institutions and business men, notwithstanding the almost daily examples of the weakness of human nature when intrusted with keeping of accounts and the handling of large sums of money. There is an English method of employing public accountants, not as detectives, nor because the integrity of employees is questioned, but on the general principle of auditing and verifying the work of the counting-room at stipulated periods during the year, regulated by the amount of business done. These accountants practically take possession of the books and papers of the concern and examine them in the self-same methodical, cold-blooded manner with which an experienced and trusted lawyer examines the merits of a case brought him by a client. They are entrusted with the secrets of the concern, and are thoroughly loyal to those who employ them, because disloyalty means loss of employment and a bad name. Their reputations are at stake, and with the public accountant reputation is everything. The sooner the public accountant comes to be regarded as a regular visitor to the counting-rooms of America the sooner will society be relieved of these sorrowful scenes of esteemed and trusted men dragging down their wives and children to shame and misery, and the sooner will officers and employers be relieved of the anxiety which now weighs them down and diverts their minds from business, which must be neglected because of the tireful detail and worryment of watching those around them. There is no sentiment in the question, neither does the introduction of an accountant carry with it an implication that employees are dishonest. The accountant soon becomes to be looked upon as a factor in the business, and is respected accordingly. When the public accountant is used to prevent crime instead of, as now, in detecting it, then and not until then defalcations and embezzlements will become fewer.

It is high time that the Fire Marshal looked into the question of construction, inside and out, of the theatres of this city. The safety of the patrons of these places of amusement is sacrificed in order that increased seating capacity may be obtained. The patrons of the fashionable high-priced parts of these theatres have no idea of the true condition of things in the balconies and galleries, and the chances are even that the fire marshal seldom, if ever, gets above the parquet circle. In some of the theatres the aisles are entirely too scarce and the rows of seats too long, besides which, the exits are constructed in such a manner as to ensure the maiming and killing of hundreds of people in case of panic. There is too little old-fashioned rigid and imperative handling of these questions involving the safety of the people, and entirely too much pampering to those who have favors to bestow. The intention and purpose of the Bullitt Bill were to place the responsibility for the safety of the public on the shoulders of the Director of the Department of Public Safety, and unless steps are taken to correct these evils, the people may learn, at bitter cost, that the department and its name is little better than an expensive delusion, notwithstanding its euphonious title.

THE present is as good a time as any for builders to place their contracts for gas fixtures, lamps and other interior finishings, as manufacturers are disposed just now to bid for business for the coming year at reasonable prices. Attractive architectural effects are produced in gas fixtures at a comparatively low cost, and there is quite a spirit of competition between the larger manufacturers for orders from builders who need large quantities.

LAWYERS are in the habit of sending in bills for what the biller supposed was an innocent conversation, sometimes had in a street car or on a street corner. The bills are generally paid and the billers are more careful in future. The architects have not yet got things down so fine, but there is no reason why they should not. A case is mentioned where a prominent Mrs. T. of New York, had several professional conversations with a prominent architect of that city, relative to the plans of an opera house. The architect did not secure the work when it was given out, though he expected it and had good reason to expect it. He sued for $3,750, but was beaten in court.

SOME New York architects of an engineering turn of mind have been picking up some handsome fees in the tunnel enterprises that are agitating a good many New Yorkers. Philadelphia had the chance of a tunnel but did not accept it. No doubt New York will soon be tunneled, not only for the accommodation of her own people, but for the accommodation of railroad travellers. Tunneling in Philadelphia can be put off a long time, but it is an enterprise which could be made to pay now if pushed.

If the present enthusiasm, if not craze, for what might be called foreign architecture is kept up, one will, in a few years, imagine himself in some foreign city, instead of New York or Philadelphia. Comparisons are decidedly in favor of innovations from every standpoint. Western cities are taking to these foreign improvements, rather than Eastern people. Chicago is credited with being far ahead of every other city in this respect. A Philadelphia architect, who has been among the Chicagoese "taking notes," says, "It puts new thoughts into one, starts new inquiries, and stimulates a more vigorous activity in the minds of the architects, more than is done in any other city in the country." When we come to have an architectural school, a trip to Chicago will be one of the graduating course requirements, no doubt.

CONVENTIONAL rules are disappearing one by one among the architects of our larger buildings, churches and the finer class of dwellings. It is becoming the rule to produce something decidedly different each time. Architectural ability is developing itself under this go-as-you-please race more rapidly than it could be developed by any amount of study over books, older systems, or old masters. European styles are good to look at, but not to follow. They are suggestive, and stimulate the original American mind. There is a wide field for improvement in interior work, but the ideas heretofore prevailing among builders make it difficult for the architect to incorporate any grand or excellent ideas. More space is wanted for halls, rooms, alcoves and for windows, in order to give the proper effect to fine work. In our finer class of residences there is an effort being made to meet the requirements in this direction. Heretofore house building has been conducted on the exclusively utilitarian idea. The Roman style of architecture will naturally come into use when house builders can be induced to expend sufficient money and space.

TYPHOID fever is becoming entirely too prevalent in this city to be pleasant to contemplate. West Philadelphia is full of it. The Board of Health of this city should look into the character of the water we are drinking, as it may be the direct cause of this disease. When it is remembered that an analysis of the water used at Pittsburg, South Side, demonstrated the alarming fact that every tumblerful contained thousands of typhoid germs, it is certainly suggestive of the necessity for an occasional scientific scrutiny of sweet Schuylkill's choicest offerings.

NOTWITHSTANDING the protection that is given to American industries, figures show that in the ten years from 1877 to 1887, Germany's exports to America have increased $50,000,000. In 1877, Germany sent to this country goods to the amount of $27,000,000, while in 1887 goods to the value of nearly $87,000,000 were sent. Less than 14 per cent. of the immense carrying trade of the United States to and from foreign countries is done in American vessels. Admiral Porter, of the navy, is reported as having said that he had figured from trade statistics that during the last eight years the sum of $1,200,000,000 has been paid by American importers and exporters in gold and silver to the owners of foreign ships for freight and passage money, and it has been stated by the American consul general at Berlin, "that at many of the German seaports not a single American vessel was entered during the year."

BUILDERS and real estate operators are following what they believe to be the future line of travel of population in the buying of real estate and the building of houses. The northwestern and southern sections of the city have been the favorite fields of operation for the past two or three years. It is now a question whether house building on a large scale can be safely prosecuted very much farther upon these two lines. The difficulty in the way is the lack of quick transit. If manufacturing establishments followed house building and employment in general followed closely upon the heels of house renters, then building could be pushed on as it has been. But a considerable portion of those who will be buyers and renters of real estate are those who are engaged in the business and manufacturing sections of the city, and one of their most urgent requirements is to get to and from work as quickly as possible. This necessity has led to a good deal of suburban house building and lot buying in order to use the steam roads. Several large builders say the demand for such suburban properties will be greater next year than it has been during the past. Other builders say there will be no diminution in house building in the neck region or in the northern sections of the city. The large purchases that have already been made in both sections go to prove that builders are in earnest.

New York architects are interested in bringing about a union of architects, sculptors, artists and decorators, and thus form a great architectural guild.

DIXIE has outdone Dixie in its holiday number. Good always, it is now one of the best of the many Southern publications issued. It is full of healthy reading matter and valuable information as to our brethren and what they are doing in the new South. War has its many evils, and few blessings, but Dixie is one of the blessings.

Burning the Dead.

The custom of burning the dead is growing in popularity more every year. Almost every large city in this country has its cremation society. Crematories have already been established in New York, Lancaster, Pa., Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Boston, New Orleans, Philadelphia, Louisville, Chicago, Baltimore, San Francisco, St. Louis, La Crosse, Wis., Davenport, Ia., San Antonio, Tex., Buffalo, Worcester, Los Angeles and Newark. In Germany societies have been organized at Schleswig, Nordhausen, Eger, Main, Potsdam, Liegnitz, Chemnitz, Elberfeld, Bonn, Frankfurt-on-the-Main, Coeln, Hainichen, Heidelberg, Rheda, Kollberg and Bremen. In Paris crematories are now legal, and the municipal council of Paris authorized the erection of three crematories in the Pere la Chaise cemetery according to the Gorini system. The crematory belonging to the cremation society of England, erected by them at St. John's, Woking, Surrey, was used for the first time on March 26, 1885. The Italian government ordered the building of a crematory on Gorini-Gozzi's system for the cholera hospital at Parignano, which was completed in 1885. Crematories have also been erected at Florence, Pisa, Cosmo and Livorno.

COSTLY HALLS.

MAGNIFICENT ENTRANCES THE FASHION IN GOTHAM MANSIONS.

The entrance hall is the biggest, the most imposing, the costliest and by long odds the handsomest apartment in a modern New York house of the first rank. New Yorkers of wealth and taste have entirely abandoned the straight hall of the narrow block-house where the stairs go straight up and the narrow passage to the back parlor and basement stairs go straight back. Instead they have made the hall the center feature of the establishment, to which, if necessary, everything else is subordinated. The new type of hall is elaborate in its architectural features, richly antique in its furnishings, and if the mistress of the establishment has any taste whatever for large decorative effects it is upon the hall that she lavishes them. The hall, indeed, is so much of a hobby that people build new houses in order to have halls.

It is not an unknown thing to give up the whole first floor to the hall, putting the parlor on the second floor. Whether the hall be big or little, its furnishing is a thing to which its mistress is giving much attention nowadays. To be quite perfect it should be done up in old oak, and have "settles" standing about in room of chairs. It should have a big oak table, a smaller one to hold the silver salver, on which a guest's card is taken to the lady of the house, and its floor should be of oak, polished till it shines. The hall is of quite as much consequence as the drawing-room.—Albany Argus.

An Important Court Decision.

During July, 1867, Christianna B. Schumacher, a married woman, bought at Sheriff's sale a property located on Richmond street, this city. She received a deed from her Sheriff in September of the same year. The property was sold by the sheriff upon a judgement obtained for arrearage of ground rent, the same having been entered in the month of November, 1866, and there remained in the Sheriff's possession $33.25 above costs. In January, 1870, the Sheriff again sold the property for city taxes, amounting to $44.32, due in 1860 and filed in the Prothonotary's office in 1865, upon which judgement had been entered in February, 1866, at this sale one John Kuntz became the purchaser, who failed to obtain possession from Mrs. Schumacher, Kuntz then brought action of ejection against Mrs. Schumacher, which was tried last week before Judge Arnold in Common Pleas, No. 4. Judge Arnold held that Mrs. Schumacher's title should prevail and that Kuntz took nothing under the Sheriff's sale. The Judge said that before the second sale could have been legally made, notice of the proceedings under which it was held should have been given to the then registered owner. The opinion of the court settles the law as follows:

"We think that before execution was issued the registered owner should have been warned to show cause why the property should not be made 'subject to sale,' and that the failure to warn him is fatal to the title of the plaintiff." Judgment was accordingly entered in favor of John Schumacher, in right of his wife, Christianna B. Schumacher.

Alaska, according to Governor A. P. Swineford, has a total population 39,400—divided as follows: White, 5,000; creoles (particularly white), 1,800; aliens, 2,300; natives (particularly educated and civilized), 3,500. Total civilized population, 12,600; naturalized natives, 26,800; $10,000,000 is the estimate of the value of taxable property, exclusive of the Alaska Commercial Company's establishments on the Sea Islands. The mine and mill on Douglass Island turns out monthly $100,000 solid bullion. The fur trade is practically monopolized by the Alaska Commercial Company. It has by the power of its great wealth driven away all competitors, and reduced the native population to almost absolute slavery.

Dangerous Hot-Water Boilers.

TYRONE, Pa., Dec 17, 1887.—[To the Editor.] There is one thing about hot-water boilers which, if neglected, makes them dangerous. It is old to me, but may not be to some plumbers, and I think it was neglected in the boiler at the Kirby house in Milwaukee.

The way to prevent the water from being drawn from a boiler is to make a small vent hole about 1/8-inch in diameter, in the cold-water delivery pipe just inside the top of the boiler, and it will be impossible to draw the water out then at the cold-water bibb. If this vent is not provided, the water may be drawn out of the boiler down to the level of the cold water bibb, and if there is a good fire in the range, it can be drawn down as low as the tube reaches, as the less water there is in the boiler, the more [quicker?] steam will be generated. I think this was the case at the Milwaukee explosion.

I have frequently had mains to boilers under my care frozen all winter. All I have been obliged to do was to keep the boiler full of water. I never have had any trouble, and in this case there was a boiler of one hundred gallons capacity which would not have generated steam enough to have caused an explosion if it was full of water and the hot-water bibb open.

I have put in several jobs with the boiler on the second floor about twelve feet above the range. They have the vent in the cold-water tube, and it is impossible to draw the water out of them at the bibbs in the cellar. It can only be taken out at the sediment cock. This vent does not interfere with the circulation or in heating the water.—G. L. Burley in the Sanitary News.

An Absolute Non-Conductor.

An absolute non-conductor, insensible alike to heat or cold and absolutely fire proof, has at last been discovered in pulverized paper. I tried the discovery last winter by packing the drain and water pipe of my residence with it, and all the pipes are on the outside of the building, and the season was the severest of many years. My plumbing did not cost me twenty-five cents. As a covering for steam pipes it acts equally as well. Pulverized paper, I repeat, is an absolute non-conductor.—Globe-Herald.
